Two Great Corpses.

Europe Irritated?

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

IMPORTANT news is the arrival of the courageous air travelers from Ireland. For the second time men have succeeded in flying the Atlantic, coming westward.

Soon, of course, regular flights at stated hours will be provided for passengers.

And only a little while ago the idea of any flying was ridiculed. Men progress quickly, once they start.

KING GEORGE and Queen Mary joined with others yesterday in celebrating the end of 17 years' work that has restored St. Paul's Cathedral in London to a safe condition.

The fine old building is worth saving.

And in its vaults under heavy stone monuments lie what is left of two bodies more important to the modern British Empire than any other two.

They are Wellington and Nelson, not far apart, resting in solemn half-darkness.

THE STORY is still current that Nelson was buried hurriedly because it was necessary. When shot down on his flagship he was put into a cask of rum, at sea, to preserve his corpse from decay, as was customary with important dead sailors, and other sailors are said to have drunk the rum through a hole in the barrel, leaving the admiral without protection, or preservation. The story is not proved.

THE UNITED STATES considers claiming ownership of great areas over which Rear Admiral Byrd flew recently in the Antarctic. We may follow the example of Great Britain and other nations, saying "That land is ours, for we saw it first." It would add 150,000 square miles to our possessions.

THE LAND and open sea in those regions are valuable already, the water for whale fishing and other live crops, the land for its mineral possibilities.

In years to come, with the shifting of the Poles, those lands will be warm and fertile. But that will be thousands of years hence. By that time the earth's governments may think only of making land useful to all human beings, not about grabbing and owning.

OFFICER HELD IN THEFT

Constable Jack Schneider, of First Ward, waived hearing and was held for court today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg in Central Police Court, on charges growing out of the arrest of Harry Andreini in connection with the South Hills Trust Company holdup, June 16.

Schneider was charged with being accessory after the fact to escape, robbery and burglary. Patrolman Fred Smith had accused Schneider of influencing him to release Andreini after the latter was found in a stolen car with a gun in his possession last March.

Andreini was held for court on additional charges of burglary, robbery and carrying concealed weapons in the holdup of the South Hills Trust Company messenger, John B. Stauff, and fleeing with $2,500.

Harry Manning, accused with Andreini, was held on one charge of robbery in the same holdup. Andreini was held Saturday for the holdup of Regis Carr, in 1928, in the latter's home, 509 West Lacock street, North Side.

3 Banker-Convicts Will Be Paroled

JACKSON, Mich., June 26.—(INS.)—After serving only five months of six-month-to-20-year prison sentences, three former Flint bankers, who were convicted of participation in the embezzlement of $3,000,000 from the Union Industrial Bank of that city, will be released on parole from the Jackson State Penitentiary tomorrow, it was learned today.

Those who will be set free are Robert P. Brown, Robert O. McDonald and Clifford A. Plumb.

Mae Murray Sues Tiffany Productions

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Mae Murray, motion picture actress, filed suit against Tiffany Productions, Inc., asking $300,000. She said she appeared for the corporation in eight pictures, in which she contracted for a percentage interest. She charged that she should have received at least $300,000, but that the company gave her a statement saying her share was $12,500.

NEW YORK THRONGS AWAIT OCEAN FLIERS

BULLETIN.

International News Service.

After battling wind and fog, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and the crew of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Southern Cross, winged southward along the North Atlantic coast this afternoon, were nearing Roosevelt Field, where a hero's welcome awaits the first airmen to span the ocean from Europe to an American airport.

At 2:30 p. m., Pittsburgh time, Kingsford-Smith had covered more than two-thirds of the 1,500-mile trip from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, where the giant tri-motored plane landed yesterday after the ocean crossing, to Roosevelt Field.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

International News Service.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 26.—Everything was in readiness at Roosevelt Field today for the arrival of Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions of the Southern Cross who are flying here from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, where they were forced to land yesterday, after achieving a successful east-to-west flight across the North Atlantic Ocean.

They are expected to swoop down into this big field about 6 o'clock this afternoon.

The vanguard of the huge crowd that will be on hand to greet Kingsford-Smith and his crew began arriving shortly before noon.

They came by train from New York, by automobile and a few by airplane. Thirtyfive special police were assigned to handle the throng of visitors.

ROUSING RECEPTION

George W. Orr, president of Roosevelt Field, and Capt. J. Nelson Kelly, director of flying, said all accommodations would be available for the incoming fliers.

Last week the facilities of the William B. Leeds hangar was offered to Kingsford-Smith by cable to Ireland and today Kingsford-Smith radioed that he would use

MUTILATING TREES AROUSES OFFICIALS

City Forester James L. Grimes today began an investigation into the defacing of city shade trees along flouth Eighteenth street, in the vicinity of St. Michael's Cemetery, allegedly by workmen employed by the General Outdoor Advertising Company.

The explanation of the two bill-posting "tree surgeons" was that they had orders from their superiors to lop off the lower branches of the trees which hid the flambuoyant billboards from view of passersby.

They were asked:

"Have you a permit?"

One replied:

"I don't know nothin' about permits. All I know is I'm gettin' four bucks a day and I don't ask questions."

City Forester Grimes declared it to be unlawful to cut city shade trees unless with the consent and under the supervision of the forestry division. He added:

"I shall look into the matter at once, and I will enter prosecution against this advertising company without delay."

A city ordinance provides for a $50 fine for defacing shade trees, he declared.

Officials of the General Outdoor Advertising Company, asked for a statement, promised to investigate the matter and declared an explanation would be given later.

Death Takes Stutz, Auto Manufacturer

INDIANAPOLIS, June 26.—(AP.)—Harry C. Stutz, widely known automobile designer and manufacturer, died here today from complications which followed an operation for appendicitis. He was 53 years old.

CONGRESSMAN'S KIN ABANDON HOPE AS PATIENT SINKS

Congressman Stephen G. Porter, outstanding figure in a world-wide fight to control the distribution of habit-forming drugs, was reported today as "sinking rapidly" in the Allegheny General Hospital.

Suffering with cirrhosis of the liver, he has been a patient there since June 11.

His only daughter, Mrs. Richard S. Baron, is en route from Rhode Island to her father's bedside.

OTHER KIN SUMMONED

Other relatives were summoned to his bedside today. They included L. K. William and Cyrus H. Porter, brothers; Stephen D., John and Clarence D. Porter, nephews; Miss Rosetta Porter, a niece; former Police Magistrate E. M. Hough and Mrs. Hough, Mr. and Mrs. John Hamshur. Mrs. Hough and Mrs. Hamshur are nieces. Congressman Porter's wife died 10 years ago.

Since being brought to the hospital, flowers from the White House conservatory have been received every other day, the gift of President Hoover.

A cablegram was received from Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese ambassador to London, expressing regret over the congressman's serious illness. They were associated in the narcotic conference at Geneva.

SECRETARY AT HIS SIDE

Edmund P. Erk, secretary to Mr. Porter for 20 years, has been constantly at his side since he was stricken, more than two months ago.

Congressman Porter's illness dates to a breakdown on shipboard, two months ago, when he was returning from London. He was taken at first to the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, then brought to Pittsburgh.

His condition gradually became worse until yesterday it reached the stage where death seemed imminent.

PHILADELPHIA JOB ED PENNINGTON

came known that some unexpected hitch had developed.

The muddle has resulted in all sorts of rumors. Pennington's friends insist the job had been promised him and that powerful enemies made during his enforcement work blocked the appointment.

In Washington it was said semi-officially that the whole mixup, which has aroused Pennington's friends here to a high pitch of suspicion and protest, was simply a case of two good men—Pennington and Wynne—wanting the same job and that it couldn't be given to both of them.

Wynne, having been in Philadelphia several years, wishes to remain and apparently will do so,

VETS' BILL VETOED; NEW ONE UNDER WAY

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—President Hoover's veto of the Rankin World War veterans compensation bill was sustained by the House today by a vote of 188 to 182.

Immediately after the vote the House began consideration of the administration's substitute pension plan in an effort to pass it within two hours.

The veto was approved after a dramatic fight during which all of the power of the administration was brought to bear upon the huge Republican majority in the House.

The Republican side broke into prolonged yelling and cheering when Speaker Longworth announced that the veto was sustained and the Rankin bill had been killed.

Democrats made a vain fight against the Republican leadership, charging "gag rule" and

STATE WAITS REPORT TO CERTIFY PINCHOT

The argument about who is the Republican nominee for governor will be cleared up, to some extent at least, as soon as the commissioners of Luzerne County certify their returns to James Walker, secretary of the commonwealth.

At the office of the Commissioners of Luzerne County it was said today that they are awaiting an order from the Luzerne County Court before making their certification to the state secretary.

Action on this order is expected within the next day or two, it was said at the office of the prothonotary of the Luzerne County Court.

Secretary Walker told the Sun-Telegraph, over the telephone, that he was waiting only for official word from the Luzerne commissioners before making his own official certification.

He declared that unless the Supreme Court issues a restraining order, he will accept the returns of the commissioners at their face value.

LOOKS LIKE PINCHOT

Then he made this significant remark:

"It looks very much to me as if I should have to certify that

eaking Tank Imperils Plane in Air 352 Hours; Equal Record on Sunday

CHICAGO, June 26. —AP.)—The four flying Hun-r boys, of Sparta, Ill., staked irtually all their money on an rplane endurance flight hich, if it is continued, will arpass the record at 6:01 'clock next Sunday morning.

They ended their three hundred nd fifty-second hour aloft at 40 a. m. today (Pittsburgh me).

Walter, the eldest, said they had oled their funds, expecting to alize at least $200,000 if the ight was successful.

The smooth sailing that had arked the flight for two gruel-g weeks turned rough last eve-ing when the first serious threat the success of the flight—a aky gasoline tank — developed. he tank under the left wing was e faulty one, and the circum-ance necessitated night refuel-g, with its hazards and difficul-es.

EPAIRS IN AIR

The flyers, in notes dropped to e field, said efforts were being ade to repair the tank, and they so spoke of the added caution eeded in handling the plane due the change of balance created the empty left wing tank.

Forest O'Brine and Dale Jack-n, of St. Louis, holders of the cord, kept their plane aloft 420 ours 21 minutes. The Hunters ope to keep their single-motored ip droning over Sky Harbor, a burban airport, 500 or more ours.

PROBE VICE ON NORTH SIDE

County detectives today were investigating charges contained in a letter to District Attorney Andrew T. Park that moonshine joints, gambling and clearing house lottery pools flourished on the North Side without interference by city police.

A city fire engine house was declared to be the headquarters for clearing house pool numbers and a prominent city official was named as among those frequenting a club where liquor, card games and chicken fights were the chief diversions.

The letter was signed by Thomas P. Abbott, who described himself as a citizen desiring to aid in law enforcement. He listed 13 places where he said the law was being openly violated, named those in charge of several and gave explicit directions on how to reach one place where he said liquor is being sold.

District Attorney Park turned the letter over to Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren with instructions to investigate the allegations at once.

Murren detailed Detectives James McGinley, Lawrence Klein and John Moser to visit the place set forth in the letter.

Slot machines, according to the writer, can be found in almost every small confectionery. Numerous disorderly houses are operated in East General Robinson and Lacock streets, he asserts, with women standing in the doorways.

Fear of Blindness Blamed for Suicide

PHILADELPHIA, June 26. —(INS.)—A fear of approaching blindness is believed responsible for the suicide of Joseph Dreayer, 65, former jeweler, who was found hanging from the third-floor bannister of his home here today. An eye malady had prevented him from obtaining work for more than three months.

LYSTER, WATTS AT WORKHOUSE

Grim and silent, Walter J. Lyster and Harold P. Watts, former industrial police, today entered the Allegheny County workhouse to begin serving sentences for the death of John Borkowski, Tyre miner.

Lyster will serve one year and Watts 10 months' sentence imposed by Judge W. M. Parker, of Venango County, where they were tried under change of venue. They were found guilty of involuntary manslaughter after having been freed of murder charges by a jury here.

The two arrived at the workhouse this afternoon by auto from Franklin, Pa., in custody of Sheriff E. M. Voorhies, and two deputies.

Superintendent Robert Braun of the workhouse said it is customary to give prisoners tasks as nearly as possible conforming to their occupation but that Lyster and Watts would be assigned to the broom and chair shops.

ANIMAL LOVERS DECORATE BYRD

NEW YORK, June 26.—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd today accepted a medal from the American Humane Association for "marked humane treatment accorded to the dogs in his Polar expeditions."

The presentation was made by Minnie Madden Fiske, the actress, a director of the association. Byrd thanked the donor and chatted about the 80 Newfoundland huskies which made the trip to the South Pole with him.

Grand Jury to Air Card Game Shooting

A coroner's jury today decided that Frank Rodi will await the action of the grand jury for the killing of James Hannan, 26, of 53 Congress street.

According to testimony at the inquest before Chief Deputy Coroner John S. Aldiefert, Rodi shot Hanna, April 30, after an argument over a card game at 1223 Fifth avenue. Hannan died May 30 in the Mercy Hospital from the shot, which penetrated his left thigh.

SAYS 70 VETS DIE DAILY

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—America's disabled World War veterans are dying at the rate of 70 a day while the Hoover administration opposes adequate legislation for their relief, Senator Cutting (Rep.), of New Mexico, charged in the Senate this afternoon.

Cutting, a warm supporter of President Hoover in the 1928 campaign, declared the President had been "misled" in opposing the pension bill just enacted by Congress. The senator said many of the President's statements were "incorrect," particularly one in which Mr. Hoover said all the men disabled in the World War had been cared for by the government. He also charged that "mismanagement" of the Veterans Bureau was "killing off" disabled veterans.

Oakland Plans Shaft To Kingsford-Smith

OAKLAND, Cal., June 26.—(AP.)—Plans are under way to place a monument to Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith at the airport here from which he took off May 31, 1928, on the epic world flight he continued from Harbor Grace, N. F., to New York today. If he returns from New York to Oakland by air he will realize a 10-year ambition to circle the globe by plane.

MERGER TRIAL DELAY SEEN IN LETTERS

Official Correspondence To Be Read at Hearing; Baker Denies Fraud

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 26.—(AP.)—At least a day's delay in the taking of testimony in the trial of a suit to prevent the billion-dollar merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation was indicated today with the introduction of voluminous correspondence between officials of the Youngstown concern and stockholders.

Attorney Luther S. Day, of Cleveland, head of the legal forces representing Myron C. Wick, Jr., and the International Shares Corporation, stockholders opposed to the merger, introduced the correspondence in an effort to prove his contention of fraud and concealment in negotiations leading up to the voting of the merger April 8.

The bulk of the file was composed of letters exchanged between the Youngstown management and the stockholders' merger opposition committee. Day indicated all the correspondence would be read into the record.

TO SCAN TRUNKS

He was expected to follow this with an inquiry into the contents of four trunks which were alleged to have been stored under an assumed name by an employe of the Youngstown company when the stockholders' committee opposed to the merger was seeking to examine certain records.

As former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker was bringing to a close his opening statement answering the charges of fraud made by Attorney Luther P. Day, there were awaiting to testify four witnesses alleged to be directly connected with the trunk affair.

BAKER MAKES DENIAL

Attorney Baker, who represents the pro-merger forces, offered his "professional assurance" that the trunks contained nothing remotely resembling books, documents or records. He offered to prove his assertion "in a negative way."

To conclude his statement, Attorney Baker said he would prove to the court that the entire merger deal was fair and above board. He defended the stock voted at the Youngstown stockholders' meeting of last April 8 in favor of the merger.

DAY CHARGES FRAUD

Day, in his argument, said the transaction was illegal and declared 250,000 shares voted in favor of the merger were cast illegally. He claimed Campbell and Dalton virtually "conspired" to effect the merger.

He declared Campbell practically concluded negotiations before putting the proposal to his board of directors. Information concerning the merger was purposely withheld from Eaton, Day charged.

Runaway Girl, 10, Walked 20 Miles

CAMDEN, N. J., June 26.—(INS.)—A small, frail 10-year-old girl was found tired and hungry in a Camden park last night after she had walked 20 miles from her home in Norristown because, she said, her mother had whipped her.

The child, who gave her name as Mary Swallow, Norristown, begged the Camden police not to tell her mother, but early today she was turned over to her parents, who denied having mistreated her.

HOUSE UPHOLDS VETO OF VETS' AID BILL

"brow beating" to force the majority members in line.

Admitting that the Swick-Johnson pension substitute would be passed at an estimated average cost of about $50,000,000 a year, Representative Garner, of Texas, Democratic leader, predicted that the Senate would amend it to a point where it would cost more than the Rankin bill.

In his veto message bristling with displeasure the President listed numerous objections, chief of which was the so-called "presumptive clause," whereby a veteran's disability 12 years after the war ended would be "presumed" to have had its origin in military service.

HITS 'SUBTERFUGE'

He commented:

"This presents a wholly false and fictitious basis for legislation in veterans' aid.

"The spectacle of a government practicing subterfuge in order to say what did not happen in the war did happen in the war impairs the integrity of government, reduces respect for government, and undermines the morale of all the people.

"This bill in a wasteful and extravagant manner goes far beyond the financial necessities of the situation."

CITES HUGE COST

Next in his objections Hoover cited the cost of the measure. He estimated it would cost the Treasury $110,000,000 the first year, mounting to an ultimate annual cost of $235,000,000.

The President's message said in part:

"One of the most repugnant tasks which can fall to this office is to disapprove of measures intended to benefit our sick or disabled men who have served our country in war. Perhaps as much as any other person, I have full realization of the task, the hardships and the dangers to which the nation ordered its sons. But I want a square deal between veterans—not unjust discriminations between special groups, and I do not want wasteful or unnecessary expenditures.

"The country already generously provides for the 280,000 men whose health or earning power was impaired by their service in the war and for 91,000 dependents of the men who suffered or died.

"This measure except for a small part adds nothing to aid of veterans wounded or disabled in the war. It is a radical departure from our full commitment to provide compensation to men for war disability into the field of pension to men who have incurred disabilities as the incident of civil life since the war."

U. S. JOBLESS 2,298,588

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—On the basis of the recently completed national census, it was officially estimated today that there are approximately 2,298,588 jobless persons in the country.

These figures were arrived at by the director of the census, on the basis of returns covering one-fourth the total population of the country. It was found that among 29,264,480 people there were 574,647 unemployed, or about 2 per cent.

The largest volume of unemployment was for Ohio with 3.3 per cent of the population.

Fifteen counties of Pennsylvania reported 24,967 unemployed, or 2 per cent of the population, while five cities reported 5,235 unemployed or 2.2 per cent of the population.

Freak Chicago Storm Causes $200,000 Loss

CHICAGO, June 26.—(INS.)—Estimated damage of more than $200,000 was caused by a "freak" storm which struck several western suburbs of Chicago early today. Streets were flooded, trees blown down, and electric and telephone systems put out of commission by the heavy downpour of rain and accompanying wind which assumed hurricane velocity.

Beer—Near or Real Tastes Same, Rules Judge

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 26. —(INS.)—There's little difference in the taste of near-beer and the pre-Volstead product.

This is the belief of U. S. District Judge Louis Fitzhenry, who freed William Musselman, who was charged with selling beer. The jurist said:

"I tasted beer before it was unlawful and I've tasted near-beer since, and I can't tell the difference. I wouldn't want to punish this man because someone guessed that the beer in question had an illegal alcoholic conten'."

PENNINGTON NOT TO GET JOB

serving under the Treasury in the division of enforcement duties which takes place July 1.

OFFERED SAME TERRITORY

It was said also that to Pennington had been offered the same geographic territory — Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey — for prohibition enforcement under the Department of Justice.

It was declared also that he could become permit administrator in New York or anywhere else in the country that he desired. But the administrator apparently insisted on the Philadelphia permit station. Late today he had not given up the fight.

Some of his friends here believed he might resign if he did not get the Philadelphia permit post. Others discounted this.

PENNINGTON CONFERS

WASHINGTON, June 26. —(AP.)—John D. Pennington, prohibition administrator, conferred today with Prohibition Commissioner Doran and Amos W. W. Woodcock, new assistant attorney general in charge of enforcement, as a possible appointee to head prohibition forces in the district to include New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Deleware.

Both Pennington and Col. Samuel O. Wynne, have been mentioned as likely selections when dry law enforcement is placed under the Department of Justice on July 1.

It was understood Pennington was to be offered the position of administrator under the Department of Justice or supervisor of alcohol permits under the Treasury Department in any part of the country. It was said he would be given his choice of posts should he elect to remain in the alcohol division.

CHOICE UNCERTAIN

At the Treasury Department, it was indicated the selection of a new head for the Third district, which includes the three states of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, was proving a problem to the new prohibition commissioners.

Dr. Doran said a decision as to the new administrator would be reached late this afternoon.

In addition to administrators of enforcement and alcohol permits under the Justice and Treasury departments, each region is expected to have several division heads in charge of districts conforming with the federal judicial districts. In the new scheme, enforcement headquarters probably will be maintained in New Jersey at Newark, in Delaware at Wilmington, and in Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Scranton and Pittsburgh.

BIGGEST DISTRICT

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(AP.)—It became known today that Col. Samuel O. Wynne, prohibition administrator for Eastern Pennsylvania, will become supervisor of industrial alcohol permits under the Treasury Department for the district comprising Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

The district comprising Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware manufactures more industrial alcohol than any other district in the country, it producing about 60 per cent of the total national output, about 30,000 permits are issued in the district yearly.

FIGHT BEGUN TO ALTER TREATY

Rebellious Senators Draft Reservations to Uphold Strength of U. S. Navy

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 26. —The mounting heat of the capital was matched today by the increasing warmth of opposition to the London naval treaty.

Ignoring the round-robin signed by more than a score of senators pleading that consideration of the pact be put off until next November, President Hoover has reiterated his determination that the Senate shall ratify the treaty "if it takes all summer."

OFFER RESERVATIONS

The prompt response of the treaty opponents was the drafting of reservations which, if adopted, would vitiate some of the treaty's most important parts, and perhaps imperil its entire effectiveness.

Certainly three or four, perhaps as many as six reservations will be presented in the debate that will start soon after the regular session of the present Congress adjourns. The House will be allowed to go home, but the Senate will be called in special session and held here, according to administration plans, until it acts on the document.

One reservation to be offered will proclaim the right of the United States to build the type of ships best suited to American needs. This reservation strikes squarely into the heart of the treaty, which lays down the number of 8-inch and 6-inch guns cruisers to be maintained by all the governments involved, Great Britain, the United States and Japan.

Such a reservation meets the principal objections of the Navy general board to the treaty.

LONG FIGHT FORESEEN

Injection of the reservations means prolongation of the ratification fight. The foes of the treaty are grimly determined to stay on the job.

Difficulty of holding a quorum in the special session, in view of the heat and the almost universal desire to get away to look after political fences against the oncoming elections, is the chief worry of the administration.

Senator James E. Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, the majority leader, has estimated that perhaps a third of the membership will bolt the opening session after the initial roll-call and go home.

Meanwhile, the treaty fight continues unabated over the air.

SAVAGELY HITS TREATY

Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, last night broadcast the most savage attack on the treaty that has yet been delivered.

He declared that the effect of the treaty is to give Japan control of the east and Great Britain superiority in the Atlantic. To the United States, he said, is left only enough naval strength to protect American commerce in coastal shipping.

He commented bitterly:

"The American people are a strange people about some things. In the 1922 conference we were so out-traded by the British that it was pitiful, and all Americans now agree to that.

"Yet now, eight years later, we serenely allow the British to out-trade us again, and euchre us again into exactly the same place."

Fazio Gives Himself Up For Quiz

Philip Fazio, Clairton "wildcat" brewer, today surrendered to District Attorney Andrew T. Park for questioning regarding alleged charges he had paid $10 graft for each barrel of beer he sold. He is said to have denied that he made the charges.

District Attorney Park announced a conference will be held later in the week. It was revealed today that Fazio called Park two days ago and promised to appear. Fazio was accompanied by his attorneys, William H. Coleman and Frank Zappala, who defended him at the trial at which he was acquitted of the barrel murder of William Gregory, beer runner, in Penn Township.

Fazio admitted he had been on a vacation trip since his acquittal. He did not reveal where it was spent.

Poilus Give Blood to Save Two Gold Star Mothers

PARIS, June 26.—(INS.)—Two mbryo poilus, shortly to begin heir military service, paid a World War debt here today.

They gave their blood in sucessful transfusions to two Ameri-an Gold Star mothers, who had come to visit the graves of sons killed on French soil.

The mothers are Mrs. Annie Raymond, 76, of Riverside, R. I., and Mrs. Edwin Lange, 48, of Oshkosh, Wis. Physicians say there has been improvement in Mrs. Lange's condition but that Mrs. Raymond's remains stationary.

One of the soldiers was on the regular hospital blood donor list, but was at first rejected when the doctors found that he had given a quart of blood the preceding week. He insisted:

"I want to give my blood. It is my right. I was too young to fight for France so I want to do what I can for the woman who gave a boy for my country."

H refused the $25 fee and asked that his name be withheld, adding:

"I want no money. I may have done something worthwhile for an ally of France."

Made Trip With Byrd, Visits Kin Here

Frank Mitchell Paape, who was on the recent Byrd expedition and who arrived in New York with Byrd last week, is visiting at the home of his cousin, the Rev. Fred Kempster on Matthews street in Knoxville.

Mr. Paape gives an interesting account of his trips, this expedition being his first experience of the kind. His home is in Dunedin, New Zealand, and he gave up his position as book-keeper in the National Bank there to sign up as a seaman with Byrd.

His trips were made on the Eleanor Boling, supply ship to the City of New York, and he made 5 roun-trips to the Bay of Whales. He tells a vivid tale of the chillier regions of the Antarctic, and, in spite of all the hardships which he and his companions must have gone through, he refers to it all as a "pleasure trip" and a "nice vacation." There were icebergs of majestic proportions which made a terrific crash when they broke, there was the iciness of the weather which reached 74 degrees below zero, there was the formidable "barrier" beyond which traveling was nearly impossible, and there were cracks of alarming narrowness through which the ships had to pick their way with careful precision.

Mr. Paape is the son of A. A. Paape, proprietor of the Grand Hotel in Dunedin, New Zealand. After his visit in Knoxville, which is of indefinite duration, he intends to spend five or six years abroad studying hotel management—2 years in England and the rest of the time on the continent. This is Mr. Paape's first visit to the United States.

3 BOROUGHS GO ANTI-BLUE LAW

The results of the poll to date in the townships of Collier, Finley, Forward and Hampton will be published tomorrow.

The closed Sunday of Pennsylvania is stoutly opposed in three boroughs, Glassport, Glenfield and Greentree, filing substantial returns in the Blue Law poll of Allegheny County by the Sun-Telegraph.

The voters of each borough recorded their opposition to the existing law by casting about five votes for its repeal for every one in favor of its enforcement. The votes are divided:

	Glassport	Glenfield	Greentree
Enforcement..	46	10	8
Modification..	17	5	6
Repeal.....	244	46	42

The returns to date from the three boroughs total 424, representing nearly 25 per cent of the aggregate vote in these boroughs at the recent primary election.

The latest compilation of returns from the poll of the county shows a total of 54,207 ballots, of which 77 per cent favor repeal, 15 per cent enforcement and 8 per cent modification of the Blue Law. The ratio is five votes for repeal to each vote for enforcement. The division of the total is:

	Men	Women	Total
Enforcement	4,610	3,688	8,298
Modification	2,629	1,492	4,121

MUSMANNO FOR OPEN SUNDAY

Opportunity for repealing the Pennsylvania Blue Law has brightened considerably in the face of such an overwhelming discontent with the present law now evident throughout the state, Representative Michael A. Musmanno declared today in speaking at the luncheon of the Pittsburgh Aero Club in the William Penn Hotel. He said:

"The polls taken in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia show a vote of more than five to one for repeal. Certainly no conscientious citizen can be so smug as to assert that everything is as it should be. I am confident that the bill I will present at the 1931 session of the Legislature will be reported out of committee and brought to a vote, instead of dying in committee as in 1929."

Weather Conditions.

The weather is favorable to thunderstorms over a large area, covering the lake region, Ohio Valley states and the Central and Upper Mississippi Valley. This condition is due to a disturbance, centered over Eastern Ontario and extending down over the Ohio Valley states. A high pressure area, centered over the eastern slope of the Rockies, highest barometer reported, 30.20 inches, at Goodland, Kan., is attended by clear skies over most of the states west of the Mississippi, and moderately cool weather.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 1.0 feet; Look No. 7, 10.9; Pittsburgh, 11.0; Dam No. 4, 9.5; Dam No. 6, 8.0; Dam No. 9, 8.7, and Dam No. 12, 8.7. The dams are up.

Aviation Bulletin.

Thunderstorms are in progress over Northern Ohio and Indiana, where the ceiling this morning is only 500 to 1,000 feet. Elsewhere the ceiling ranges from 2,500 feet to unlimited. Visibility ranges from two to six miles. The wind is light from the Southwest.

Thunderstorm conditions will continue over this section during the next 24 hours, followed by fair weather Friday.

Water 'Eats' Cloth, Borough Complains

HARRISBURG, June 26.—(AP.)—Water supplied to the borough of Leechburg, Armstrong County, is dosed so heavily with chemicals that it has a bad taste and eats holes in linens washed in it, the burgess and town council of the borough declared in a complaint filed here today with the Public Service Commission. The complaint is directed against the Pennsylvania State Water Corporation, with district offices in Washington, Pa.

PARK GETS NEW VOTERS' LIST

A duplicate of the voters' list for the First District of the Sixth Ward which disappeared from the ballot box while the box was in possession of the special recount board, has been obtained by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, he has announced. He announced that he would continue his probe of votina in the district through the duplicate list.

The list Park has contains 550 names, equal to the number of ballots shown on the return sheet. The missing list is said to have had only 532 names, or 18 less than the number reported to have voted.

Park today explained that he obtained the list from the elections bureau of the County Commissioners' office the day after the original list is said to have disappeared. It is the list turned in by election officers to the commissioners, along with their regular returns.

The election board makes three copies of the voters' check list, one copy for the ballot box, another posted on the door of the polls and the third enclosed with primary return sheets and sent to the return board. It was the copy sent to the return board which Park obtained.

Park announced that he has questioned every one who had any connection with the recount board but all denied they had anything to do with the list disappearing from the box.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, running for state committeeman lost 151 votes in the recount being made by the special recount board under the supervision of Presiding Judge James R. Macfarlane according to a report filed today. The lost votes are in the Fifth District of the Second Ward. The report also covered the Sixth District of the Sixth Ward. There were no other material changes.

HELEN LEAVING OVER MAGDA

BUCHAREST, June 26.—(INS.)—Queen Helen of Rumania plans to leave here forever, probably to join her mother at Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, it was reported in court circles today.

The Queen's decision has been made because King Carol II, recently established on the Rumanian throne by a coup d'etat, refused to allow her to take charge of the education of Crown Prince Michael, their son, and because it seems likely that Carol's inamorata, Magda Lupescu, will come to Bucharest to join the monarch who renounced the throne he now occupies and went into exile with her.

The red-headed charmer, Lupescu, has been held in Vienna for several days by the illness of Mme. Dumitrescu, wife of Carol's secretary, who was accompanying her to Bucharest.

POPE REFUSES TO REST NOW

ROME, June 26.—(AP.)—Well-informed ecclesiastics here and in the Vatican City today believed Pope Pius XI would not allow himself a needed rest until after the public consistory of July 3. The Pontiff has been reliably reported as suffering with uremic poisoning and seriously ill.

By carrying on until July 3, it was pointed out, he would round out the ceremonies of his jubilee year, ending June 30. It was believed generally that the Pope's trusted advisers would urge him to take a long rest immediately after July 3, possibly profiting by his recently gained freedom to spend the remainder of the summer outside the Vatican.

It was pointed out that the semi-official denial of the Pontiff's illness really denied nothing, and did not convince the well-informed that their anxiety of the last few days has been groundless. Information is that the Pope is suffering with an old bladder ailment, and that physicians have discussed the advisability of an operation.

Adams Asks Funds To Improve 3 Ships

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—Secretary Adams today urged immediate authorization for modernizing three battleships as essential for the "reasonable effectiveness" of the fleet.

Before the House Naval Affairs Committee, which is considering bills to authorize $30,000,000 for modernization of the Idaho, New Mexico and Mississippi, the navy secretary said the fleet would be "crippled" unless the gun ranges of the ships were increased.

MISS MARY POWELL

ATLANTIC HERO 'WIRES' FIANCEE

LONDON, June 26.—(INS.)—Miss Mary Powell, pretty fiancee of Maj. Charles Kingsford-Smith, latest trans-Atlantic hero, was forced to remain abed today as the result of a severe sore throat occasioned by answering countless telephone calls since her husband-to-be successfully bridged the ocean, it was stated in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Melbourne.

Miss Powell received a cablegram from Maj. Kingsford-Smith today, the dispatch stated. It read:

"Another stage done. Cheerio. Much love."

The message was signed "Chilla," Miss Powell's pet name for her airman sweetheart.

Miss Powell was not worried by reports from Vancouver that Maj. Kingsford-Smith was planning to pilot a 16-passenger plane back across the Atlantic, then flying to Australia.

She said:

"Don't worry. I won't let him do it. He must hurry back here for our wedding on the sixth of September."

Southern Cross Pierces Fog After Hard Fight, Heads for New York

this hangar provided an oil company, one of the financial backers of the Ireland-to-New York flight, had not made other arrangements.

Plans for a rousing reception, New York's official greeting, were in the making as Kingsford-Smith and his crew sped down the coast line toward Roosevelt Field.

Grover A. Whalen, chairman, and other members of the mayor's welcoming committee, were scheduled to come to the field here from New York by automobile well before the Southern Cross lands.

HARBOR 'PARADE' OFF

The Mayor's official reception committee announced this afternoon that latest plans for the welcome to the fliers call for the city's official greeting to take place at 1 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

After their arrival at Roosevelt Field this evening the aviators are to go to a hotel in New York City for the night.

They will proceed to City Hall in autos tomorrow for the welcome, omitting that part of the traditional ceremonies which calls for a welcome beginning in the harbor, the committee announced.

Several planes are to take the air as the Southern Cross nears New York and escort her to the field.

At noon a radio was sent to Kingsford-Smith saying, "Arrangements O. K." This meant the Southern Cross would be taken to the Leeds hangar. Immediately work of roping off the hangar was begun.

Weather conditions at Roosevelt Field were magnificent. The day was clear and sunny and the visibility excellent. There was a light northwest wind which would give the Southern Cross the necessary lift for a good landing.

ON LINDBERGH TRAIL

GLOUCESTER, Mass., June 26.—(INS.)—After fighting fog for hours today on her hop from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to New York, the trans-ocean airplane Southern Cross, flying at 6,000 feet, came out of the banks of mist over Nova Scotia at 11 a. m., finding a "clear patch" and sighting land. The plane then headed for the New England coastline.

The Southern Cross passed Halifax, N. S., at 11:59 a. m., Pittsburgh time.

At 12:30 p. m. the radio operator of the Southern Cross found himself in a "dead spot" in the air, and when the plane came out of it he reported they were "flying low."

CALLS FOR BEARINGS

At 1:32 p. m. Pittsburgh time the Southern Cross was off the southern end of the Nova Scotia coast. The radio operator of the plane asked the radio operator at Yarmouth, N. S., to stand by while he got compass bearings, as the airplane headed for the Maine coast, the upper section of which was fogbound.

To judge from messages picked up at the Ten Pound island radio station of the New England coastguard service, the Southern Cross was taking a course inside the so-called "Lindbergh Air Trail," planning to circle over Lynn, Mass., and then head probably overland to New York.

SALUTE TO EXPLORERS

The Southern Cross, which had climbed over a mile to get clear of the fog, came through with this message at 11:00 a. m.:

"Found clear patch and came down to 1,000 feet. Now passing County Harbor, Nova Scotia, on our left. Weather good with sky partly overcast at 1,200 feet. Dead on course for Lynn over which we circle once to say to you cheerio Balchen and Melville."

Lynn, is the home city of Capt. Frederick C. Milville, skipper of the City of New York, one of the Byrd Antartic expedition ships. A welcome-home celebration has been arranged for him for today. He was to have Bernt Balchen, also of the Byrd party, as his guest. It was expected that other members of the Byrd expedition in this territory would join in the tribute to the mariner.

EASY TAKE-OFF

HARBOR GRACE, Newfoundland, June 26.—(INS.)—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions, first fliers to span the North Atlantic Ocean from east to west to land at a regular airport, left here today at 4:09 Pittsburgh time for New York, in their gallant plane, the Southern Cross.

The Australian ace, before leaving here shortly after dawn, said he would have to trust to his directional finding apparatus to reach his destination, as the plane's compass was not functioning.

The Southern Cross would take at least 12 hours flying time to negotiate the entire distance. She carried a load of 400 gallons of gasoline and a supply of oil.

"SAN FRANCISCO NEXT"

The four heroes of the world's latest air epic were refreshed and rested.

At breakfast, an hour before the take-off, they were in buoyant spirits over the prospect of reaching New York this afternoon.

Their stay in New York will be brief.

Kingsford-Smith said:

"We intend to fly to San Francisco from New York as soon as possible."

But for the misadventure of compass trouble, the Southern Cross might have continued on her non-stop course and reached New York or Portland, Me., yesterday.

Leaving Port Marnock, Irish Free State, at 11:30 p. m., Pittsburgh time, Monday, Kingsford-Smith headed out over the North Atlantic after passing over the west coast of Ireland at Galway. With him were his assistants—Evert Van Dyk, co-pilot; Capt. J. Patrick Saul, navigator, and John W. Stannage, radio operator.

Approaching the western half of their adventurous flight, the fliers found themselves in the treacherous fogs that cost the lives of so many aviators before them.

Flying aimlessly for hours, waisting precious gasoline, they were forced to land here to refuel after getting their bearings by radio.

Lindberghs' Messenger Boy Glad Big Rush Is Over

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 26.—(INS.)—Johnny Sullivan, the telegraph messenger boy who carried most of the messages of congratulation to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh when their baby was born, admitted today he was "pretty tired." The telegrams were still coming but the volume was steadily falling off and Johnny said he thought the end was in sight.

Considerable surprise was expressed in Englewood today because St. Louis and not Englewood or New York was given as the place of residence of the Lindberghs in the birth certificate of the new arrival. The baby has not yet been named and the name line on the certificate appeared blank.

The certificate records the following about Mrs. Lindbergh: Trade, profesion or particular kind of work done, flying. Industry or business in which work was done, aeronautical. Total time spent in this work, 1 year.

Shaw Voted 'Best Brains' Of England in Poll

LONDON, June 26.—(AP.)—Readers of the Spectator have voted George Bernard Shaw the "best brains" in the country. The journal circulates among a thoughtful class whose opinions of mental ability are regarded by the British as worth considering.

Results of a popular vote were: Bernard Shaw, 214; Sir Oliver Lodge, 183; Lord Birkenhead, 162; Winston Churchill, 95; Dean Inge, 91; H. G. Wells, 86; Lord Melchett, 62; David Lloyd George, 50; Phillip Snowden, 48; Sir John Simon, 45.

Ramsay MacDonald, the prime minister, received not a single vote. Stanley Baldwin got 13. Dr. Lang, archbishop of Canterbury, shared the premier's obscurity but his colleague, Dr. Temple, archbishop of York, had 32 votes.

Lord Reading was supported by 35, Sir James M. Barrie, the playwright, 15, and G. K. Chesterton, 17.

No woman received a vote.

IMPROVING LAW DUTY OF BAR, CHIEF SAYS

Burden Laid on Attorneys By Public, National Head Informs Pennsylvanians

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—Henry Upson Sims, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the American Bar Association, told the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Bar Association the bar of the nation should assume the responsibility of improving the administration of justice and keeping it abreast of the needs of society.

Commerce, industry and even the press do not hesitate to criticize and deride administration of justice, he said, adding:

"Where it is wrong, lawyers must correct it."

John W. Brooks, Erie, was mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Bernard J. Meyers, Lancaster, as president of the Pennsylvania association. Mention of Robert W. Smith, Greensburg, and R. H. Meloy, Washington, for the office was heard also. Officers will be elected Friday.

STATE READY TO NAME PINCHOT

Pinchot is the Republicanee for governor."

Pinchot, advised by telephone of this statement, replied from his home in Milford that he was grateful, but had no comment to make. He declared:

"My friends advise me to say nothing for the present."

Another development in the complex situatin came with the return from Europe of Mayor Harry A. Mackey, of Philadelphia.

CALLS IT INTERESTING

During his absence, the Mayor was mentioned as a possible candidate for governor on an anti-dry ticket. When the suggestion was called to his attention, he said, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Philadelphia, it was "interesting, but not persuasive," and added:

"This is a proposal that cannot be weighed lightly. The people of Philadelphia and the state may be assured that I shall give careful consideration to the advice of my friends in that connection."

Unofficial returns indicate Pinchot was nominated over Francis Shunk Brown, but Brown has been granted a hearing before the Supreme Court in Pittsburgh, September 29, on his petition to throw out the Luzerne County vote, the allegation being that ballots were mutilated by perforations to prevent fraud.

BROWN WOULD WIN

If the Luzerne County ballots were thrown out, Brown would be declared the winner of the nomination.

Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, was asked in Harrisburg if the state committee would recognize Pinchot if or when the Luzerne County vote, as certified to the State Elections Bureau, made him the nominee, pending the Supreme Court decision. Martin was quoted as saying:

"I don't know. There's plenty of time to worry about that."

USUALLY STARTS EARLY

The Republican state campaign usually gets under way at the biennial rally in Fogelsville, Lehigh County, the last of August or the first of September. Reminded of that, Martin declined to comment except to say:

"Everything will be worked out by that time."

The Supreme Court's decision on or after September 29 will determine whether Pinchot or Brown is to appear on the ballots in November as the Republican nominee.

Unless the loser had made preparations, he would be out of the race since September 5 is the last day for a candidate to file for a place on the ballot under a party that had not appeared on the primary ballot.

PARTY NAME PRE-EMPTED

To insure voters a chance to vote for Pinchot under a party acceptable to all his supporters, the name Independent Party, for state-wide use, was pre-empted at Harrisburg by authority of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, of Allegheny. Reports indicate this action will harmonize the movements all over the state.

McGovern, through Attorney Ralph Frank, also pre-empted, at the office of Prothonotary John Vogt, the name Independent Party for elective officers to be chosen in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County. These include councilmen, city controller and all county officials except sheriff and coroner.

Must Pay $157,437 For Postoffice Site

Owners of property condemned for the erection of a post office in Erie, Pa., will receive $157,437.50 by order Judge P. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court. The building for which condemnation proceedings were started four years ago will occupy the block between Peach and Sassafras streets and Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets.

Mexican Boxer Held In Attack on Girl

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(INS.)—Young Joe Rivers, well-known Mexican prize fighter, was in jail today charged with attacking Christine Buker, 19, who is suffering a fractured jaw, and head and body injuries that may cause her death. Rivers denied attacking her.

Today

appreciate the seriousness of the feeling of irritation against the United States throughout all Europe."

Well informed Americans know that Europeans hate this country, first, because they owe us money. The borrower never loves the lender. Then, there is plain jealousy. Those nations thought we ought to make their quarrels our quarrels, and agree forever, to send our men and money to take part in their fights.

BUT EUROPE'S "feeling of irritation" need not worry us.

Give the United States enough airplanes, submarines and swift cruisers, and you will find Europe's "feeling of irritation" completely offset by a more important feeling of respect. You don't need their love, if they fear you.

THE HOUSE has passed the bill to pay the war veterans about $102,000,000 a year additional. The President will veto the bill when it reaches him. The House is expected not to overrule his veto.

THE PRESIDENT, explaining his opposition to the bill, says it amounts to $70,000,000 a year more than the Legion itself demanded, and that the greater part of the money would be paid to men not incapacitated in the war, but incapacitated since the war.

This bill may play an important part in the next national election.

HENRY FORD will build at least six more big motorships, of 6,000 deadweight tons each, to carry his products across the oceans and to South America.

Gradually Mr. Ford is building up a private fleet as big, in proportion to our times, as that of Jacques Coeur, who helped the French king out of a bad hole, and, as a reward, was falsely accused of murdering Agnes Sorel.

Mr. Ford will get a better reward, let us hope.

WHILE Mr. Ford is building ships, perhaps he will use his mechanical genius experimenting with faster ships. His new motorships will make 16 knots an hour.

Some day somebody will build ships to make one hundred knots an hour. And that somebody might as well be Henry Ford.

AMONG "sad words of tongue or pen" the news includes Mr. Hoover's order that has sent all the wine glasses in the White House to be stored in a government warehouse.

Thin, delicately colored green and red glasses for Rhine wine, wide, generous champagne glasses, little glasses for brandy, all are sent away.

On White House sideboards and pantry shelves, the great American ice water glass will reign supreme.

HOWEVER, nothing lasts forever. The fact that one administration is dry does not mean that others shall eternally lack "cakes and ale." Other Presidents, other ideas, and other glasses. Mohammed forbade wine, Kemal approves it.

MISSOURI REED SILENT ON '32

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS.)—Declining to discuss the possibility he might seek the Democratic nomination for president in 1932 and denying he planned to run for governor of Missouri, former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, was in New York today en route to Europe. He will sail for Europe on the Bremen tomorrow, accompanied by Mrs. Reed and Representative and Mrs. William A. Rodenberg, of St. Louis, Ill.

Senator Reed attacked Wall Street and said it was strange the lawmakers should outlaw the lotteries and tolerate Wall Street."

Six Ribs Fractured, Sues for $40,000

John H. Hope, who sustained six fractured ribs, November 29, when struck by a truck of the Chatfield & Woods Company, has brought suit against the concern for $40,000 damages through his counsel, H. Fred Mercer. Hope says he was crossing the thoroughfare at South Fifth and East Carson streets at night, when run down. The truck, he avers, had no headlights. Besides receiving broken ribs, he was otherwise injured.

Woman, 75, Injured By McKeesport Auto

Mrs. Mary Floodstone, 75, of 1323½ Fifth avenue, McKeesport, is in McKeesport Hospital seriously injured as the result of being struck near her home last night by an automobile driven by George Dale, of 603½ Market street, McKeesport.

PRESBYTERIAN SYNOD IN SESSION

Greensburg Man Named Vice Moderator of State Meet at Chambersburg

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., June 26.—(AP.)—Committee activities of the past year were laid before the Presbyterian Synod of Pennsylvania at its business session here. The permanent organization was completed with the naming of Dr. W. G. Dugan, of Greensburg, as vice moderator, and the appointment of heads of four important committees.

The committee heads named were: Bills and overtures, Dr. William Curry, Philadelphia; judicial business, Dr. Calvin Hays, Blairsville; nominations and resolutions, Dr. E. L. McIllvain, Erie, and Presbytery records, Dr. George C. Miller, Butler. The 350 delegates yesterday afternoon conducted a memorial service.

The results of the election of trustees, the committee on national missions and the general council were announced as follows:

Trustees, Edwin Cross, Lewistown, and the Rev. George A. Atwell, Washington.

National missions class of 1933—The Rev. Floyd W. Barr, Beaver Falls; the Rev. H. M. Footer, Gatesboro; the Rev. S. Turner Foster, Carbondale; the Rev. John Harvey Lee, Philadelphia; the Rev. M. M. McDivitt, Pittsburgh; the Rev. Charles Z. Bell, Ellwood City, and the Rev. Guy D. Wingerd, Columbia.

General council class of 1933—The Rev. W. A. Atkinson, Rochester; the Rev. J. E. Giffen, Plumville; F. H. Ott, Towanda, and the Rev. Joseph L. Weisley, Forty Fort.

Vacancies in the general council class of 1931 were filled by the election of Van Dusen Rickert, Pottsville; the Rev. R. Matthew J. Hindman, Philadelphia; W. G. Dugan, Parnassus, and the Rev. Benjamin B. Royer, Franklin.

MISSING FLIER HUNT SPURRED

CEDAR CITY, Utah, June 26.—(INS.)—Several groups of searchers were prepared to set out at dawn today to begin an intensive search near Crystal Gulch for traces of Maurice Graham, lost air mail pilot, whose plane wrecked on January 11 was found on a mountain ledge by sheepherders.

The wrecked plane indicated that Graham was able to leave without assistance and go in search of help, for the mail had been carefully locked and his parachute placed on the ground.

Ingram Man Takes Life by Hanging

J. Clyde Erwin, 35, of 57 Linshaw avenue, Ingram, ended his life in his home early today by hanging himself in his bedroom, according to a report to the coroner. His body was found suspended from the transom of his bedroom early today by members of the family.

Dr. H. S. Wallace, of Prospect avenue, Ingram, was summoned to the home and he notified the coroner's office. No reason was given either by members of the family or by the physician for the suicide.

Married When 15, Sues for Divorce

Her husband sent her a telegram from Louisville stating he was on his way to Arkansas, had her daughter, was not coming back, so now Helen Goff, 3208 Faronia street, Sheraden wants a divorce from John G. Goff. The little brunette followed her husband out to Arkansas sometime later in 1927, when he took the child, aged 9, away and tried to bring her back, but the girl would not come. Mrs. Goff, who is now 26, was married when she was 15.

2 Major Generals Advanced by Act

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The War Department announced today that Major General Tasker H. Bliss and Major General Peyton C. March, both retired, will become full generals on the retired list under an act recently signed by President Hoover. Both were full generals during the World War.

The grade of lieutenant general on the retired list will be given to Major Generals Hunter Liggett and Robert L. Bullard, both retired.

SPROUL CLAIMS DISPUTED RUG HIS OWN

Promises to Return Altar To Group Engaged in Reorganizing Glory Barn

To charges that he took the altar rug of the Glory Barn, Shetland and Lincoln avenues, without permission, John W. Sproul, evangelist and healer, replied he regarded the rug as his personal property.

Sproul also said the pulpit, which he is also charged with taking without the consent of the congregation, will be returned to the church this week.

The announcement that Sproul faced charges of taking the rug and pulpit was made at a meeting to reorganize the church into a permanent Glory Barn, by Charles G. Mayer, acting chairman of the reorganization movement.

Discussing the charges facing him, Sproul said:

"I don't care what Mayer said. The pulpit belongs to the church, and when we closed the church for the summer we took it with us. I brought it to the Homestead tent four weeks ago.

"I regard the rug as my own personal property, and I don't have to answer to anybody for it. Mayer didn't pay a dime for it and, furthermore, I never worked for Mayer nor Mayer for me and I am not responsible to him. He wanted to be self appointed bishop of the new church.

"We may return to the church, although I am not sure we want to after the way it has been desecrated by mudslinging.

"I am going to preach until I pay off all my debts if I have to stand on a soap box on the corner."

SEEK DRIVER KILLING BOY

A search was being made today for the hit-run driver who last night fatally injured a boy and caused serious injuries to the lad's brother and father as they waited for a street car in the Freeport road at Harmarville, last night.

James Werachter, 7, of Harmarville, died en route to the Citizens' General Hospital, New Kensington. His brother, Robert, 3, is in a critical condition in the hospital sufferin a fracture of skull. The father, Eli Werachter, 35, also is in the hospital suffering fractures of both legs and arms.

Three men were injured, one seriously, when a hit-run driver struck their automobile in the William Penn highway near the Monroeville road today. Those hurt—Albert O'Rourke, 47, of 504 Howard street, East Pittsburgh; Silas Beney, 39, 1435 Grandview avenue, North Braddock, and Cornelius A. Zollner, 38, of 537 Center street, East Pittsburgh, were given first aid treatment at the East Pittsburgh Police Station. O'Rourke was later taken to the Columbia Hospital, and the others to their homes.

GUFFEY ESTATE ONLY $3,000

Col. James M. Guffey, one-time Democratic leader and millionaire oil magnate, left an estate valued at only $3,000, records indicate at the register of wills office.

He left no will, but letters of administration were taken out by his daughter, Elsie M. Guffey. Her bond was fixed at $6,000, usually placed at twice the value of the property involved.

A year ago the Guffey mansion at 5025 Fifth avenue was sold at auction to satisfy a mortgage. Furnishings of the home previously had been sold in like manner.

La Follette's Son Out for Governor

MADISON, Wis., June 26.—(AP.)—Philip LaFollette, Progressive Republican, today announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for governor of Wisconsin.

He is a son of the late United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette and a brother of United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr. The primary will be held September 16.

He will oppose Gov. Walter J. Kohler, recently indorsed for re-election by the Conservative Republican faction.

Thrown From Truck, Skull Fractured

Thrown out of a truck in which he was riding when it crashed into an automobile parked in front of St. Joseph's Hospital, 2100 East Carson street, Joseph Urban, 15, of 2126 Fox way, was taken into the hospital with a fractured skull. The truck is owned by Mrs. E. Gerwig, of 1916 Carson street; the car by Ambrose Curran, of 5437 Ellsworth avenue.

Seize Paraphernalia In Pool Room Raid

Acting on a complaint, county detectives today raided a house at 211 Melwood avenue, confiscated four adding machines and books alleged to have been used in a lottery operations and arrested Richard Parker, 30. He was charged with operating a lottery.

Grafton Gapes So Mayor Bans Girls in 'Shorts'

GRAFTON, W. Va., June 26.—(AP.)—Things had settled down pretty well about the Town Hall here today after all the excitement of yesterday, but one thing is certain—girls are not going to wear "shorts" on the streets of Grafton so long as Charley King is Mayor.

Nine, all pretty and wearing "shorts," ambled into town from their camp in the woods on the outskirts. As they walked down Main street, traffic stopped. A crowd gathered when the girls stopped in a store and bought ice cream cones.

When they came out the crowd followed them. Someone telephoned to the Mayor. He sent out a policeman. The officer told the girls that the Mayor wanted to see them—or, rather, talk to them.

At the police station, Mayor King informed the young women that "shorts" may be the thing at Marshall College, or at summer resorts, but in Grafton—no.

The young women were ordered to return to their camp and informed that the next time they enter the town, they must put on more clothes.

East Ohio Street To Get New Lights

A new lighting system on East Ohio street from Federal street to Troy Hill road will be installed according to promise made at a councilmanic hearing. The lights were requested by a delegation from the East Ohio Street Business Men's Association who asked that they be put in before the Christmas season. The new system will be similar to the one planned for Fifth avenue.

Lord Derby Terms Dry Dodging U. S. Pastime

LIVERPOOL, June 26.—(AP.)—Lord Derby has told the Chamber of Commerce he learned something on his recent visit to the United States. He had thought the chief topic of discussion there was money.

"It was not," he explained, "It was prohibition and how to avoid it."

K. of C. Councils To Confer Degrees

Four Monongahela Valley councils of the Knights of Columbus will hold a joint session Sunday afternoon for conferring of a third degree. The session will be held in Elks Hall, Monongahela. The ceremony will begin at 2 o'clock and at 6 o'clock there will be a dinner. Edward F. Griffin, district deputy of the Eighteenth District, will confer the degree, accompanied by his staff and a large number of officers of this district.

Missing Man Found In Dazed Condition

Found wandering in a dazed condition at Cedar avenue and East Ohio street early today, William McMillen, 76, of 1305 Boyle street was taken to the Allegheny General Hospital. At the hospital where he was detained it was said he was suffering a heart attack. McMillen had been reported missing from his home last night.

N. Y. HEAT WAVE UNBROKEN

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS.)—With one dead and many prostrated, New York's hot weather was due to continue today. Relief may not come until Sunday.

KANSAS CITY, June 26.—(AP.)—Sweltering temperatures continued in Oklahoma and Southern Kansas with the thermometer soaring over the century mark, but the heat wave was temperarily broken in Missouri and Eastern Kansas by wind, hail and rain storms that did extensive damage in bringing cooler weather.

H. H. Merill, 35, farm laborer, was killed by lightning near Raytown, Mo. Several heat prostrations were recorded in Oklahoma.

Buildings were damaged by a high wind at Trenton, Mo., and the loss to the tobacco crop near Weston, Mo., was estimated at $300,000.

Altus, Okla., reported a temperature of 109 degrees yesterday afternoon; Oklahoma City, 99.6; Beater, 106; Hollis, 105; Wichita, Kas., 101.

BRITON ASSAILS MALTA EDICT

LONDON, June 26.—(AP.)—Lord Passfield, minister for colonies, told the House of Lords that the situation in Malta is at a deadlock.

The colonial minister said the Vatican had stipulated that Lord Strickland, premier of Malta, should not remain in office.

"It would be intolerable," he said, "that any foreign authority, even the Vatican, should say that it could not endure the presence in his majesty's service of any particular person.

"The British government on its side has informed the Vatican that a resumption of negotiation must be conditional on orders being given by the Holy See to the bishops of Malta and Gozo which would restore to the people of Malta their complete freedom to exercise political rights."

French Birth Rate Higher Than Deaths

PARIS, June 26.—(AP.)—The birth rate exceeds the death rate in France under the latest statistics. For the first three months of this year births were 188,756, deaths 177,959.

MONTREAL, June 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. J. Dewey Soper is to leave next month to be a medical missionary for two years to the Eskimos at Lake Harbor, in Hudson Strait, while her husband does scientific work there for the government. They will receive one mail while in the North.

MARKET STREET

at McCann's

DIAMOND SQUARE

THURSDAY, FRIDAY, SATURDAY

An old favorite at a favorite price!

"Favorite" Coffee

3 lbs. 69c

Yes, "Favorite" is fresh because it has been out of the roaster only a few hours when you buy it, but "Favorite" has more than freshness to recommend it. "Favorite" is a quality coffee. The low price is possible because of the quantities we sell and our low cost of distribution.

Do You Know That McCann's Is The Largest Individual Coffee Roaster In The Country?

McCann's Butter worth its weight in gold
2 lbs. 79c

The valuable vitamins and nourishment in a pound of McCann's Butter are worth far more in terms of health than the few cents required to purchase it. You can't afford to "be saving" with McCann's butter.

Fresh Country Eggs
guaranteed to please
3 doz. $1

Serve these good eggs frequently during the warm days. What other food provides so much nourishment with so little effort?

Round Roasts of Beef for Sunday dinners
lb. 37c

Roast a generous-sized cut of this tender, flavorful beef for one meal; then, use what's left for cold cuts and the many quickly-prepared, tasty concoctions that can be made from cold roast beef. Economical because there's almost no waste . . . practically 100% solid meat.

Chuck Roasts . . . . lb. 27c
Armour's Star Ham . . lb. 29c
(whole or half)

rich and mild
lb. 29c

The same cheese that sells for 45 cents a pound after it is aged. If you're one of the many who prefer cheese when it's mild this means pennies saved for your pocketbook.

Fresh Cottage Cheese . qt. 25c

Fresh Black Raspberry Pie
ea. 50c

No other pie can compare with a fresh raspberry to our way of thinking. We believe you'll agree with us when you smell the fragrance of these pies and taste their goodness.

Fresh Huckleberry Pies, ea. 60c

Virginia Layer Cake
with Red Raspberry Icing
ea 60c

McCann's butter and eggs, and Swansdown flour make these cakes good. Fresh red raspberries go in the icing . . . a most delectable combination.

Stringless Green Beans
4 lbs. 35c

These beans have an exceptional flavor and will make a delicious dinner cooked with ham or bacon, or creamed. One of the valuable "green" vegetables.

Quality Tomatoes . quart 15c

Freshly Dressed Stewing Chickens of McCann quality
lb. 38c

After all, what else can you cook for Sunday's dinner that will please the family half as much as will a chicken dinner? These plump chickens make delicious noodle soup and fricassee.

Young Broilers . . . . ea. 69c
Roasting Chickens . . lb. 38c

Black Raspberry Preserves made with Fresh Berries
3 2-lb. jars $1

They'll probably be hot from the preserving kettle when you buy them. They're being made from fresh raspberries, and it keeps the preserving kettle doing full time duty to supply McCann's counters. The famous Canoe Club Brand. Other varieties, too.

Melt-a-Way Tiny Sugar Peas
3 No 2 cans 55c

Serve them when you want something extra nice. Fine enough for company dinners, but economical enough for everyday dinners.

ADDING to Milady's beauty has become one of the nation's major industries. Today there are salons and parlors where expert hands tend to the setting of Madame's coiffure, where agile fingers knead Madame's face in an invigorating massage, where scientific preparations renew the beauty of the hungry skin. It is all-important that you seek out the more reliable of these shops. That you entrust your greatest asset—beauty—to experienced hands. Thus, we suggest that you patronize those establishments who advertise in the Sun-Telegraph. Their reputation is solid. They are the masters of their profession. So that you may easily use their messages as a guide, we have grouped them every Sunday in the Society Section of the Sun-Telegraph. In these masseurs, barbers and beauticians you may place the utmost confidence. They are Sun-Telegraph advertisers, and are endorsed by the Sun-Telegraph.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the Elliott home.

Dr. Charles H. Smith.

NEW KENSINGTON, June 26.—Dr. Charles H. Smith, 46, of 1632 Victoria avenue, Arnold, was found dead in bed early today. Dr. Smith, well known as a mine physician, had been in ill health for some time. Death resulted from a complication of diseases. He had resided here 20 years, coming here from Pittsburgh, where he graduated from the University of Pittsburgh.

The Rev. H. S. Jackson.

BEAVER, Pa., June 26.—The Rev. Henry S. Jackson, 78, of Cleveland, O., retired minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. C. Moore, here. His last pastorate was at Warren, O.

Why should you let housework spoil your hands?

YOU ask any beauty editor. Look in the magazine and newspaper articles. You'll find "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly recommended all the time to keep the hands soft.

Follow the advice of those people who know. Apply "Vaseline" Jelly to your hands at night and wear old cotton or silk gloves. When you manicure your nails, wrap a little cotton around a dull orange stick, dip it in the Jelly and work back the cuticle.

These two easy things will make a world of difference in the looks of your hands. We all have to wash dishes, and dust furniture, or pound typewriters or work in gardens. But our hands need not advertise the necessary toil to the world. Lay in a store of "Vaseline" Jelly and use it freely. Get a jar today just for your own personal use. Don't delay.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—Representative Swick today recommended the appointment of William T. Levis as postmaster at Beaver Falls to succeed Frank Hood.

FIRE DRILL HELD ON ISLAND

City fire chiefs, headed by Chief Richard L. Smith, yesterday witnessed a demonstration of fire fighting at the Brunot's Island works of the Duquesne Light Co.

The demonstration was staged without the knowledge of the participating firemen, and a huge pile of debris was lighted on one side of the plant. The island's advance fire crew answered the alarm which was turned in by Chief Smith and played water upon the blaze within three minutes of the sounding of the siren.

The purpose of the demonstration was to show how effectively the fire could be handled. Had the fire gotten beyond the control of the advance crew, 12 other crews, each equipped with a 40-gallon chemical tank, could have been summoned at once. Had this added help proved insufficient, the city's fire force would have been immediately available.

Fire Chief Smith pronounced the system satisfactory to care for the needs of the plant.

THEATER GROUP TO GIVE PLAY

The June production of the legitimate drama department of The Little Theater of Pittsburgh will be staged at the East Liberty Carnegie Library tonight and tomorrow night. The performance will consist of a premier presentation of a new play by a Pittsburgh playwright, Dr. Earl John Cox, of the University of Pittsburgh Cap and Gown Club technical staff.

Members of the Congress of Women's Clubs, various dramatic clubs, and the staffs of the Community House and Kingsley House have been extended invitations. Song hits from "Tulip Time," professionally cast musical comedy of The Little Theater, will be sung during the intermission.

Once There Was A Queen Who Was A Wise-Cracker

In fact — she was the first wise-cracking queen in history. When her hungry citizens came clamoring to her castle, she pulled this one:

"If The People Have No Bread--Let Them Eat Cake."

That wise-crack cost Marie Antoinette her head.

Thousands of citizens throng daily to Sander & Company stores asking for bread. And they not only get bread - but cake as well - and pies and rolls and cookies - in fact everything that comes out of an oven.

Sander & Company operate their own bakery - right on the premises at Penn and Highland-and that is one reason why you too should become a regular patron of Sander's bread and pastry departments.

This week, in order to give every one an opportunity of becoming familiar with the product of Sander & Company's famous bake shop there will be on sale

LANGDON JURY HEARS SLEUTH

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—A private detective who "shadowed" Harry Langdon, screen comedian, while he was courting Mrs. Thomas O'Brien today enlivened the trial in which O'Brien seeks to collect $11,500 heart balm from the actor.

Details of meetings between Mrs. O'Brien and Langdon were related on the stand yesterday by the detective, Mrs. Marie Firman, who had been employed by the screen stars wife, Mrs. Rose Langdon.

The detective testified she shadowed Langdon several times when he went driving with Mrs. O'Brien, but the couple nearly always took along Mrs. O'Brien's two daughters. The comedian once put his arm around Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Firman said, and the O'Brien children called him "Daddy Harry."

O'Brien denied his former wife's charge that he mistreated her.

LLOYD TO TAKE STAND IN SUIT

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—Trial of the $1,000,000 damage suit brought by Mrs. Sadie Witwer, widow of H. C. Witwer, author, against Harold Lloyd, film comedian, charging copyright infringement, was under way in Federal Court here today.

Mrs. Witwer avers Lloyd's "The Freshman," was plagiarized from her husband's magazine story, "The Emancipation of Rodney."

William R. Fraser, general manager of the Harold Lloyd Corporation, told of introducing Witwer to Lloyd seven years ago and of hearing Witwer outline situations to the actor that he thought could be used in a picture.

Sam Taylor described preparation of the script, which he understood was written by company "gag" men.

Lloyd was to take the stand today. On completion of his testimony, the picture itself will be shown in the courtroom.

U. P. Presbytery Votes for Union

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., June 26.—Fifty ministers and laymen at the summer meeting of the Beaver Presbytery of the United Presbyterian churches voted favorably on a resolution for the union of their church with other denominations. The resolution had been submitted by the general assembly. J. C. Alter, former missionary to India, was licensed to preach and will be installed at the Beaver church in October. Dr. J. C. Pinkerton, of Pittsburgh, made the principal address. The Rev. George N. Neill, pastor of Bethel church, presided as moderator.

Widow Seeks Place Of Congressman

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 26.—(AP.)—Mrs. James A. Hughes, widow of Congressman James A. Hughes of the Fourth West Virginia district, announced she would seek the Republican nomination for Congress from that district.

She was originally mentioned as a candidate for a short term to fill the vacancy caused by the death of her husband last month, but since no provision was made for a short term she announced for a full session.

40 Miles of Roads Improved in Week

HARRISBURG, June 26.—(AP.)—Forty more miles of improved highway were completed last week, bringing the total highway construction for the season by contractors to 221 miles, the Department of Highways announced. A total of 15,511 men was given employment by the highway contractors during the week, while an additional 9,430 were on the state maintenance crews.

Passes Stop Light; Loses $6,000 Liquor

CHICAGO, June 26.—(INS.)—Peter Lindle, of Cleveland, drove through a stop light here. Police arrested him. Today federal agents were holding $6,000 worth of wine and champagne found in his truck.

If you are an employer you may find the worker you want in the "Situations Wanted" Ads in the Classified Section.

U. S. Pays for Cow Killed by Eating Its Green Paint

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—After two years of voluminous and highly official correspondence, Angelo Cerri, gauge keeper at the Enfield, (Conn.) dam, will be recompensed for the loss of Bossy, a cow, whose sudden demise occurred in the summer of 1928.

Bossy discovered too late that the green paint being used by government workmen on the dam was not grass in liquid form.

Congress is on record today as favoring payment of $160 to Angelo. Only the President's signature is necessary before a check can be forwarded.

LAY RUM LOOT TO HIJACKERS

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(INS.)—Through markings on sacks of liquors valued at $52,000 seized in Upper Darby, Pa., custom agents have traced part of the cargo of the rum yacht Daisy T, which was rammed and looted several nights ago by hijackers in Delaware Bay near Cape May.

The findings have resulted in a search for a South Philadelphia gang of hijackers, which was hired, Chief Customs Agent Frank C. Laughlin believes, by a rum ring with headquarters in Newark, Philadelphia and New York.

Operation Performed On King C. Gillette

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—King C. Gillette, 76, inventor of the safety razor, is in a hospital after a minor operation. King C. Gillette, a son, said his father's condition was not serious.

Woman-Spanker Gets 30-Day Term

HANFORD, Cal., June 26.—(AP.)—Don't spank strange women, even those who drive automobiles, is the moral John Sorder, oil worker, gleaned from a 30-day jail sentence imposed upon him.

Sorder's car brushed fenders recently with one driven by Mrs. Merle Fitting, of San Francisco. Sorder chased her, dragged her from her automobile, turned her over his knee and spanked her.

Morning Mouth

Everybody has it... Astring-o-sol corrects it

Like a Sparkling Shower ... Astring-o-sol Wakes You Up... Peps You Up... And Corrects Morning Mouth

FOLLOW that morning shower with the most exhilarating bath of all—the Astring-o-sol mouth bath that corrects Morning Mouth!

Shake a few dashes of Astring-o-sol into a quarter-glass of water. Gargle and swish it through your teeth. Then feel the magic transformation this simple Astring-o-sol treatment makes!

It wakes up and refreshes mouth and throat tissues—attacks dangerous germs—purifies the breath—and leaves a tingling after-effect that peps you up—and gives you a thrilling sense of cleanness and well-being.

Astring-o-sol's remarkable effectiveness is due to its concentration—which makes it (1) do more—you can use it in any strength required—(2) cost less to use—a 4-ounce bottle makes 12 pints of refreshing mouth wash—(3) taste better—you can dilute it to your personal taste.

Moreover, Astring-o-sol is an antiseptic and astringent. Dentists everywhere prescribe it; and it is the arch enemy of those tiny germs that cause so much illness.

Try a bottle today and you will wonder how you ever got along without it!

This 4-ounce bottle makes 12 full pints of refreshing mouth wash.

59th ANNIVERSARY KAUFMANN'S

BANKERS TALK MEXICAN DEBT

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Finance Minister Luis Montes de Oca and other representatives of the Mexican government met with members of the International Committee on Bankers on Mexico in the first of a series of conferences on the question of arranging a settlement of debts amounting to $442,281,000.

At the close of the plenary session a joint statement issued by the Mexican finance minister and Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of the bankers' committee, announced that the minister presented certain suggestions directed toward the handling of the situation.

Although the formal statement was the only announcement regarding the conferences, it was understood that the minister indicated he desired to expedite the conferences as much as possible and that the negotiations did not entail any new loan to Mexico.

CREAM PUFFS SAVE HINES

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—(AP.)—Johnny Hines, film comedian, left the municipal court with the remark "saved by cream puffs."

Hines and Mrs. Pauline Holbrook, of Hollywood, won a dismissal of intoxication charges. They were arrested May 29 by policemen who found Hines helping his companion into his automobile.

The officers testified the intoxication charges were true; police hospital surgeons said it was impossible to tell.

Hines told the court:

"We attended a dinner party. A cocktail was served before dinner. Later a glass of wine. Then we ate cream puffs. On the way home Mrs. Holbrook became ill. She leaned against the door, it opened and she fell out. I was helping her when the officers came."

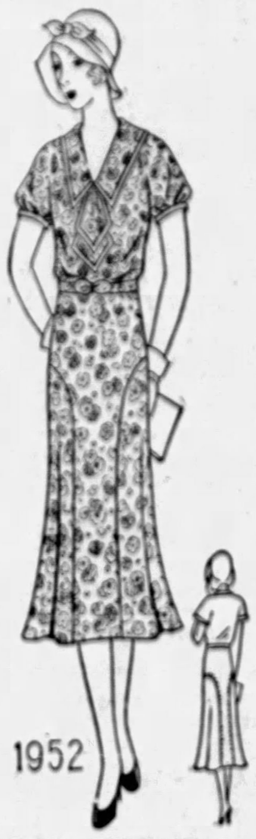
Puffed Sleeves Are Very Smart

Pattern 1952

Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS.



Every summer wardrobe should boast at least one frock with puffed sleeves, as they are youthful and extremely becoming. Of course, these sleeves may be worn straight if you wish. There is an unusually smart skirt flare on this model, graceful and flattering to the figure. The pointed collar and double jabot are new.

Pattern 1952 is charming made of silk or cotton fabrics. Most suitable are pique, shantung, dimity, wash silk and rayon. A dainty print with the edges of collar and jabot bound in colored tape would be charming.

May be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39-inch material.

No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped, or stamps, for each pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

Our BOOK of PATTERNS for adults and children, also transfer patterns, is FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.
5—Address your request to

Mortgage Company President Indicted

CLEVELAND, June 26.—(AP.)—Samuel C. Crobaugh, Cleveland, former president of the defunct Union Mortgage Company, $30,000,000 concern which has been in receivership three years, was indicted by a Federal grand jury on charges of using the mails to defraud numerous persons of more than $1,000,000.

Robert Berwald, receiver for the concern, estimated losses to investors at $7,000,000.

Firecracker Blast Costs Eye of Boy

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 26.—George Labo, 10, of Hiller., suffered the loss of one eye yesterday when a firecracker exploded in a bottle and showered his face with glass.

SCOUTS RESCUE DROWNING BOY

CHESTERTOWN, Md., June 26.—(AP.)—Two Boy Scouts, James Anthony, 16, and Medford Brooks, Jr., 14, saved the life of a third youth, Rayfield Reid, 14, who fell into the Chester River while crabbing.

Reid was precipitated into 40 feet of water by the breaking of a board on the ancient Chester River wooden bridge and was being swept down the river by a strong tide when his cries attracted the attention of Anthony and Brooks.

The two, who are high school students, shed part of their clothing and jumped into the river. They swam 100 yards to reach Reid, and held him up until engineers working on the new concrete bridge nearby reached the spot in a motor boat and brought all three ashore.

Two Alliance Boys Drowned in Lake

ALLIANCE, O., June 26.—Donald Crider, 8, and Robert Kotzbacher, 10, were drowned in the lake at Silver Park. They were playing on a raft and fell into the water.

Officer Mops Up Evidence With Handkerchief

STEUBENVILLE, O., June 26.—When Lonnie Toson, 24, is arraigned in municipal court today on a possession charge, a few ounces of liquor which Patrolman William Cottman wrung out of a handkerchief will be introduced as evidence.

The officer claims he saw Toson crack a bottle on the street when about to be arrested. He says he mopped up some of the liquid with his kerchief and squeezed it into another bottle.

BIRTHS DECLINE IN 43 STATES

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The number of births in the United States last year, with the exception of five states, showed a slight decrease from the figure for 1929, while the number of deaths was almost identical for the two years.

Last year, Commerce Department figures show, there were 2,142,124 births in 43 states, which represented a decrease of 78,063, or 3.6 per cent from 1928. At the same time 1,556,882 persons died, which was practically the same as for the previous year.

The compilation did not include Nevada, New Mexico, Utah, South Dakota and Texas for which comparative figures were unavailable.

The greatest decrease in the number of births was reported for Pennsylvania which dropped from 209,769 to 189,524. Florida, however, reported the largest percentage of decrease—9.8 per cent. It dropped from 29,777 to 26,868.

Adamsburg Radio Hearing Granted

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The Federal Radio Commission designated for hearing the Pioneer Broadcasting Company's application for permission to erect a radio station at Adamsburg, Pa. The hearing probably will be held in the fall.

Pay Voted for Barn Fired by Mail Pilot

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—The Senate passed the Reed-Cochran bill to compensate Samuel F. Tait, Mercer farmer, for the destruction of his barn by a flare set off by an air mail pilot in 1925. The bill will be sent to the President. It passed the House last fall.

Jefferson Lockup, Empty Year, May Be Abandoned

WAYNESBURG, Pa., June 26.—Jefferson Borough Council contemplates abandoning the village lockup for lack of use.

For more than a year the lockup has been empty. It is being used as a storage room.

Steaming up the Saguenay Canyon

EARLY explorers believed that the great canyon of the Saguenay River was a continuation of the St. Lawrence and therefore the mythical water route to China. Their subsequent laughter, rowing down its dark waters, led to the christening of Ha Ha Bay.

This unfathomed river, whose towering capes are but the heads of submerged mountains—once perhaps, the loftiest ever reared to the heavens—seems to embody the mystery of the North. It forms the climax to your sail down the wide St. Lawrence River through Old French Canada's most historic scenes.

This is a delightful, near-at-hand cruise, up to and beyond the edge of cultivation—to the gateway of primeval wilderness. Steamers are luxurious to a degree. The air is compounded of balsam and salt from the sea. Your companions are friendly. And we look after your comfort all the way.

Please write at once for illustrated folder which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.

VERY IMPORTANT

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES operate from the head of Lake Superior, via the St. Lawrence River, to the Saguenay. Their cruises include the seven days' trip from Detroit to Duluth and return; Niagara to the Saguenay, including the Thousand Islands and shooting the rapids; excursions from Toronto, the Queen City, to Niagara, the Thousand Islands and Rochester. They operate a fleet of 106 steamers, freight and passenger, and are the largest fresh water transportation company in the world. The famous Saguenay trip and day visits to Montreal, metropolis of Canada; Quebec, the historic walled city; Murray Bay, "Newport of the North" and Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The Saguenay Canyon is one of nature's masterpieces.

Our steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

CONTEMPT CASE DISMISSED

Judge Thomas J. Ford handed down an opinion in Common Pleas Court today, refusing to adjudge James F. Richardson, former tax collector of Wilmerding, in contempt of court.

He had been asked to declare Richardson in contempt because of the latter's unwillingness to answer questions on the witness stand in an election contest. On being given a second chance to answer, Richardson replied partially. Judge Ford remarked in his opinion that while Richardson's answers were vague, there was nothing in his conduct to warrant fining or imprisoning him.

Judge Ford issued an order impounding the ballot boxes in the First, Second, Third, Fourth and Seventh precincts of Wilmerding. Impounding was ordered on the strength of counsel's promise at a future hearing to produce testimony which would show the need of a recount.

BOSTON EX-DRY 'CZAR' HUNTED

BOSTON, June 26.—(INS.)—Mails to all parts of the country and various provinces in Eastern Canada today carried 7,000 circulars bearing a photograph and description of Oliver B. Garrett, former "czar" of the police "dry" raiders, wanted in default of $13,000 bail for bribery and extortion.

Thirty-four police and detectives went through New York's lower East Side and Coney Island last evening, but no trace of Garrett was found. He had been reported seen in New York with a woman who figured prominently in the investigation into the slaying here last September of Samuel Reinstein, New York furrier and alleged white slave racketeer, and the uncovering by federal investigators of a white slave ring reaching from Pennsylvania through New Jersey, New York and the New England states.

Search for Garrett extended into Philadelphia.

FRENCH TROOPS LEAVE RHINE

TREVES, Germany, June 26.—(AP.)—The tricolor of France today was lowered from the headquarters of Gen. Putois, commander of the forces of occupation, and the last French troops in this district entrained for home.

MAYENCE, Germany, June 26.—(AP.)—The French military tribunal was dissolved today and the possession of occupied buildings was handed over to the German authorities.

KEHL, BADEN, Germany, June 26.—(AP.)—The Gallic rooster erected by the Paris Press Association as a symbol of triumph on the bridge uniting Strasburg with Kehl, was removed today on the eve of the end of French occupation of the Rhineland.

The French Commander Brion today took leave of the German authorities. The last of the French troops will quit this important bridgehead Saturday.

Bulging Waistline Traps 'Walking Speakeasy'

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS.)—To milady a waistline is either up or down, but to Claude Santchell, of Brooklyn, it's rubber, and oh how grievously!

Claude was held today, charged with being a walking speakeasy. Police said he carried his wares in a circular rubber container around his waist and served his customers from a cup.

SPEED GERMAN SHIP MERGER

BERLIN, June 26.—(INS.)—With the first payment of 70,000,000 marks from the United States in settlement of claims for German ships seized during the war expected to be forthcoming within two weeks, plans went forward today for the gigantic merger of the Hamburg-American and North German Lloyd Lines and their subsidiary companies.

The ship award payments are expected to speed up the projected merger, which would consolidate all big German shipping companies into one mammoth trust. The merger is expected to be completed by next spring.

Boy, 7, in 'Coaster,' Travels 25 Miles

TACOMA, Wash., June 26.—(AP.)—A patrolman found Bunny Rooser, 7, wheeling along the streets of Tacoma on his coaster wagon late last night. Inquiry revealed he had strayed from his home in South Prairie, 25 miles away. Bunny insisted he made the trip pulling the wagon up hills and coasting down. He went home in the family automobile.

RYDER TRACES MONEY SPREE

NEW YORK, June 26.—(INS.)—Harold Ryder, the 35-year-old broker alleged to have run throught $7,000,000 and to have thrown $100 bills about Broadway night clubs, was to continue today to tell the Federal bankruptcy commission where the money went.

Yesterday it was disclosed that Frank Bailey, 65, a banker and director in 21 corporations, had allowed Ryder to handle $10,000,000 in stock transactions since July, 1928.

Bailey also testified that Ryder had held out $300,000 of the $600,000 Bailey had ordered Ryder to donate to Union College at Schenectady to erect the "Ryder Electrical Engineering Laboratory."

The Federal court continued its process of investigation to how Ryder allegedly made away with $2,000,0000 belonging to Woody & Co., now in bankruptcy, $1,000,000 belonging to his wife; a similar sum of his father-in-law and $2,000,000 belonging to Frank Bailey.

ASK 30 MILLION OF 'RADIO TRUST'

KANSAS CITY, June 26.—(AP.)—In its suit for triple damages of $30,000,000, filed here today, the Grigsby-Grunow Company, of Chicago, radio set manufacturers, alleges existence of a vast illegal pool of patents, created in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Among the defendants are the Radio Corporation of America, the General Electric Company and the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

James A. Reed, of Kansas City, former United States senator from Missouri, and Ernest R. Reichman, of Chicago, are the attorneys for the complainant.

Its petition charges that the defendants unlawfully created the patent pool and thus illegally compelled paym nt of royalties approximating $6,000,000 by the Grigsby-Grunow Company.

4 Drown in Couzens Lake, 12 in Michigan

LANSING, Mich., June 26.—(INS.)—Twelve drownings occurred in Michigan yesterday, a state-wide checkup revealed today.

The private lake on the estate of Senator Couzens was the scene of four of them. Relief from sweltering temperatures was promised today.

ARREST YOUTH FOR ATTACK

MONONGAHELA, Pa., June 26.—Paul G. Reagan, 20, was being held by state police here today as the man who more than a month ago attacked Miss Hilda Mills, of Charleroi, a school teacher, while she was passing through woods near Speers. Reagan is scheduled for a hearing Monday before Alderman Robert L. Ellwood.

Private William Tevelin, of the Washington detachment of the state police, arrested Reagan last night near his home. According to Tevelin, Reagan had been absent since the day of the attack, and only returned to Monongahela yesterday.

After being taken before Miss Mills, and police say, identified by the young woman, Reagan is said to have admitted to the attack, which occurred May 2 on River Hill near Speers, where the young woman taught school. She was beaten and her clothing torn.

HEAR BLONDE'S PLEA JULY 7

NEW CASTLE, Pa., June 26.—Arguments on the petitions asking new trials for Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague will be held here July 7. The date for argument was set yesterday after the defense counsel had given 30 different reasons why new trials should be granted. The reasons are points of law and claims of error by the court.

The petition containing the specific reasons was filed late yesterday, supplementing the original general petition for new trials which was filed after the death verdicts had been brought in against the pair. Both Mrs. Schroeder and Dague were convicted of first degree murder in connection with the murder of State Highway Patrolman Brady Paul last December 27.

Brookline Plans Fourth Celebration

The twenty-fourth annual Independence Day celebration of the Brookline Board of Trade will be held July 4 with a big parade, motion pictures, vaudeville, refreshments and sports, including two baseball games, in prospect. Arthur Hollis is general chairman of the affair.

Munhall Man New Home Circle Head

Three Western Pennsylvania members today assumed duties as officers of the Inner Circle, Protected Home Circle, in annual convention at Harrisburg. John Garrity, of Munhall, was named president at the election yesterday. Mrs. Ida Armstrong, Pittsburgh, was elected chaplain and Joseph Spencer, Sharon, grand secretary.

KILLED ARTIST, LIFER ADMITS

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(INS.)—Police today were hurrying plans to send William E. Peters, now serving a life sentence for the murder of his sweetheart, Leona Fishbach, to the chair for the murder of the noted artist, Frank Reed Whiteside. Peters confessed the murder late yesterday.

The confession solved a mystery baffling to police for nine months. Peters involved others and more arrests are expected.

It established that the Fishbach girl was slain because she knew too much about the Whiteside affair.

At the grave of the slain girl Peters broke down and confessed. Peters was taken to the Whiteside home to re-enact the killing. Pictures were snapped to aid the state in sending him to the chair.

It was learned that the slaying was the outcome of a blackmail plot against the artist.

TRUCK BODIES IN MERGER

Campaign for state wide membership in the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association was under way today with the merger of the Allegheny County Team and Truck Owners Association with the Philadelphia organization.

The merger was made last night at a meeting in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association. James F. Keenan, president of the local group, presided. The merged associations contain a membership of 600 truck owners and dealers and assumes the name used by the Philadelphia group. The local members have been organized for 30 years.

Fireworks Set Off By Sun Cause Store Blaze

ZIHLMAN, Md., June 26.—Fireworks ignited by the sun started a $400 blaze at the store of John Anderson here. Crackers, sky rockets, torpedoes and other July 4 novelties arranged in the window were discharged. Other articles took fire and burned the frame work of the building.

The sun's heat was intensified by the window glass. Small firecrackers first ignited, setting off the rest of the explosives.

WALLS CRACKED IN PERU QUAKE

LIMA, Peru, June 26.—(AP.)—The National Telegraph lines today said that strong earthquake shocks were felt Wednesday at 5:30 a. m. and 4:30 p. m. at Ica. They were of long duration and damaged many walls. The inhabitants were panic-stricken and left their dwellings to take refuge in the streets and parks.

The second tremor was the stronger, and was felt also at Fort Pisco and lightly at Lima, where it was almost unnoticed. Another strong tremor was felt at Huancavelica.

Two Face Hearing As Moonshiners

Charged with the manufacture of moonshine whisky, Frank Bumlaski, of 18 Linden street, and John Nowlshenski of 18 Penn street, Natrona, were to be given hearings today before Justice of the Peace J. Francis Heck, of Natrona. The men were arrested when Natrona police raided their homes and say they found stills and a quantity of whisky in each place.

EMPLOYMENT IN STORES GAINS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—Interpreted as a hopeful factor in the revival of business was an announcement of Secretary of Commerce Lamont today that employment in retail stores through the United States in April was slightly in excess of the same month last year, when business was booming.

Returns furnished Lamont as a result of the census of distribution from 440,000 separate establishments, in 47 states, showed they employed 388,424 this spring, as compared with 387,034 last April.

The stores tabulated included 41,446 independent stores and 32,520 units of chain stores and large department stores.

"They represented all kinds of business, and various types of organizations, including single stores, local branch systems, local chains, national chains and some large department stores," Lamont said.

Royalists Warned To Shun Militia

LISBON, Portugal, June 26.—(AP.)—The Monarchist party today published a circular to all Royalists enjoining them not to join the civilian militia, which will be created soon with the object of supporting the dictatorship.

It was said their adhesion to the Republican movement would detract from their allegiance to the deposed King Manuel.

300 at Bonavoglia Wedding Reception

More than 300 persons were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bonavoglia in the William Penn Hotel last night at a reception celebrating the wedding of their daughter, Concetta Lucille, and John Buonarosa, who were married yesterday in St. Peter's Church, Fernando street. Bonavoglia has been active for 25 years in the commercial and social activities of Pittsburgh citizens of Italian ancestry.

MAJOR BATTLE RAGES IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, June 26.—(AP.)—A pitched battle between Nationalist and rebel Northern Alliance armies, which may be the decisive engagement of the present Chinese civil war, was reported in progress today along the Hairhow-Tungkwan Railway in Honan province.

Reports from foreign circles in the war zone said Chiang Kai-Shek, Nationalist president-general, had thrown 100,000 men into the fight, hoping to capture Faifeng, rebel-dominated capital of Honan.

Crafton Files Notice Of Bond Issue

Notice has been filed in Quarter Sessions Court by Crafton Borough Council of the issuance of $35,000 of bonds for repaving streets in the borough.

7 IN FLAMING BOAT SAVED

WILMINGTON, Del., June 26.—(INS.)—Two prominent Delaware men, their wives and three children were rescued from the flaming motor launch Nancy II in the Delaware river near Delaware City last night. An explosion had sent tongues of fire into every corner of the craft.

W. M. Kline, of Claymont, owner of the launch, was seriously burned. Oscar Olsen, production manager of the Bellanca Aircraft Corp., received minor burns. The men, with Mrs. Kline, her two sons and Mrs. Olsen and her infant child escaped when other craft came to their rescue.

A tender and a motor yawl from the Delaware lighthouse reached the blazing launch as those on board were surrounded by flames. The tender took off the two families, while the yawl towed the burning boat to Pea Patch Island, where it was beached. It was a total loss.

Kline is superintendent of the John J. Raskob estate at Claymont.

Wife-Slayer Dies Of Bullet Wound

FLINT, Mich., June 26.—(INS.)—Frank Somogyu, who shot and killed his 23-year-old wife, Mary, died in a local hospital today from a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Domestic troubles are believed to have caused the murder-suicide.

Eaton Helps Anne to Save Kathleen From George

CHAPTER XIX

It was uncanny walking through the silent, dark streets. Anne met no one save a solitary policeman, who looked at her curiously as she hurried by.

Presently she reached Kathleen's.

"You don't know what it is to be jealous," Dolly had told her.

Ah, did she not? Climbing the stairs she thought of that hideously revealing moment at Hot Springs—then shut her mind to it.

Lola let her in. "What's up?" she exclaimed.

"I want to talk to Kathleen. Is she asleep?"

"I guess so. I just got my clothes off. What's wrong with you?"

"Nothing."

"If you've heard about George," Lola advised her, go easy. We've all tried to head her off. That kid's a mule. I hate to see her get mixed up with a rotter like that." Lola went on, and Anne saw warning and sympathy under the patina of the years.

She went into the bedroom which Kathleen shared with one of the other girls, now out of town. Kathleen was sleeping with one arm flung up, the lovely face flushed and child-like.

Anne sat down on the bed and touched her gently. "Kathleen."

The girl turned, woke, blinked at Anne incredulously and then sat up. She was thinner, thought Anne, harried-looking. "For heaven's sake!"

Anne got up and closed the door and, returning, sat down on the bed.

"I've been with Dolly Davis," she said.

Kathleen colored. "What has she been saying about me?" she began furiously.

Questions Kathleen

"Never mind that. We've no time. Is it true that you are planning to go away with George——?" She stopped, realizing absurdly that she did not know the man's surname.

"If I am, what of it?" Kathleen challenged. "I can do as I like, can't I?"

"I suppose so. Where are you going?"

"To the Coast. He has a chance in a night club there. We are going to work up an act."

"Kathleen, listen to me. Do you expect him to marry you?"

George doesn't believe in marriage, Kathleen told her defiantly. He—he says it ruins personalities. He believes in a union bound only by love and respect," she went on glibly. Then she met Anne's eyes and her own fell. "But I think he'll marry me—after," she whispered.

Anne's heart leaped. After—the implication was that it was not too late, that the fold this fatuous wretch had upon the girl was not the last, the strongest hold of all—not yet.

She said casually, "Dolly's expected for some time that he'd marry her."

Kathleen rose to the bait. "He doesn't give a snap of his fingers for her. He's just sorry for her."

"So sorry for her that he allows her to buy his clothes, to share her apartment with him—to keep him, in fact?"

Reveals His Character

"That's a lie!" Kathleen's eyes were furious—and frightened. "I heard all that talk, most of it from her. He told me he was ill and broke, once and she looked after him. He was grateful to her—as—as a son might have been," Kathleen explained ridiculously, "and she spoiled their friendship by falling in love with him—a woman old enough to be his mother!"

"He told you that? And you believed him? Kathleen, look at me."

The girl did so, unwillingly.

"Have I ever lied to you?"

"No."

"I am not lying now. I have heard what you have heard, but I have seen what you are unwilling to see: his clothes in the apartment to which he has a latchkey, his finger marks on her arm," Anne said. "He would go to any lengths for money."

"I don't believe it!"

"Yes, you do. You just won't face it. You must. I wouldn't ordinarily interfere in your love affairs—as you've said, your life is you own. But you can't throw yourself away on this worthless creature—this kept boy—this man who abuses women. Man!" repeated Anne in disgust. "Bird of prey would be better! I don't know why he wants to take you away with him." Anne went on.

"He—loves me," Kathleen told her in a small voice.

Kathleen Sees Anne Cry

"What—what have you re-" "He doesn't. He can't know the meaning of the word," Anne answered. She shuddered. "If I thought—if I thought that he planned to exploit you!"

There was a silence, and then Kathleen shrieked suddenly.

"What is it? Oh, do be quiet," Anne implored her, frantic with fear and foreboding. "Tell me, Kathleen. It doesn't matter what you've done—only tell me."

"I haven't done anything," Kathleen told her unhappily. "Only—I just remembered," she remembered?"

"A man—George said he wanted me to meet him. I was to be nice to him. He was an old man with lots of money. He owns a string of night clubs."

Anne said quietly, "You see?"

"I don't want to see. No, I'll not believe it. He's been so dear—such fun. It's all Dolly's lies, Anne, jealous lies!"

"No. Listen. I'll get into bed with you—it isn't long till morning. Promise me that you won't see him or write until we've talked it over again quietly. I'll come tomorrow after work. Now, I'm so tired, Kathleen."

She pulled off her clothes, found a nightgown of her sister's and a few moments afterward lay beside her in the narrow bed. Her arms went about the younger girl's smooth, warm body; she pressed her cheek to the round shoulder.

"You're — crying, Anne?" Kathleen's voice was awed. She hadn't seen Anne cry in years.

Anne Confesses

"It's all right. Don't mind. I'm tired and miserable."

"On my account," Kathleen thought. She turned and took Anne in her arms.

"I'll do as you say," she promised. "Perhaps you're right. I don't know. I'll be good, Anne; I swear it. I'll wait. If he really loves me, he'll—he'll prove that these things aren't true."

But fear is the beginning of wisdom. She knew in her young, easily pierced—as easily healed—heart that these things were true.

"I was—I am," she corrected herself, "so crazy about him. And it was so—exciting."

There was the keynote. Anne realized it, but was too tired to think it out. She said drowsily: "Hush. Try to sleep. We'll talk tomorrow."

"I know. But if you ever cared about any one, you'd understand."

"I do care about some one with all my heart," Anne told her. "Some one fine and wonderful and worth while."

Kathleen held her closer. "Anne, who is it? Are you going to be married?"

"He doesn't know I exist." Anne told her wearily. And he isn't free to marry me even if he did know, and if he wanted me I'd go to him tomorrow, if it wouldn't harm him. But it would. So I can't, and even if it didn't hurt him I want more than just makeshift. I'm telling you because you're the dearest thing in the world to me—except that one other person. And I want you to know that I understand what love can do to people. Only, forgive me, darling, I don't think you have loved only one—not yet."

Bad Day at Office

She was asleep before she had time to regret her confession. But Kathleen lay awake. Anne in love! Ted? But Ted was crazy about her—and Ted was free. Who, then? Suddenly she knew.

Oh, poor Anne, thought Kathleen. And presently slept, one arm flung as if protectingly over the other girl.

She was still sleeping when Anne rose next morning and tiptoed out. Lola slept too, and Sally, her roommate. Anne scribbled a note to Kathleen:

"Remember your promise. I'll be in this evening."

She left it on the pillow beside the sleeping girl and went to work.

Things went wrong that day. She made half a dozen foolish mistakes. Toward the close of the afternoon, Eaton spoke with concern:

"Miss Murdock, what's the matter? You're so unlike yourself. Are you ill?" he asked, unable to conceal his alarm.

"No." She forced herself to smile. "No. I was up almost all night."

"Some one throw a late party?" he asked, much disliking this probable explanation. She shook her head. "Illness in the family?" he probed further.

"No," she answered, thinking it was illness, after all. For Kathleen was sick of a malignant fever, a poison in the blood.

Explains to Eaton

"Can't you tell me?" Eaton begged. "You—you've been pretty generous with me. I'd like you to feel"—his voice deepened—"that I'm your friend."

His heart cried out there: "And your lover, Anne; always your lover!"

She had no one to whom to turn. Her parents were out of the question. Ted? She knew what Ted would say, and even Betty Howard, good comrade that she was, could not help her here. She felt terribly incompetent. She could handle Eaton's affairs, keep her head in his emergencies. She could even muddle through her own problems alone. But when her own flesh and blood was darkly threatened she felt that she could not fight the battle single-handed, and this man was strong and sane. She could trust him—and she loved him.

"Can't you tell me?" he repeated.

So, stumbling a little, she gave him chapter and verse, ending with her visit to Dolly and her talk—part of it—with Kathleen.

"She promised: I think she was frightened. But if she sees him again, or thinks it over and believes that I've lied, I don't know what she'll do. She's headstrong, Mr. Eaton."

Eaton had listened, frowning. "You'll have to get her away from that crowd," he suggested. "Couldn't you live with her?"

Eaton's Plan Successful

Anne said thoughtfully: "I never thought of that."

"Would she consent?"

"I think so."

"If you do," Eaton advised seriously, "don't put too many restrictions on her—beyond this man. She's been used to liberty for a little while. You can't take the hen-and-one-chick attitude."

"I know. But — oh, if he'd only leave town," said Anne wretchedly. "I know things would come out all right."

"We'll see. Find out his name. I have powerful friends at headquarters. You say he plays the races and has no other visible means of support? They keep dossiers, even in this country. They'll give a man rope enough and when he's ready to hang himself they have the goods on him," Eaton told her. "I think that I can arrange to have him receive an official warning that he'd better clear out of New York alone."

"If you would! If he goes," Anne said, relief in her heart and eyes and voice. "Dolly would join him, I'm sure."

"So much the better. Find out his name tonight and call me at the house."

"I hate to trouble you. I'm so grateful."

"You don't. And please don't be grateful. I don't do half a quarter enough for you. I never can," he told her.

That night Anne found Kathleen restless, inclined to regret her promise, on the defensive, abusive of Dolly, of gossip, sure that it couldn't be so. But Anne managed to make her give her word that she would not see the man for a few days at least. Meanwhile Anne discovered the name he went by—D'Argent—and from a booth telephoned the name and address to Eaton.

Two days later Mr. George D'Argent left town hurriedly—and without a word to Kathleen. But Anne had a hasty scrawl from Dolly:

Moves With Kathleen

Kid, I don't know how you did it, but Georgie and me are on our way on separate trains. He's promised to be a good boy, I think he'll marry me now. I've got the promise of a job, and everything looks rosy.

It was signed: "Fondly yours, Doll."

Anne showed the note to Kathleen. The girl read it, threw it on the floor, burst into angry tears.

"She's a cat!" sobbed Kathleen.

"He couldn't have cared for you so much," commented Anne, with studied brutality.

But Kathleen fled and locked herself in the bedroom.

Anne let her alone for a time after that. In the interim she had a talk with her parents and told them that she was moving to town.

"Kathleen isn't happy with her friends," she explained, "and she can't come home. It's much better for her in the city. She doesn't want to be alone, and it seems wise and practical for us to take a place together. Don't cry, mother; I'll come home often."

Later Molly asked shrewdly: "Kathleen? The child's misbehaving?"

"No, dear," Anne told her. "Only she's very young and I don't like the people she travels with. She'll never come home to live; she's way past that. It will be better if we are together."

Mrs. Murdock nodded her gallant red head. "I don't know what you're keeping back," she said slowly. "I suppose Kathleen's been headstrong and foolish. But you've a good head and a clear eye, and it's all right with myself."

Anne moved to two rooms and bath and a real kitchen on West Eighth street and a subdued Kathleen moved with her.

Dr. H. H. Bunzell

says: "Colgate's is made from the most effective cleansing agents..it is to be preferred"

For years Dr. H. H. Bunzell studied dentifrices under a fellowship in a great eastern university. His findings, now published in a series of scientific bulletins, have shed much light on a common question of the day: What can a dentifrice really do?

DR. H. H. BUNZELL knows what a dentifrice should do. And so he approves Colgate's. For Colgate's action is totally different from sluggish, pasty dentifrices.

Different because of its superior power to penetrate the tiny crevices where decay starts. Different because the penetrating foam flushes away the food particles which collect in these hard-to-reach places where sluggish toothpastes never reach. Thus Colgate's leaves the hidden as well as exposed surfaces healthfully and thoroughly clean.

Dr. Bunzell's statement is the result of his scientific tests in which he proved that Colgate's is made primarily from the most effective cleansing agents.

Agreeing with him are such eminent authorities as Dr. Hardee Chambliss, Ph.D., Johns Hopkins University; Dr. Shirley Wynne, Commissioner of Health of New York City, and scores of others equally well known who have been retained to make analytical tests and to render their expert opinions. On dental advice more people use Colgate's today than any other dentifrice.

Dr. Bunzell says:
"A dentifrice whose sole object is to clean the teeth, such as Colgate's, and which is made primarily from the most effective cleansing agents, is to be preferred to one which relies on ingredients put in to affect other objects such as the attempts to correct the acidity of the saliva.

"No relationship can be found between the condition of the teeth and the degree of acidity found in the saliva."

KONJOLA FREES SUFFERER, 73, OF RHEUMATISM

Suffered For Seven Years—Stomach Trouble Also Ended—All Other Medicines Tried Failed.

What encouragement for all who suffer, and who have failed to find relief, there is to be found in the indorsements won by Konjola, the new and different medicine. One of the interesting stories you would have heard had you been the Konjola Man is that of Mr. W. L. Guthrie, 73, of 15 Grove Street, Washington, near Pittsburgh, who told what Konjola had done for him. The Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, is at the service of all who wish to find out about Konjola. Call there and hear the wonderful story of this wonderful medicine. Read the words of Mr. Guthrie, who said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"Although I am 73 years old, Konjola worked wonders in my case, and I want to tell everyone who suffers as I once did what Konjola did for me. About six or seven years ago I became afflicted with rheumatism and stomach trouble. The dreadful rheumatic pains settled in my left arm, hip, leg and shoulder. The pains were almost unbearable, and none of the medicines I took helped me. Then the stomach trouble developed. After each meal I bloated with gas and suffered such miseries that I lost all my appetite. Constipation made matters worse by allowing poisons to gather in my system.

"In just three weeks Konjola made me feel years younger. It cleansed my system and completely restored my digestion. Then it drove every rheumatic pain from my body. Constipation, too, is a thing of the past. I eat, sleep, and feel like a different person. No words of mine can ever describe my gratitude for Konjola."

Konjola works its wonders for young and old. It is, indeed, a medicine for all the family.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is sold by all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes, children liked its pleasant taste. All druggistores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

Silas Wayne's Death Amazes The Witnesses

Can You Outguess ROBIN DALE In MASTER MYSTERIES

Eighteen eyes saw Silas Wayne murdered. Two of them belonged to the murderer, yet none of the other eight pairs of eyes was able to detect how the murder was accomplished, for Silas Wayne collapsed while the nearest person was 10 feet away.

THE WAYNE MURDER CASE is the first of the series of MASTER MYSTERIES, prepared by Arthur Hoerl, criminologist, for the Sun-Telegraph. It and the other stories in the series are divided into six daily installments which give all the clues to the identity of the criminal. The solution will be published a week after the sixth installment appears.

By this arrangement every reader will be able to play the absorbing game of "Who's guilty?" with Robin Dale as his opponent. All the stories play fair with the reader, providing all the clues necessary for a correct solution. You have a week to match your wits with the author.

MASTER MYSTERIES is the most unusual series of detective stories ever written, being based on actual crimes encountered by Hoerl in his career as newspaperman and detective. Yet all are short, all are puzzling and none is dumbfounding.

ROBIN DALE'S first case will be published MONDAY in the SUN-TELEGRAPH

If you want a cigarette that is milder and of better taste..

Smoke Chesterfield

MILDER, YES—BUT SOMETHING MORE. Chesterfield offers richness, aroma, satisfying flavor.

BETTER TASTE—that's the answer; and that's what smokers get in Chesterfield in fullest measure—the flavor and aroma of mellow tobaccos, exactly blended and cross-blended. Better taste, and milder too!

QUIZ PRISONER IN DROWNING

Homicide Detectives today were to question Frank Thomas, 44, of 508 Pressley street, who was arrested early this morning by police at the North Side station. The arresting police were unable to shed light on the case, having been ordered not to question the prisoner until after homicide sleuths had talked to him.

Thomas was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Marie Andrews of 805 South Canal street, North Side. Police say the woman charged that Thomas knew something about the death of her husband, Gus Andrews, who was drowned August 14, 1927, in the Allegheny River.

District Attorney Plans Fishing Trip

Plans were completed today for the vacation planned by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, who, accompanied by friends, will make a trip into the Canadian woods, 125 miles north of Toronto.

The district attorney planned to remain away until July 7, fishing for bass and trout.

"Blood Will Tell"

No Charge for Consultation or Advice. KeepWell!

But After a BLOOD Test What?

That's the question that should interest every sufferer. The microscope tells a truthful story — the Laboratory tests are a matter of science—but what of THE TREATMENT? How soon can HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE be lowered to normal? Can the terrible pain of stomach troubles be relieved? Will the treatment stop the rheumatic pains racking the muscles, and will the nerve-breaking insomnia yield? Will unsightly skin ailments disappear under treatment? Can the workingman and his family afford these treatments? All these questions find happy answers in the Health Service offered by this Institute.

Symptoms of a faulty blood stream we are successfully correcting: Anemia, Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, High Blood Pressure, Neuritis, Nervous Disorders, Skin Disorders — Psoriasis, Eczema, Acne, Impure Blood — Stomach Troubles. Over 35,000 patients successfully treated at this Laboratory.

'BOSS' BARNES, T. R. FOE, DIES

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP)—William Barnes, former Republican leader of the state, died at his home in Armonk yesterday after a week's illness of pneumonia. He was 64 years old.

He published the Albany Evening Journal for a number of years and was a member of the Republican State Committee from 1892 to 1914, and its chairman from 1911 to 1914. From 1912 to 1916 he was a member of the Republican National Committee. He was referred to by his political opponents as "Boss" Barnes.

During the campaign of 1912, former President Theodore Roosevelt, presidential nominee of the Progressive party, in a political speech referred to Mr. Barnes as a "corrupt leader." Barnes retaliated by suing Col. Roosevelt for libel. The trial, conducted at Syracuse, ended in a verdict for Roosevelt.

Shortly afterwards, Mr. Barnes, while maintaining a voting residence in Albany, moved to New York. His power then began to wane.

JUDGE DEFENDS FEE DECISION

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 26.—A sequel to Attorney Quincy D. Hasting's fight for $10,000 counsel fees in the "French orphans" case found Judge Will M. Parker, president judge of Venango County courts, called as a witness in his own court yesterday, defending himself against Hasting's allegation he had shown an unjudicial attitude in handing down a decision against Hastings. The hearing was before Judge Frank A. Reader, of Beaver.

Register and Recorder George Swyer, prothonotary, were also witnesses.

The case grew out of the bequest three years ago of John K. Crawford, of Cooperstown, leaving $72,000 to the "fatherless children of France."

Legion Man Named Peace Delegate

GROVE CITY, Pa., June 26.—John Gursky has been named delegate from Grove City Post, American Legion, to the international conference for world peace, to be held at Warsaw, Poland, in August.

EVERY WOMAN MAY PROFIT

Sallow Skin and Dark Rings Are Nature's Warnings.

Sallow skins and dark rings under the eyes are Nature's warnings to women that they will lose their attractiveness unless they change conditions quickly. In nearly every case these are the result of poor bowel and kidney action. In turn, these are poor because they are usually handicapped by catarrhal conditions. Continuous tenderness or inflammation of the membrane in the nose or throat is only Nature's alarm signal. If that were all there is to catarrh, it might be disregarded. Frequently, however, this is only the symptom of a more serious condition in the delicate membranes that line the stomach and bowels as well as the lungs and nose. When that membrane in the nose or throat is secreting too much, usually the same process is going on all over the body.

Often this is shown by stomach trouble. Many a "weak stomach" is only a serious symptom of systemic catarrh, which disturbs the proper working of the kidneys, stomach and bowels, leading to great discomfort, general debility and more serious disorders. One treatment for this general condition is so remarkably successful as to have won a widespread reputation, a treatment that assists in purifying the blood and helps enrich it, that throws off the wastes through the natural channels instead of through the mucous membranes, and that both soothes and invigorates the organs of the body. It is the result of wide and painstaking research to find the correct medicine.

This treatment is known as World's Tonic. It has met with unusual success, and its popularity in this community is the best evidence of its great value to suffering humanity. You who are the victims of indigestion, derangement of the functions of the bowels and kidneys, constipation and general weakness will find it worthy of your most careful consideration. World's Tonic can be had at Dow's, May's & Liggett's, Mayflower, or at any other first class drug store. (A-1)

Greenville Water Rate Raise Sought

GREENVILLE, Pa., June 26.—The Greenville Water Company has notified council of its plan to present a petition to the Public Service Commission asking for the right to increase water rates here about 22 per cent.

Under the new schedule a service charge of $3.30 a quarter would be levied. No cost would be placed on the first 1,500 gallons used, but there would be a charge of 35 cents for each 1,000 gallons thereafter.

Road Official Faces Pay Padding Charge

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 26.—William A. Good, 43, state superintendent of maintenance of way in the Youngstown district, was arrested charged with padding his payrolls by carrying false names on the list. Good has been connected with the State Highway Department 11 years.

JEANNETTE, Pa., June 26.—The thirty-eighth convention of the Lutheran Sunday schools of the Greensburg Conference will convene here tomorrow morning. The Greensburg Conference includes all of Westmoreland County and a part of Fayette. There are 45 Lutheran congregations in the conference, and between 500 and 700 delegates and visitors are expected.

Sloan's Liniment

Bothered With Red Pimples For Three Years. Healed by Cuticura.

"For three years I was bothered with hard, red pimples on my face and neck. They itched and burned so that I could not get a good night's sleep. I tried different remedies but only got a few days' relief and then the pimples would break out again as bad as ever. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It gave me relief so I purchased more and in about four weeks the pimples were all gone. I was healed." (Signed) Paul L. Chapman, West 8th St., R. D. 3, Wyoming, Pa., Oct. 3, 1929.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

ESTEP SEES MELLON ON POSTMASTER

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

In Chicago the other day Joe Mackrell, Pittsburgh's register of wills, found himself at the Washington Park race track when the big American Derby was being run. He talked with a friend, who was the owner of a horse entered in the Derby—Reveille Boy.

"Don't bet on my horse," the owner advised. "He hasn't a chance in the world. I don't know why I'm letting him run."

The odds on Reveille Boy were long longer than on any other runner in the race.

Not a gambling man, Mr. Mackrell had one of those hunches which come to non-gamblers. He placed a sizeable bet on the favorite, Gallant Knight, and then he tossed $5 across the boards on Reveille Boy.

Reveille Boy won. For his small bet Mr. Mackrell took back approximately $400. He was the only person at the track who held a $5 ticket on the winner.

Public Safety Director Clark is always going places where we have spies. At the circus he and his daughter were seated directly in front of a Sidewalks operative who overheard their conversation. Miss Clark asked her father to buy her a bag of peanuts, but the Director refused, whereupon the young lady spent her own money, and then what happened? Well, Mr. Clark ate most of the peanuts, that's what. Nobody or nothing is safe from our prying eyes.

Jack Burley, the golfer who sells bonds, tells the story of the two anti-drys, as they say, who came more or less to their senses in a taxicab one dawn downtown.

"Where," asked one, "are we?"

"Fifth and Smithfield," his partner in drink revealed.

"No, no," the first cross-examined, "I mean what city?"

Alone we stand, fearless and lonesome, in our protest against the business of newspapers and magazines giving up space to that feature called "What the Well Dressed Man Will Wear." If there is interest in this, why shouldn't there be a following for a piece entitled "What the Poorly Dressed Man Will Wear?" Certainly more of us are poorly dressed than are well dressed. If it is pertinent to point out that white flannels are correct for the races (but don't take our word that they are), why isn't it equally pertinent to announce that unshined shoes and a torn vest are quite the thing for a stroll down Strawberry alley. As author of the feature "What the Poorly Dressed Man Will Wear," we nominate Ray Sprigle.

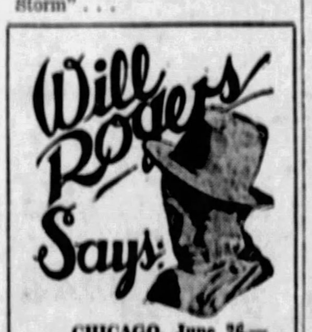
Luke Barnett, a contractor on the side, will build you a swimming pool only on condition that he gets free swimming privileges for one year, although most of the time he floats . . . Suggested slogan for Hughes' sandwich shop in Brownsville road: A cup of coffee, a sandwich and Hughes' . . . Scoop: There was a flood in her kitchen a few days ago when Mrs. Mary Curran forgot to turn off the water while she watched a parade . . . In Perugia, Italy, recently, Charles Morse Stotz, the architect, saw Ben Turpin in "Orphans of the Storm" . . .



CHICAGO, June 26.—

That fellow Kingsford-Smith must be a real flier, and he prepares his flight right. He paid a fine tribute to radio, and that gives a pretty good idea of what happened to some of those other poor fellows. You just can't get over here without bucking terrible wind. We hate to admit it, but I guess we are pretty windy over here. Old Doc Eckener with his aluminum hot dog is, I reckon, about the only sure-fire way to cross that ocean either way any time.

Twenty thousand Rotarians walking the streets of Chicago here, and not a one has been shot or robbed. It looks like negligence.

Yours,
WILL.

Morgan Flees Prison and Hides in Night Club

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Dean Ward Kent, a successful young college graduate, gets drunk while celebrating on New Year's Eve. His automobile, going at top speed, crashed into another machine and two persons are fatally injured. Kent is charged with manslaughter and sentenced to serve seven years in the penitentiary. Duncan Morgan, a handsome chap who had been a bank clerk, is sentenced to the penitentiary for robbery. He has been in prison before and does not fear the new sentence. Kent is assigned to share a cell with Morgan and "Machine Gun Butch" Schmidt. Schmidt, a hardened criminal, is now serving life for murder. Schmidt steals a locket containing a picture of Anne Marlow from Kent's pocket. Kent is in love with Anne. Morgan gets the picture from Schmidt and is attracted to the girl. He learns her name from Kent. Morgan's attorney visits the penitentiary to tell him that he will be free on a parole in a short time. Morgan sees Anne, who is visiting Kent, and is struck by her beauty. Kent "plants" a knife in Morgan's pocket. The guards find it, and as a result Morgan loses the expected pardon and is put in solitary confinement for 30 days. He plans revenge. He is almost dead when taken out of the dungeon and is put in the prison hospital. Another prisoner dies and is prepared for burial. Seeing a chance to escape, Morgan hides the corpse and takes its place in a big sack.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.

Duncan Morgan fingered the empty whisky glass and looked into the anxious faces around him.

"Go on, Morg, tell us what you did when you woke up in that dead bus!" exclaimed One-Eyed Pete. The others, seated about the table on the second floor of the Hi-Hatters' Club, nodded.

"Well," continued Duncan Morgan, "I was bouncing along from side to side in that thing and I couldn't imagine where I was for a moment. Then it all came to me. I knew I wasn't in a grave from the way the hearse was shaking it up, but I didn't know just how far I was from one. So I begun to untie that string on the sack and pretty soon I had my head out. There was a partition between the driver's seat and part of the car I was in. And the door in the back wasn't locked—because I guess they didn't figure the resurrection was comin' that night.

"The first thing I knew I was sprawled in the middle of the road and I thought I had busted every bone in my body. But I got up and began to take bearings. It was a moonlight night. I could see the red light of the dead-wagon high-tailing it down the road. This gave me a laugh. But I didn't have much time to feel funny, because just then I heard the prison siren and I knew they found they had an unburied corpse in the morgue and a live one runnin' around loose. I got my bearings from the sound of the siren.

Painful Ride
Is Hurt by Cans on Milk Truck

"Anyway, I could see the lights of a nearby town. I was barefoot, an' with that prison nightgown on me I didn't look exactly snappy to go steppin'. But it was warm. Now, I knew that there was an all night taxi stand at the railroad station in that town and I knew Red Maguire run that stand.

"I struck out across the field for a highway on the other side, that led into town. I figured there would be some milk trucks coming along later in the night and they would go right to the station. I got to the highway, and then I laid down in the bushes near a sharp curve in the road. Pretty soon a truck comes along and I took a long chance on it being a milk truck. Sure enough it was.

"I tailed it and crawled in between the cans and was almost smashed to death before we got to the depot. The driver stopped right across the street and left the truck there, while he went into a one-arm joint for some coffee. He left his overcoat on the seat.

"I found a pair of rubber boots in the back and I was fixed pretty. Soon I was hikin' across the street and over to the taxi stand. I got right in the cab. The driver took one look at me and was going to run, but I mentioned Red Maguire and told him cold who I was and promised him a century to drive me here. He said he'd see and I thought he was going to turn me up. He drove down the street and went into a restaurant and called somebody on the telephone.

"'Red says it's okay,' he says when he comes out. I breathed again. Then we started for the big burg and here I am. Eh, Tom?"

Tom, the driver, grinned.

"He's some driver!" exclaimed Morgan.

"Let's have another drink—good luck, Morg!"

"Good luck—say, get me some clothes and a razor. And call that lazy mouthpiece of mine—Michael Dunn."

In the Hi-Hatters' Club Morgan felt safe again among his friends. The club was under protection and ran all night. It was 5 o'clock in the morning, and downstairs he could hear the thump-thump of the orchestra and the creaking of the dance floor as the guests made merry.

Swindlers
Defraud Patrons of Their Money

For instance, a man's bill was $98 after he had had a few rounds of drinks. If he protested it, the smooth proprietor tried to reason with him and assure him that he had ordered drinks for all the girl entertainers and boys of the orchestra. If he protested still, he was turned over to the bouncer, who cleaned out his pockets as he hustled him in an undignified way through the door. Outside, it was useless for him to appeal to the cop on the corner, as he was "on the in" and might threaten to pick him up for intoxication, and usually made that plain.

And then, too, there was the "nipup" check gag. If a fellow couldn't pay and asked for a blank check it was graciously given him, or if he had one and was drunk the head man offered to write it. The boss filled out the amount himself, leaving the numerals so he could raise them after the signature had staggered on. Then, later as a gesture of contempt for payment and to keep the other from stopping payment the next day.

It was the hangout for the gang, and the leader, Dapper Danny Duber, operated it as a "tip-and-toss." And it was one of the fastest gyps of its kind in the city. Every customer was appraised as he came in and the gang tried to take him not only for all the cash he had in his pocket, but for any checks or "paper" that could be found or obtained.

FLEMING PARK ROAD OPENED

Traffic congestion on Neville Island, which has been increasing during the past two years while the Fleming Park road between McKees Rocks and Coraopolis was constructed, was relieved today with the opening of the new road, the touring bureau of the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced. The Fleming Park highway eliminates passage over Neville Island. It is part of state route 51.

Two important highways in this section which have been closed due to reconstruction work will be opened for July 4 traffic, the State Highway officials for this district promise. The Perry highway, U. S. Route 19, between Wexford and Warrendale, has been completed and will be opened Thursday, July 3. On the same day, the Steubenville pike and Lincoln highway, U. S. Route 22 and 30, west of Pittsburgh, which has been closed during the spring, will be reopened.

A detour was placed Monday on state route 18, the main road between Waynesburg and Brownsville, to permit reconstruction work. The detour is two miles long and in good condition between Waynesburg and Carmichaels.

Injured by Truck, Sues for $50,000

Steve's Venture In Romance Costs $32

Steve Macurak, of 2802 Carson street, had $32 in his pocket and love in his heart as he was strolling along Carson street early this morning. In front of No. 2430 he met a "beautiful young lady." They stepped into the doorway to talk. Just then she cried:

"Here comes the boy friend."

She ran to the curb and leaped into a car with a New York license.

About this time Steve realized that he had lost not only his beautiful young lady but also his $32 as the New York auto vanished.

DOPED VICTIMS SEEK THIEVES

Dravosburg police today were seeking thieves who, according to a report made by Henry Nall, of Lebanon road, chloroformed him and members of his family and subsequently killed and stole about 200 chickens from his farm.

Noll said he, his wife and two children noticed the odor of chloroform when they awoke yesterday, and after going to his henhouse, found the heads of his chickens lying on the floor.

Only five chickens were left alive, Noll told Police Chief C. A. Livingston, of Dravosburg.

'SHORT CHANGE' SUSPECT HELD

Accused of short-changing a gasoline station attendant, Martin Hendel, 36, of 1720 Broadway, Beechview, was arrested by North Side police early today. Hendel was arrested on complaint of Samuel Bauer, 21, of 1821 Brighton road, an attendant at a service station at 1963 East Ohio street. Hendel is charged with being a suspicious person.

Bauer told police a man ordered gasoline Tuesday night, giving him $10 in payment. The man argued about the amount of change and confused the attendant into giving him $5 too much. Bauer obtained the license number of the machine and turned it over to police when he discovered he was $5 short.

Patrolman John Thompson, Jr., saw the machine parked in North Lincoln avenue early today, and he and Capt. Anthony Block entered a house at 948 North Lincoln avenue and arrested Hendel.

Restaurant Burglar Escapes With $35

OUTLINES PLAN FOR TOWN HALL

Los Angeles' town hall project with 20,000-seating capacity auditorium and 100,000-square foot exposition hall being financed privately was cited today by Eugene C. Eppley, of the Eppley Hotels Company, as an example of Pittsburgh's opportunity in the convention field.

Outlining the project to Mark W. Egan, convention and visitors bureau manager of the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Eppley pointed out that the auditorium had already been leased at $300,000 yearly rental and the project will not be completed until next year.

The convention facilities will cost $3,500,000, while a 12-story office structure and 500-room hotel will be included in the project making a total investment of $12,000,000. It is near the business section, Mr. Eppley said, and added:

"If a remotely located city like Los Angeles can secure conventions to keep one of the largest auditoriums in the country filled, Pittsburgh with its prime central geographical and transportation location would have no difficulty in attracting the greatest gatherings and events provided the Town Hall is built and properly located. The auditorium rental gives some idea of the return Allegheny County might expect."

REVOCATION OF ORDER ASKED

Temporary Appointment Of Inspector Here Brings Protest; Views Expressed

WASHINGTON, June 26, — (A.P.) Representative Harry A. Estep in a 30-minute conference with Secretary Mellon today protested the appointment of Postal Inspetcor W. A. Kenyon, of South Carolina, as acting postmaster at Pittsburgh.

Mellon was asked by the Representative to co-operate with the Allegheny County delegation in having the order issued yesterday by Acting Postmaster General Coleman revoked.

Estep said today:

Representative Estep:

"I am surprised that the Postmaster General found it necessary to go to some distant place to select an inspector to serve as acting postmaster at Pittsburgh. I do not think it was necessary to appoint an acting postmaster when there are in the Pittsburgh office men who could fill the postmastership if appointed by Senator Reed."

SURPRISE EXPRESSED

Except for Congressman Porter, who is ill in the Allegheny General Hospital, Pittsburgh, all Allegheny County representatives expressed surprise over the action of Acting Postmaster General Coleman, who had issued the order temporarily assigning Kenyon to Pittsburgh.

The representatives had hoped Senator Reed, to whom they have deferred in recommending a successor to Postmaster George W. Gosser, scheduled to retire under the age limit July 1, would select an employe of the Pittsburgh office. James B. Anderson, assistant postmaster, received the greatest number of indorsements, the representatives said, although L. L. Hill, M. J. Shortley and P. F. Hagan, all residents of Allegheny County, had been regarded as applicants.

REED SILENT ON MOVE

Senator Reed had no comment to make on the action of the department. He said he had been studying the qualifications and records of applicants now in the postal service, but had reached no conclusion.

Temporary filling of the place merely postpones a decision, the representatives agreed, after an informal conference. Their individual comment follows:

AGREED ON ANDERSON

Representative Kelly, of the House Postal Committee:

"The Postoffice Department never appoints an inspector in charge as postmaster unless those who are expected to suggest a successor fail to agree on a candidate. We have agreed on Assistant Postmaster James B. Anderson. I assume that when Senator Reed failed to submit his name, or the name of some other candidate, that the Postmaster General acted as he believed best.

"I believe, however, that it would have been better for the interests of Pittsburgh and the vast postal territory which that office serves, if a Pittsburgher had been named at once to assume the duties of postmaster."

Representative Campbell:

"I think someone could have been found in Pittsburgh to serve permanently or temporarily as postmaster. Of course I regard the appointment as a senatorial prerogative."

Representative Sullivan:

"I am surprised that Senator Reed did not appoint a Pittsburgher."

Woman Sues Bus Line for Injuries

Thrown through the door of a coach of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, when the machine was brought to a sudden stop, Mrs. Ruth Saunders, of Oakland, has brought suit for $15,000. The accident happened at Niagara street and the Boulevard of the Allies, April 18, as she was about to alight from the coach which she avers was operated carelessly. Her left arm and right ankle were hurt.

Mother Treasures Model Plane of Injured Boy

A small wooden model of an airplane, carved by her 12-year-old son, Bernard, today reminds Mrs. Anna Malecki, of 1902 Sidney street, South Side, of the happiness of the boy yesterday, a few moments before he was struck and seriously injured by an automobile.

The lad is in critical condition in St. Joseph's Hospital, suffering concussion of the brain.

Yesterday the boy finished carving the airplane and took it across Sidney street to show it to a neighbor. Returning home, he ran across the street into the path of an auto driven by Vincent Bradchiclio, 48, of 48 South Twenty-second street.

Mrs. Malecki, from her window, saw Bradchiclio lift her son and take him to the hospital. The airplane model was brought into the house by sympathetic neighbors.

Mayview's Mystery Man Yearns to Know Name

He came out of nowhere nearly five years ago. No one knows him. Although he peers sharply into faces that pass him, he seems unable to pierce the masks that his own mind has thrown over them.

"Joe Doe"

This man without a name is seeking one. Dr. John S. Hammers, superintendent of Mayview Hospital, is trying to solve the mystery. At the city hospital, where the unknown one has idled five years, they call him "Joe Doe."

Cut off from the past, Joe sits around the Mayview grounds. Day after day attendants hope the magic of some presence may restore him. But days pass and he remains an enigma.

Thousands of wayfarers have passed through the doors of Mayview that lead to the record room. On "Joe Doe's" page this simple story has been written:

"Found September 9, 1926, with heavy beard, a recluse in a vacant house on the Boulevard of the Allies, near Seneca street. Height, 5 feet 5½ inches; weight, 200 pounds; number, 10281; age, unknown."

PAVING GOOD, REPAIRS ARE ORDERED

Hale Street Residents Protest Council's Action; See No Need for Work

While taxpayers all over the city clamor for much needed street improvements, council has approved and the city engineer has recommended the repaving of Hale street, Brushton, at a cost of $14,802, although the roadway is in almost perfect condition.

Hale street, patched and repaired just about a year ago, according to residents, will be entirely rebuilt. The existing paving, consisting of asphalt on a six-inch concrete base, will be replaced with an asphalt covering of a slightly different type over a seven-inch concrete base, and for the most part new curbing will be installed.

STREET EXCEPTION

As a usual thing, residents concerned about street improvements wrangle and fight with politicians for months, even years, before their petitions are given any consideration. But not so with Hale street, where the taxpayers are more or less mystified by the unsolicited offer of repaving.

For the most part property owners and residents along Hale street do not want the street torn up. They say:

"We can see no reason for tearing the street up at this time."

Catherine E. Wallace and her brother, William F. Wallace, owners of a block of dwelling houses from Kelly street to Lincoln avenue, expressed the view of the taxpayers.

NO NEED SEEN

"Certainly there is no need for the repaving of Hale street at this time, but if the politicians think it should be done, I guess it will be regardless of what the taxpayers say."

Mr. Wallace added:

"I suppose this is just another reason why taxes are so high."

Bennett school occupies almost a block from Bennett street back along Hale street towards Frankstown avenue. Two churches occupy another block a little lower from Kelly back to Bennett and for the most part, dwelling houses fill in the rest of Hale street.

The residents, mostly renters, have no voice in the matter of repaving and the owners, generally, are not concerned with it so long as their properties are not affected.

BAKERY BLAST HURTS WORKER

A bucket wedged in the chimney from the roof may have been responsible for the explosion today on the third floor of Sportolari, Inc., at 821 Second avenue, in which a man was slightly burned about the face. The explosion is thought to have taken place after the lack of draught in the chimney caused the gas under a bake oven to go out.

The injured man, Natale Giovannietti, of 637 Baldwin street, Bridgeville, is an employe of the company and received burns about the face. He was taken to Mercy Hospital.

At the time of the explosion Elizabeth Sportolari and Bernice Amarant, who are employed at the factory, were on the first floor.

WORK SPEEDED ON BRIDGE

Good progress is being made in building piers for the McKees Rocks-North Side Bridge over the Ohio River, with prospect of all sub-structure work being completed this fall, according to engineers of the Dravo Contracting Company.

Five piers on the north shore and two of five on the south shore are finished. Two river piers are 50 feet above pool level. They will attain a height of 170 feet above the surface of the water at the loftiest point.

Woman Seeks Good Home For Pet Horse; Joins City 'Black Squad'

The Duke, valued and petted saddle horse of Mrs. Hans Bode, 2572 Beechwood boulevard, has a permanent home and a much coveted place of prominence in the city police "black squad" just because his mistress was willing to sacrifice a few hundred dollars to insure his future.

It is an unusual story—yet not so extraordinary among horsemen and women.

Mrs. Bode, unable to keep The Duke for her own use because of home duties, offered him for sale for $1,000. She heard of the city's mounted force and their pride in their horses. She offered The Duke to Dave McDonald, superintendent of the city Bureau of Horses.

Supt. McDonald wanted the horse, but a rule of his department prohibits the payment of more than $300. He explained to Mrs. Bode. She wanted The Duke to get a good home. She wanted to be able to see him once in a while. She shipped The Duke to the city stables and now this superb specimen of horseflesh occupies a place of honor in the "Black Squad."

There are other fine horses in the squad, too. Most of them were obtained in much the same manner.

OTHER FINE HORSES

There is Rex, winner of the championship cup and the cup for the best police horse in the city. Rex was a show horse when he came into the squad in 1928. His owner asked $1,500 for him, but consented to his joining the "Black Squad" and sale went through at $300. This horse is ridden by Patrolman Charles Dye.

Hottentot, a four-year-old high bred trotter, could beat 2:20 as a 2-year-old, but he wasn't quite good enough to win the colt stakes, so he was sold by his owner, Sheriff Ross Stout at Clarksburg, W. Va., for $250. Pilot, another fine horse, came into the ranks from Brownsville, for $200. Ruby, an unbeaten black mare of 1929 and her stable mate Kingwood, who won second ribbon every time shown at the Eastern fairs, were purchased at Jamestown from their owner who wanted them in the "Mounted" service. He asked $1,000 for the pair, but took $550 to get them into the squad. Toby, another handsome gaited horse cost only $200, although his owner valued him at $400.

HE HAS 2 WIVES, DIVORCE VOIDED

Michael Estok, of Ann street, McKeesport, has one wife too many today. Judge James B. Drew in Common Pleas Court this morning revoked a decree of divorce given Estok December 21, 1923, on the ground that it had been obtained by fraud. Meanwhile Estok had married again.

Estok first was married in Austria in 1902, and he and his wife, Julia, came to the United States. Mrs. Estok returned to Austria in 1905. When she again came here in 1929 she found her husband married and he told her they had been divorced.

The court today found that Mrs. Estok had had no notice of the divorce proceeding and ordered the decree vacated, asserting that Estok's statement made under oath that his wife had deserted him was false.

Committee Points to Need Of New Regulations to Prevent Jam of Autos

George E. Clarkson, chairman of the sub-committee of the Better Traffic Committee, studying conditions in the Liberty Tubes, said today that the air control system in the tubes is more than adequate to handle conditions there.

In a letter to the County Commissioners, he recommended for the sub-committee that horse drawn vehicles be kept from the tubes during peak hours, and that a stop sign be placed at the north end to keep traffic from entering in case of a jam.

Other signs should be placed in the tubes directing Saw Mill Run boulevard traffic to keep to the left, the letter stated. Provision should also be made for a sign on Boggs avenue preventing left turns from Warrington avenue to the tunnels.

CAR BORROWERS PAROLED

After a caustic lecture from the bench, Judge H. H. Rowand paroled a girl and three young men who pleaded guilty to theft of an automobile in Criminal Court today.

Judge Rowand refused to hear testimony or to listen to pleas by parents and relatives of the four. The commonwealth charged that they took an automobile belonging to Elizabeth L. Winkler, of 210 Arlington avenue, for a joyride June 16. The machine was recovered later.

Judge Rowand said:

"Ninety-five per cent of the children go wrong because of the parents. If the parents would use a strap or paddle it wouldn't be necessary for these fathers and mothers to come here and plead for leniency."

The girl defendant, Edna E. Speer, 16, of 2627½ Leland street, was paroled for four years, and the others for five years. They were John J. Beatty, 17, of 1338 Oakhill street; William J. Doran, 18, of 2813 Breaker street, and Raymond A. Stephens, 18, of 4 Davis row.

SEEK PADLOCK ON EAGLES

A preliminary injunction against Westinghouse Aerie No. 693, Fraternal Order of Eagles, of 307 Electric avenue, East Pittsburgh, was granted by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court today under the common nuisance provisions of the national prohibition act. Final hearing is set for September 9. Meanwhile the organization is restrained from permitting further violations of the prohibition laws on the premises.

Similar action as to preliminary injunction and date for final hearing was taken against Joe Walton's Cafe, of 311 Eighth avenue, Homestead.

The bill of complaint against the Eagles, supported by affidavits of prohibition agents, alleged that purchases of whisky, wine and homebrew had been made May 16, 17 and 19 and that in a raid May 20, 11 gallons of moonshine, 10 gallons of wine and 10 cases of homebrew had been seized.

Frank Thomas, 44, of 508 Pressley street, was turned over to the homicide squad today by Magistrate Ray Schneider for questioning in connection with the drowning of Gustave Andrews, of 803 South Canal street, three years ago.

Thomas was arrested last night on complaint of the drowned man's widow, Mrs. Marie Andrews.

She told Magistrate Schneider at a hearing in North Side police station that several times since her husband's death Thomas had told her "that he knew how her husband came by his end." Thomas denied the woman's story.

Andrews was drowned in the Allegheny river at the foot of Progress street in August, 1927.

WORK SPEEDED AS COUNCIL LETS 34 CITY PROJECTS

The Camera Question Box

Today's question—Physicians now in convention in Detroit are alarmed lest their profession become state controlled. Would you be in favor of a plan through which all medical men would become employes of the state and medical attention would be furnished as a public service?

R. P. Bovard

R. P. BOVARD, service manager, Wilkinsburg: — No. I don't think such a plan would be advisable. With such a procedure we would lose the best of our physicians and could not make a selection when in need of one.

Miss McMillen

MISS KATHERINE McMILLEN, saleswoman, Crafton: — I don't approve of the idea at all. Each doctor has his own way of doing things and can do better work than if he were under state supervision.

S. Armstrong

STANLEY ARMSTRONG, service man, Elrama: —There isn't any reason why doctors shouldn't contribute to charity by putting themselves under control of the state. Persons frequently need them when they can't possibly pay for their services.

E. L. Wenger

E. L. WENGER, printer Bellevue:—I wouldn't favor that plan at all. State control would take away the independence of the physicians and would limit their earnings. Under that system they wouldn't give the same quality of service as they give in individual work.

Miss Grossman

MISS SARA GROSSMAN, assistant manager, East End:—Doctors can do more with private practice than they possibly could under government control. They can specialize more in the lines which interest them and thus do a better type of work.

W. B. Rodgers

WM. B. RODGERS, member board of Suburban Hospital, Bellevue: — Such a plan is not a good thing. Personal initiative has a lot to do with the advancement of a doctor and such initiative would not be present if he were a state employe. A man can frequently make good for himself but could not if he were placed on a par with a group of others. Personal ambition is a great incentive.

WARD LEADERS ELECTED BY DEMOCRATS

Chairmen, Officers Named At Meetings in City; Support Pledged Ticket

Ward chairmen of the Democratic organization were elected throughout the city at meetings held last night. Indorsements of the Democratic slate taken for the November election also were made. P. J. Donahue was elected chairman in the First Ward. Agnes Rice and J. H. Weber were named vice chairman and secretary at the First Ward meeting.

In the Fifth Ward M. B. Donnelly was elected chairman; Mrs. Lillian Kyle, vice chairman, and Mrs. Jennie Barbin, secretary. The Tenth Ward Democrats elected Edward J. Caye, chairman; Miss Margaret Skeehan, vice chairman, and Mrs. Theresa Callwood, secretary.

OFFICER HURT, DRIVER HELD

Fred Moyer, 26, a taxicab driver of 324 Emerson street, was scheduled for a hearing in East End Police Court today, accused of resisting arrest and with knocking Patrolman Robert Kosmal beneath a parked automobile at Homewood and Hamilton avenues last night. The patrolman was severely bruised.

Patrolman Kosmal said he found seven taxicabs at the corner where provisions are made for two. The drivers were gambling, the officers reported. He had succeeded in arresting three of the drivers and then tried to arrest Moyer. The three other drivers were charged with disorderly conduct and Moyer with being a suspicious person.

HOLD FIFTH MAN IN FAKE THEFT

After a search of eight months, Ben Malkin, 22, of Elsinore square, was arrested by city detectives last night for his alleged participation in the "fake" robbery of the Washington Cleaning and Dyeing Company, Washington boulevard. Detectives say that he has admitted his part in the plot.

Four other suspects, including Max Levine, owner of the place, have been indicted for the false theft of about $27,000 worth of clothing. City Detectives Walter Monoghan and Thomas Morgan arrested Malkin while he was walking in Smithfield street.

FIGHT AMMONIA LEAK IN HOTEL

Relays of city firemen worked for more than an hour last night in the sub-cellar of the William Penn Hotel, stopping a leak in ammonia lines in the basement. The men were equipped with gas masks.

Two trucks from Engine Company No. 3 were sent to the scene. A small crowd gathered in Oliver avenue to watch the men at work.

Seek Five Bandits For Auto Holdup

Police today were searching for five men in an automobile who blocked the path of Philip Finkelstein, of 1617 Locust street, as he was driving in the Steubenville pike, five miles from the West Virginia state line, and stole his car, watch and diamond pin. Description of the men was broadcast to police stations throughout the state shortly after last midnight.

Fall from Bridge Kills Iron Worker

Injuries suffered when he fell from the new McKees Rocks, North Side bridge on which he was working, caused the death last night of Reed S. Hefferman, 27, an iron worker, of 1203 West North avenue. Hefferman died in St. John's Hospital. He had been working on the structure on the North Side approach when he lost his balance and fell 80 feet into a pile of steel work.

SITE ACQUIRED FOR SCHOOL

Four properties adjoining the Prospect school, Prospect street, Mt. Washington, have been acquired by the Board of Education for the site of the new Prospect Junior High School, it was announced. The properties were obtained through condemnation proceedings and the land has been appraised at a total valuation of about $42,000.

It will be several months before the occupants are required to vacate so the houses can be torn down. The school board elected James T. Steen and Sons architects for the new junior school. After the new junior high school is erected, the old building will be torn down and its site used as a playground. The junior high school is expected to relieve crowded conditions in South Hills High School.

CONSTRUCTION JOBS TOTAL $266,204

Bennett Street Improvement Tops List, With Repairs, Bridge Work Authorized

Work on 34 city construction projects, for which contracts were awarded before Mayor Charles H. Kline left on his vacation yesterday, already is starting.

The contracts totaled $266,204 and are for street, sewer, water, playground and bridge improvements authorized by Council during the past few weeks.

OAKWOOD ST. JOB

The largest single item on the list is the improvement of Bennett street from Oakwood street to Frankstown avenue. This was awarded to A. F. Jordano Company for $62,453.

The badly needed Pocusset street repaving is in the list. It is to be completed by September 2 and the contract price is $19,179.

IMPROVE VIADUCT

Another piece of work that had been generally demanded is the improvement of Viaduct 2, Boulevard of the Allies. The contract price is $9,718. This viaduct is the one crossing Forbes street at Brady street. Many accidents, major and minor, have happened here because of skidding in wet weather.

Frank Vittor, Pittsburgh sculptor, was awarded a contract for models for bronze tablets on the new East Street Bridge. His bid was $792.

SPEED WORK ON RIVER ROAD

Seven of nine bridges have been completed and 60 per cent of concrete roadway has been laid in the outer half of the Ohio River boulevard, engineers of Booth & Flinn, contractors, said today.

At the present rate of progress the remaining bridges, Jack's Run and Verner's Run spans, should be completed by September, and all roadbed finished by late October. That portion of the boulevard through the North Boroughs will be opened for traffic by December, engineers believe, six months ahead of schedule.

Rapid progress also is being made on the city end of the new highway by the Vang Construction company.

Injured in Crash, Suit Asks $40,000

Joseph Skuzinski and his wife, Sophia, claim $40,000 damages for personal injuries to Mrs. Skuzinski, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court against Marie L. Brickley. It is alleged that a collision resulted in McKee Place, because of the manner in which the Brickley car was parked. The injured woman asks $25,000 and her husband $15,000.

6 PLACES HIT IN RACE BOOK RAID

Six establishments were raided this morning and racing forms confiscated by a squad headed by Police Lieut. William Walsh.

The first address visited was on the second floor of 1913 Liberty avenue, where a man who gave his name and address as George Barren, 30, of 1011 Liberty avenue, was taken.

The second place was at 118 Sixth street. Police arrested John Smith, 32, of 134 Oakland avenue; William Gordon, 41, of 1213 Center avenue, and George Hackett, 53, of 1248 Irwin avenue. Smith, according to police, is the proprietor.

Police arrested Charles Matthews, 58, of 718 Boggs avenue, in a raid at 410 Third avenue, and George Schoen, 42, of 1210 Voskamp street, at 970 William Penn way; Edward Reese, 55, of 16 Beltzhoover avenue, at 228 Diamond street, and Harry Balfer, 34, of 5923 Bryant street, at 305 Diamond street.

A hearing will be granted the men tomorrow morning in Central Police Court.

Bring Woman Here Over Bad Checks

County Detective James McGinley was to return here today from New York with Mrs. Catherine Littleton, 50, alleged bad check artist, whom he found there after a six months' search.

Chief County Detective George Murren said the woman is wanted here for defrauding the Hotel Kilkeary of $500 and for passing a worthless check. She is also under parole here, he said.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Miss Snow To Be Bud Of Fall

Every day in June seems more attractive than the preceding day, and each successive day boasts of more and more interesting plans for folks in the social world.

Just now it's difficult to decide just which event to talk about first. Today, for example, there's a notable wedding taking place at a summer resort with a Pittsburgh girl as the bride. And I know of the dates for a horse-show in the fall, and the name of another debutante, who has just been added to the bud list.

The debutante is Carolyn-Clare Snow, daughter of the L. Blaine Snows, of Kinsman road, and a niece of Mrs. William D. Hamilton, of the Hotel Schenley.

Mrs. Hamilton will give a tea for her niece on December 20 in the ballroom of the Twentieth Century Club.

And the autumnal horse show is that held annually at Greensburg. The dates are September 19 and 20, and, of course, the old polo grounds at Greensburg will be the scene of this equine event.

Bride Today

The picturesque Episcopal Church of St. Andrew-by-the-Sea, Hyannisport, Mass., is the scene this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock of the wedding of Ruth Elliott Drake, daughter of the J. Frank Drakes, of Pembroke place, and Chester Harding Lasell, son of the Josiah Manning Lasells, of Whitinsville, Mass.

Summer flowers and ferns decorate the church, and the officiant is the Rev. Dr. Edwin J. Van Etten, rector of the Calvary Episcopal Church, of Pittsburgh. And witnessing the ceremony are 200 guests.

The bride, who made her debut during the past winter, is being given in marriage by her father. She is wearing ivory satin made in the princess mode with a court train and a veil of tulle arranged with a band of rose point lace. Her flowers are calla lilies.

Chiffon Frocks

Virginia and Constance Drake, their sister's maids of honor, are wearing lovely frocks of peach-colored chiffon fashioned with long, full skirts and brief caps and peach-colored horsehair hats.

Similar gowns of aquamarine chiffon with hats to match are being worn by the bridesmaids, Mrs. Harvey Thompson, of Greenwich, Conn.; Mrs. Kenneth Green, Jr., and Mary Wilson, of St. Louis; Laura Evans and Frances Reed, of Pittsburgh, debutantes of the past winter; Deborah Rood, of Wilmington, Del.; Margaret Watkins and Sally Weston, both of New York. They are all carrying arm bouquets of garden flowers.

Benjamin Langmaid, of Swampscott, Mass., is best man and Kenneth Green, Jr., of St. Louis; Harold Gross, of Providence, R. I.; Murray Keller and John Lasell, of Whitinsville, Mass.; Donald Rose, Jr., of Brooklyn; Frederick Sherman, of Greenwich, Conn.; Livingston Schwartz, of Philadelphia; Dudley Skinner and Daniel Wheeler, of Bridgeport, Conn., are ushers.

A reception in the Drake's Hyannisport place is following the wedding. After a honeymoon in Europe, the young Lasells will make their home in Greenwich, Conn.

The bride is a graduate of Miss Porter's School, Farmington, Conn., and studied abroad a year before making her debut. Mr. Lasell was graduated Tuesday from Williams College, Williamsport, Mass., where he was captain of the college football team last fall. He's a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. His family for many years has spent the summer at Hyannisport where he met his bride.

Pittsburgh folks at the wedding included the Howard J. Heinses, Howard J. Heinz, Jr., the Leslie M. Johnstons, the William B. Trainers, the William S. Moorheads, the George S. Olivers, the Franklin C. Irishes, John H. Hillman, III, James McKay and Douglas Hanna.

The guests also included Pittsburgh members of the Hyannisport and Wianno summer colonies. Among them are the Frederick Ickes Merricks, the Walter C. Carrolls, the Howard S. Evanses, the J. Judson Brookses and the Ralph S. Richardses.

Miss Josephine Whitney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Whitney, has named Saturday as her wedding day when she will marry Olaf Alfred Dickman, of New York. Miss Whitney has chosen Mrs. Edward Foote Whitney to be her only attendant. Metler Cox, of West Haven, Conn., will be the best man and the ushers will include Wallace Whitney, brother of the bride, P. Douglas Campbell, of Lowell, Mass.; Herbert Moershfelder, of Buffalo, N. Y., and M. A. Buckley, of Olean, N. Y. There will be a small reception in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

Mrs. Edward Whitney entertained in honor of the bridle-elect on Saturday at a bridge-tea in her home. Mrs. Harry Chase, of Severn street, gave a bridge luncheon in her home on Monday, and Mrs. William Ross-Lewin Howell, of Midland, entertained at a bridge-luncheon and shower in the Edgewood Country Club on Tuesday.

Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Miss Marie Philomena Freyvogel became the bride of Lawrence Koch, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Koch, of Bloomfield, in St. Paul's Cathedral.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, John A. Freyvogel, wore rose point lace with a long skirt and cocktail jacket of the same lace. She wore an apricot horsehair hat and carried talisman roses and lilies of the valley. Her only attendant was Miss Clara Marie Walsh, who wore yellow lace and chiffon with a matching hat and carried yellow roses and daisies.

Gerald Koch was his brother's best man and the ushers included Frank G. Freyvogel, Robert J. Freyvogel, Albert J. Freyvogel, all brothers of the bride, and Chester Koch, brother of the bridegroom.

After the wedding there was a reception and breakfast in the Hotel Schenley. Mr. and Mrs. Koch left for a motor trip through the East and Canada. They will make their home in Oakland when they return.

Miss Oliverne M. Sutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Monte V. Sutton, of Craighead street, Mt. Washington, and Duane S. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Miller, of Pittsburgh, were married Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock in St. George's Church by the Rev. S. Schramm.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin, made with a long circular skirt, and a veil of tulle arranged with a cap of real lace and pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Her maid of honor, Miss Marie Karl, wore pink georgette with a picture hat to match, and Miss Margaret Gilligan as bridesmaid wore a powder blue georgette and cream lace dress with hat to match, and both carried red roses. Miss Gertrude Sutton, who was her sister's junior bridesmaid, appeared in a frock of peach georgette and cream lace, and carried a Dresden bouquet.

Donald Miller was his brother's best man, and Paul and Monte Sutton, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

The mother of the bride wore green crepe and cream lace, and a hat to match, and the mother of the bridegroom, navy blue georgette and cream lace with a hat to match.

A wedding breakfast in the home of the bride's parents with covers laid for 48 followed the ceremony. After an eastern trip Mr. and Mrs. Miller will be at home in Pittsburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bischoff, of Alliance, O., grandparents of the bride, were among the out-of-town guests.

Miss Florence Tipper, well entertain on Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock in her home in Brighton road. Her mother, Mrs. T. C. Tipper, will receive with her, and her aides will be Mrs. Essie Eyman, Mrs. Walter McFarland, Miss Esther Madden and Miss Thelma Schwarz.

Colloquium Year Book Issued

A comprehensive and exceedingly interesting program on Russia is outlined in the new year books of the Colloquium Club, which have just been issued. From the first study of "Primitive Russia" on the opening day, October 13, to the concluding afternoon and its discussion of "Russian Drama," the programs are full of meat and have only two interruptions. The first will be president's day on October 27 at the Pennsylvania College for Women, the usual meeting place for this occasion, and the second is the annual open day on January 26.

Among the study topics assigned for papers by members are "The Scythians and Slavs," "Life Under Muscovite Rule," "The Beginning of the House of Romanoff," "Great Leaders," "Development of Siberia," "Life at Court," "Results of the Japanese-Russian War in Russia," "Downfall of the House of Romanoff," "The Revolution," "Politics and Government," "Social Conditions," "Religion," "Literature of Early Russia" and "Art and Music."

Readings from plays, books and poems will add their special interest to several of the year's programs.

SHEER FABRICS INTRODUCE FLUFFY FURS TO THE MODE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, June 26.—The aura around this sartorial era is a soft and feminine one, and if such an ethereal body could be analyzed it would be found to consist of chiffon, lace and fur, all of them in delicate, or pastel shades. These delectable fabrics combined with soft and fluffy furs strike the keynote of a season which finds more satisfaction in lovely rather than in magnificent or elaborate clothes. The flowing, gracious lines of the mode lend themselves to such fabrics and treatment, without too much stressing of mere prettiness, a quality which if not cleverly handled becomes lamentably insipid, something which the great majority of women will not tolerate in themselves or in their clothes.

CLEVER COATS go to lunch at the Ritz, and so do clever stylists for at that fashionable resort, the mode as it pertains to town may be observed at its sparkling best. Simplicity is the hall mark of the clothes seen in Paris just now, but a simplicity that is subtly complex, and very costly. Dangerously simple little coats and frocks made of intricate piecings strategically placed, with little or no embellishment seem to be prime favorites with les elegantes here, as well as with women on your side of the big trough.

THE COAT SKETCHED for this page was seen at the Ritz recently and is a fine example of the coat now extant. It was of black madiana, the edges all around cut in tooth effect and stitched to prevent ravelling. The cape fits snugly over the shoulders and passes beneath shallow revers in front. Narrow turnback cuffs have the tooth-edge finish. Inset horizontal bands placed low on the coat, break the long straight line of the tube-like silhouette. We are inclined to think that this is a recent Chanel model, as it has all the characteristics of the current trend of this clever couturiere.

Rose-beige chiffon, combined with matching lace, of a very delicate pattern makes a most dainty evening frock from Louiseboulanger. The deep lace bertha, opening at one side is bordered with ziveline. There is a soft chiffon flower on one shoulder. The raised waistline is shirred into an inner or concealed belt. The skirt touches the floor at sides and back, clearing the insteps in front.

GRAPE JUICE For Breakfast!

Physicians Recommend It

Here are seven of the reasons why Welch's is fast becoming the favorite breakfast fruit juice in many thousands of homes:

1. Welch's is the pure, unadulterated juice of luscious Concord grapes, Pasteurized.
2. Welch's is rich in fruit nourishment and mineral salts, and so perfectly adapted to the human system that it is taken into the blood-stream without digestive effort, releasing quick new energy. It's non-fattening.
3. Welch's is already squeezed. No fuss!
4. There's no squeezer to clean, no machinery to sterilize. No muss!
5. There's not a particle of waste!
6. In every pint there are six liberal portions, making Welch's only 5c a glass—costs even less if diluted with one-third water, and many prefer it so.
7. It's ready instantly. And temptingly delicious. You simply dilute to suit taste, pour and serve.

At your hotel or club, ask for grape juice on your "club breakfast," and insist on Welch's. For "Ways to Serve Welch's," Free, write to Welch's, Dept. B, Westfield, N. Y.

RIOTERS KILLED IN BOLIVIA

BUENOS AIRES, June 26.—(AP)—The newspaper Critica, in a special edition, today said that clashes of a most serious nature have occurred in La Paz, Bolivia.

Critica says former President Siles has taken refuge in the U. S. Legation.

Passengers arriving on the international train which left La Paz on Sunday today confirmed reports of serious disturbances in that city.

The travelers reported that 1,000 demonstrators stormed po-police headquarters in Murillo Square.

Militia reinforced the police, and volleys were fired into the mob. Several persons were killed.

Some of the passengers stated that 30 had been killed. Others said they had seen six bodies in the streets, and supposed the number of victims was far larger.

They said that as the train pulled out of the station they could hear machine guns rattling in the city.

German Tax Boost To Be Railroaded

BERLIN, June 26.—(INS.)—The critical political situation in Germany came to a head today when Chancellor Heinrich Bruening met President von Hindenburg at Neudeck, East Prussia, to discuss extraordinary measures for pushing tax increases through the Reichstag.

The plan calls for creation of a virtual "dictatorship" to get the measures through the House. Herman Dietrich is expected to be appointed finance minister to succeed Dr. Paul Moldenhauer.

Stepfather Adopts 17-Year-Old Girl

Dorothy Ardath Schenkel, 17, was adopted in Orphans Court today by Arthur P. Vanderveer, of 2261 Denniston street. Miss Schenkel is the daughter of Mrs. Vanderveer by a former marriage.

"The Cathedral of Hearing."

That's one of the numerous points of interest enumerated in list of Pittsburgh's sight-seeing wonders by Pennsylvania Highways, just off the press.

If you never knew that Pittsburgh had such an institution turn to page 9, which states.

"Pittsburgh, the leading iron and steel city of the world, offers many points of interest to the tourist — Schenley Park, Highland Park and Zoo, Riverview Park, the Carnegie Library and Museum, the University of Pittsburgh's group of stately structures, including its stately 'Cathedral of Hearing.'"

Probably the writer meant the "Cathedral of Learning."

ICELAND KING LEADS RITES

THINGVELLIR, Iceland, June 26.—(AP.)—Christian, King of Iceland, today opened the 1930 session of the Icelandic Alting at the very spot where 1,000 years ago this oldest parliament in the world first convened.

King Christian stood upon a huge rock in the middle of the plain of Thingvalla, where Grim Goatbeard, the lawgiver, in ancient days, recited from memory the entire code of Icelandic law.

The ceremonies today were simple as of old, so simple as to obtain an almost religious aspect.

The broad plain was dotted with many thousands of people who had come from far corners of the earth.

Included in the vast throng of visitors were many Americans whose birth or ancestry was Icelandic. They watched with keen pleasure the unfolding of the impressive jubilee celebration.

Mother, Girl Lost In Forest Found

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., June 26.—(INS.)—Mrs. Ray Button and her 10-year-old daughter, Ella, are back in their home near here today after spending 28 hours wandering in the wilds of Clinton County.

The mother and daughter were lost Tuesday afternoon while picking berries.

Border Patrol Killed By Rum Smugglers

LAREDON, Tex., June 26.—(AP.)—Wounds suffered early yesterday in a gun fight with three Mexican liquor smugglers proved fatal late last night to Orbert W. (Red) Kelsey, United States border patrolman.

WAVES WRECK SEA 'HARNESS'

HAVANA, June 26.—(AP).—A giant steel tube built by Prof. Georges Claude, famous French scientist, in an effort to harness the Gulf Stream and convert its waters into electrical energy, collapsed as it was being lowered into the ocean opposite Matanzas and was lost.

Two great cables, which were intended to give the mile-long steel tube sufficient tensile strength to withstand the strong undercurrents which prevail near the shore line, parted like thread and the tube broke away from the land moorings.

The tube had been floated out to sea, at right angles to the shore line, and expert native swimmers started opening the cocks in the 120 tanks of compressed air which kept it afloat. A terrific pull was placed on the two one-inch steel cables which ran the length of the tube and were fastened to shore. Both snapped.

Three months of hard work on the part of Claude, his chief assistant, Dr. Enrique Daime, Paris, and more than 100 laborers, had been devoted to its completion. The estimated value of the tube was in excess of $1,000,000.

CHILD-BEATER SENT TO JAIL

Accused of having beaten his 9-year-old daughter, Eugenia, unmercifully with a belt, Frank Kwicieski, 46, of 819 Mifflin street, was sentenced to 60 days at the workhouse today in Morals Court.

The child's mother, Mrs. Margaret Kwicieski, testified the father gave Eugenia 10 cents with which to purchase a newspaper. The girl's brother, Edward, 7, asked for the money and Eugenia gave it to him to make the purchase. The father became infuriated and locking the child in the kitchen, inflicted severe body bruises by beating her with his belt and buckle, it was testified.

Girl, 7, Sister of Lake Victim, Drowns

SHARON, Pa., June 26.—Violet Ziprick, 7, was drowned while wading in the Shenango River near her home in Wheatland. Her body was recovered. Her 17-year-old brother was drowned three years ago while swimming in Buhl Park Lake.

SUGAR SUPPLIES CALORIES AT THE LOWEST PRICE

Few Foods Return Such High Caloric Value for the Money

Sugar is an inexpensive food. Compared with butter, bacon, macaroni, bread, meats, milk, green vegetables and fresh fruits, sugar supplies the system with far more calories for each cent spent than the same amount expended on any of the rest of the products named.

This fact is significant because the average system requires approximately 3000 calories daily. Of this amount, sixty per cent should be derived from the carbohydrate group of foods to which sugar belongs.

To get the full value of sugar the housewife should consider it in relation to all the foods she chooses for her table. The most inexpensive balanced meal can be made satisfying and complete by a sweet dessert. Canned vegetables, as well as fresh ones, can be much improved in taste appeal if a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is added while they are cooking. Breakfast cereals and stewed dried fruits have added goodness when sugar is added.

Doctors and dietitians approve the use of sugar in making essential foods tasty. For these foods contain vitamins, minerals and roughage — all of which are needed by the system. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

She thought:
"If you only knew that 'B.O.' robs you of your charm."
Yet, to be polite,
She said:
"We'll call again when we can stay longer."

Callers seldom came again

—until she learned to overcome 'B.O.'

(Body Odor)

ANOTHER disappointment. Another call cut short with a polite excuse—a vague promise to come again. She nearly cried when they were gone. When she wanted friends so, why couldn't she win them?

Then an old school chum she hadn't seen in years—a doctor's wife—came to visit her. And from her she learned the truth. Found out about "B.O.", the polite term for a condition people dislike even to mention—body odor . . . No more lonely, unhappy days now. Friends drop in to see her often—she's invited everywhere since she adopted the simple safeguard that keeps perspiration odorless.

Hotter weather—watch out for "B.O."

These hot days we all perspire more. It's natural—it's healthy to do so. We get so used to an ever-present odor that we don't notice it in ourselves. But others do—and they won't excuse it.

Take no chances—don't offend. Keep safe this easy, pleasant way. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Cool off—freshen up—under its glorious, creamy lather, so abundant even in hardest water. No mere surface cleansing this! Lifebuoy's searching, antiseptic lather penetrates pores—removes all odor. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies.

A wonderful complexion soap

"I'd buy Lifebuoy as a complexion soap if for no other reason," say millions of women. Its gentle, deep-cleansing lather keeps pores free from clogged impurities—banishes dullness—brings glowing, healthy, radiant beauty. Adopt Lifebuoy today. LEVER BROTHERS CO., Cambridge, Mass.

NEWS FROM HOLLYWOOD, BROADWAY AND LOCAL AMUSEMENT NOTES

Ruth Chatterton Is Cast With Clive Brook For Third Time

By HARRISON CARROLL

TEAMING OF STARS is taboo at some studios, but Paramount will continue to pursue this policy with Ruth Chatterton and Clive Brook.

Another Frederick Lonsdale play, "Aren't We All," has just been purchased for these popular players. This will make their third picture together, and their second Lonsdale play. "New Morals," recently completed, was adapted from "Spring Cleaning," one of the British dramatist's earlier comedies. Miss Chatterton also did one Lonsdale work for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "A Lady of Scandal." On the stage it was "The High Road."

Clive Brook

Paramount officials rank Ruth Chatterton as one of their most popular stars. She is one of the few stage people who have developed a strong fan following.

DEFENSIVE MEASURE

A Hollywood phenomenon is the sign in front of a prominent director's beach cottage: "Invited guests only."

This ultimatum is aimed partly at the general public, but chiefly against gate-crashers, a familiar pest in the film colony. Never a large party is thrown by a star but dozens, and sometimes hundreds, of extra guests appear. The most flagrant instance that I recall was when Phyllis Haver (this was before her marriage) had to call on the caterer twice to replenish the refreshments. Several hundred gate-crashers attended this party. More recently Ben Lyon and Bebe Daniels had an experience with these crusty parasites at their wedding reception.

On this occasion, however, the migration wasn't so large.

FIGHTING BILL

The matching of Gary Cooper and William Boyd (the stage actor) for the climatic fight in "The Spoilers" recalls the fact that Boyd once figured in a real, front-page fistic episode. He was the actor who floored John (Mugsy) McGraw, when that baseball magnate once set out to clean up a New York club. Columns of print were devoted to the encounter, none of which did any harm to the box-office receipts of "What Price Glory" in which Boyd was appearing at the time.

Gary Cooper

ENGLISH STAR LEAVING

After making one picture for Fox, "Are You There?" Beatrice Lillie, the English comedienne is to leave here for London on the thirtieth. She'll spend the remainder of the summer with her husband, Sir Robert Peel.

There's talk of her appearing in a revue over there, too. When fall comes around, she intends to return to this country, however, and doubtless will be back in Hollywood to make another film.

Miss Lillie did one silent picture for M. G. M. several years ago, but the soundless cinema didn't capture her personality.

CAN'T FOOL MICROPHONE

Out at Pathe they were filming a scene with the buzzing of conversation as a background to the dialogue spoken by the principals.

In the middle of the take, the sound-man in the monitor-room above the set made an excited protest.

"Hey," he cried, "who on earth is that saying 'Walla, Walla, Walla?'"

The miscreant was never discovered, but the extras were all warned to speak lines instead of mumbling thereafter. The sensitive microphone singled out the stalling atmosphere man where the human ear heard nothing but the desired hum of conservation.

Many comic episodes occur daily on the sound stages. One of the funniest sights I ever saw was a carpenter suddenly stricken with the hiccoughs while closeup was being recorded of Jean Arthur in an R K O picture. The poor fellow was so convulsed with his attempts to stifle the noise that his face turned as red as a Stanford football jersey. But did he get sympathy? He did not. The whole company was silently shaking with laughter.

STAYS WITH CADDO

A great deal of comment has been made of Jean Harlow's performance in "Hell's Angels." She plays the blonde heroine who fits the old phrase "not immoral but unmoral." Some of the ladies are not impressed with Miss Harlow's portrayal, but I have yet to hear a masculine protest.

There's no denying she's to the fore in the talk around the colony these days.

A little inquiry reveals that Howard Hughes has Miss Harlow signed for one more year with Caddo. In case the young producer makes "The Front Page" next, she'll play the girl.

Advertising Club Arranges Survey

Survey of members of the advertising profession in Allegheny County today was started by the Pittsburgh Advertising Club. The local survey is being conducted as part of the national checkup undertaken by the Advertising Federation of America. The campaign also will include men and women not included in the local clubs membership. V. C. Dwyer is chairman while D. J. Coullie and Miss Helen Ryman are vice-chairmen.

Emsworth Firemen Arrange Picnic

The Emsworth Volunteer Fire Department will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary with a community picnic at Rose Grove, North County Park, July 12. D. S. McFall is general chairman, assisted by these committee chairmen: Robert Bruce, transportation; Walter E. Leitch, music and dancing; Harry J. Schmidt, games; C. E. Bald, refreshments; R. R. Boggs, safety and first aid; J. O. Richardson, grounds.

Eagles Hold Benefit Bazar, Baby Show

A baby show and bazar is being held by Aerie No. 76, Fraternal Order of Eagles at 431 Third avenue. Prizes will be awarded to the most popular babies at the close of the show Saturday evening at 10 o'clock. The committee in charge is headed by D. A. Magee, and M. J. McDonnell, secretary. Proceeds from the affair will be used for the organization's benefit fund.

Bellevue Churches To Hold Services

Services preparatory to Communion Sunday, will be held tomorrow night at the Bellevue Presbyterian and United Presbyterian churches, in charge, respectively, of Dr. R. P. Galbreath and Dr. James M. Ferguson. The Rev. H. D. McCalmont, of West View, will preach at the United Presbyterian service.

Never Forgets!

Though prison doors yawn for him, Bernice Claire never forgets her man in the film, "Numbered Men," opening today in the Stanley.

NEW PICTURE TODAY, THREE COMING TOMORROW

One new picture, "Numbered Men," opens here today, and three others are scheduled to open tomorrow. "Numbered Men" is the Stanley booking. It is a drama of convict life, and it features Conrad Nagel and Bernice Claire. It is based on the stage play "Jail Break." Dick Powell's new show in the Stanley is "The Blue Mill."

The films opening tomorrow are "The Lady of Scandal," in the Penn; "Born Reckless," in the Aldine, and "Bride of the Regiment," in the Enright.

BASED ON STAGE PLAY

Ruth Chatterton and Basil Rathbone are featured in "The Lady of Scandal," which is based on the stage play "The High Road."

"Born Reckless," a drama of gangland, has Edmund Lowe and Catherine Dale Owen in leading roles.

Vivienne Segal and Walter Pidgeon are prominent in "Bride of the Regiment," which is an adaptation of the stage production "The Lady in Ermine."

WAR PICTURES

"All Quiet on the Western Front" will open its second month in the Pitt Monday.

"Journey's End," movie war drama based on the stage play of the same name, comes to the Harris screen Saturday.

"He Knew Women," featuring Lowell Sherman, Irene Rich and Frances Dade, will open in the Sheridan Square Monday.

I'm rather glad I went to school to you,
Although the term I spent was all too short;
I'll say you knew your subject through and through,
And learning it from you was joyful sport.

You must admit that I was never late,
I brought you presents as a pupil should,
And tried my very best to concentrate,
Although at times I wasn't always good.

You taught me Love, and when the term was done,
Another pupil sauntered into view:
You claimed it had been loads and loads of fun,
But that your classroom had no space for two;

Yet I absorbed a lot—so maidens state—
You can be proud of your young graduate?
—Kid Kazanova.

Add Similes

Suggested for Frank Wilstach's annual collection of Best Similes: Jack (Judge) Shuttleworth's: "As easy as falling off the waterwagon."

As If We Didn't Know

Incidentally, it is Shuttleworth, the author of the forthcoming "Noble Experiments" (a grand collection of cocktail recipes), who says:

"A man is drunk when he feels sophisticated and can't pronounce it!"

The Retort Swelegant

It happened ever so many seasons ago at the Palace Theater. Ben Bernie, an amusing and flip quipper, was doing his routine of swifties and others not so swift when he noticed a well-known cartoonist sitting in a stage loge.

"Hmmm," hmmm'd Bernie sassily, turning to the cartoonist, "I had better not tell my best jokes here or they'll be in your cartoons."

"Your jokes," yelled the well-known crayon juggler, "have BEEN in cartoons!"

Add Merciless Truths

Perhaps if it had been uttered by an Irishman, Scot, Turk or any other Gentile it would have started a riot, but a prominent heeb said it and the listeners roared. He opened his remarks with:

"That reminds me of a story. There were five or six Jews—there always ARE!"

Those Good Old Unhappy Days

May S. Barmack forwards a clipping from the New York Times which recently announced that the monitor of this pillar would appear at the Palace Music Hall. Other clippings from the Evepost and Sunday Telegraph also came, the latter announcing that the weekly wage would be $2,500. Miss Barmack inquires: "Does this mean there won't be any more column?"

Let it be recorded now that the announcements were premature, and that the Palace representatives suggested such a booking, but it was not accepted for several reasons. The most important being that we recently saw Confrere Hellinger's turn in a Bronx theater, and upon leaving his dressing room we walked across the dimly lit, barren stage. The organ was accompanying the feature movie with mournful melody, and suddenly a terrible shudder swept our frame. The shudder following a mind-flash photo of the career of 10 years ago, when the struggle to make a living was much more difficult than it is now.

Not until we walked across that lonesome stage did we realize how fortunate we have been—since deserting the stage for the typewriter. And we never again will walk back stage for a theater so long as we live, which will be one way of helping to forget the smelly cellar dressing rooms, the officious $50-per-week managers, the army of thick-skulled orchestra directors, the cue-missers, the greasy restaurants in the smaller towns, the so-so hotels and the other heartaches that go with show business.

And, besides, the Palace people, who had two weeks' notice to find one, couldn't dig up a big enough net from behind which we intended to (Ahem!) show 'em how it should be done.

Pun My Soul!

Harold Seton suggests that Wm. H. Thompson, of Chicago, and Police Commissioner Wm. Russell be made to walk the "gang" plank.

The Grandest Canyon

"Broadway! Broadway! Bright thoroughfare of sorrow! Avenue of anguish! Street of tragedy shallowly hid in a thousand spurious smiles. Where fame teases. Where temptation lurks. O Street whose deathless fire burns to the outspread wings of the guileless moth! O Street whose bliss is bought with the shameless tears of countless betrayed maidens! Highway of tinsled wretchedness, path of mean glories. Where beauty is broken on Sin's cruel wheel. Where honor is reckoned in soiled dimes. Broadway! Broadway!" cried the trolley conductor, who believed what he read in the papers, "Sixth Avenue next!"

The Squelch Terrible

It is Willard (N. Y. Press) Keefe's quip about the terpsichorine who just returned from London where she chorus'd in a show.

"Hell-oh, Hilda!" she ejaculated upon encountering a former undressing-roommate, "I've been away for six months. Tell me, what has been the scandal?"

"Maude," indifferently replied the other (who never liked her, anyhow), "there hasn't been any scandal since you went away."

The services are Friday at her late home.

Imagine

Among other innovations for New York City soon will be a chain of Cut-Rate Speakeasies!

Not cut-likker places, if you feel a sarcastic crack coming on, but good laughing soup for 35 cents a shot instead of the stuff now being peddled for 50 and 75 cents.

A tremendous syndicate, finding itself overstocked, is plotting the welcome string of places to unload its great supply of imported material before they are "accidentally" put out of trade.

They will start with 1,100 of 'em.

Swifty

Take it from Julius Tannen, Jack Sharkey probably is the chief reason for the Wall street crashes, for everytime he steps in he is responsible for a new low."

Fight Over Woman On Roof; Loser Sues

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(INS.)—James A. Cummiskey, of Detroit, today faced a suit of $50,000 after having been freed on charges of assault filed by Dr. Robert T. McCrystal, a dentist.

The fight occurred after a hotel roof dance and was over a young woman who had accompanied Cummiskey, police said.

McCrystal's wrist was broken. He said his injury will interfere with his dental practice.

Plantation Signs New York Musicians

Club Plantation, on Babcock boulevard, will revert to a no table couvert charge policy, beginning Saturday.

"Happy" Felton and band, Columbia Chain broadcasting orchestra, which has been at the Club Hollywood, New York, for the past year, has been booked for the Plantation.

NEW BUTLER THEATER TO BE DEDICATED TONIGHT

The new Butler Theater, Butler, will be dedicated tonight at 7:30 o'clock, Eastern standard time, by the Harris Amusement Company.

Dennis A. Harris, president of the company, will present the theater to the people and Mayor Heineman will make the response. Following the formalities, a program of musical numbers and the feature talkie, "The Flirting Widow," will be presented.

The new theater is modernistic in structure and decoration, with the auditorium ceiling painted in pink. Silver and pinks predominate in the organ loft. A modern refrigeration plant also has been installed.

Society!

Irene Rich has a featured role in "He Knew Women," heralded as a drama of modern manners, which comes to the Sheridan Square Monday.

ALL-TALKING picture
From the Novel "Louis Beretti"—a Powerful Drama of Gangland.

"Wealth comes from industry and from the hard experience of human toil. To dissipate it in waste and extravagance is disloyalty to humanity. This is by no means a doctrine of parsimony. Both men and nations should live in accordance with their means and devote their substance not only to productive industry, but to the creation of the various forms of beauty and the pursuit of culture which give adornments to the art of life."

Earliest Levees

The first levees built at New Orleans were begun in 1717. Only small earthen dikes of from four to six feet in height were then necessary to confine flood waters.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Does Search for Romance Waste Woman's Life?

Is love "a lot of hooey"?

Is your chance of happiness greater if you marry a "friend" than if you marry a lover?

Is romance just a foolish dream, that never really materializes? And does the search for romance mess up and waste a woman's life, and keep her from ever finding real happiness?

A "famous writer" who prefers to remain anonymous, uses up a lot of words in a recent magazine article, to say that it is and does. And Freda's terribly confused. For Freda's in love, and about to marry the only man. But suppose all this is true—???

"Dear Sally:

"Have you read that recent magazine article by a noted woman writer? And what do you think of the ideas this woman says she's found are the only ones that will work out? They sound funny to me, and I'm awfully worried.

"She says 'marry for convenience. Love is unimportant. Sentimental love is really a source of tragedy for American women. Women, because of their physical nature, are more nearly animals than men.' Do you think that's true, Sally?

"Then she goes on to say 'I married for love, and wasted the best years of my life trying to make my marriage a success. I married again, for convenience, and though I brought that marriage only tarnished illusions and the remains of my youthful intensity, I have been rewarded with all the joys of life. Children and natural love and honor.'

TWO KINDS OF MARRIAGE

"And of that first marriage of hers, she says 'I loved, and he betrayed my love. Therefore I was wronged. Those are the simple absolutes of all love-blinded women. I get cynical over the chances of women to become self-respecting individuals, when I think of the years I spent trying to please my husband instead of being myself.' And of her 'second marriage for conveniences,' she says 'I do not expect romantic love and I do not expect adoration. For the first time I am able to look at the world with eyes that are not harried with suffering.'

"And she says that 'power, mostly, is what women and men want, not love.' I don't think that power is what I want. Certainly I wouldn't want to feel 'inferior,' but I'm not grabbing for power.

"Before I read this article, I thought my love was a very beautiful thing. It seemed to me to make the stars nearer and the winds sweeter and the flowers brighter. I was happy. But now I'm wondering. Sometimes I feel frightened. Am I running into tragedy? Is love really just a form of insanity that blights your happiness, like she says?

"What do you think about it all? Please tell me, because I don't want to build my life on something that's going to wreck it . . . and me. Is love all wrong? If it isn't, why should she think so?

Freda."

Why is this lady "off" love? Well, of course I can't say positively but I suspect she's indulging in one of the oldest and pestiest of human habits—the habit of blaming someone or something else for our own failure.

Love didn't fail this woman. She failed love.

TOO IMMATURE

It's perfectly plain, from her description of her first marriage, that she was too immature to make a success of anything. She looked grown up, and she felt grown up, but in mind and heart she was still a child. She didn't know life and it's realities. Her mind was filled with lovely, but utterly impractical theories about romance. And when she came in contact with actual marriage, with its humdrum routine, and got smacked down to earth, she immediately concluded that her husband was a brute and love a delusion. The thing that made her first marriage a tragedy was not love, but her silly, unreal mental picture of love—and her own immature, ungoverned "youthful intensity."

It is true that food and shelter and work and children are important. It is true that order and a sense of security are important. But it is also true that things of the heart and the soul are important, too. And love feeds the heart and soul and makes life a gorgeous adventure. But only if we use it with judgment.

You can't succeed in marriage if you expect it to be a romantic orgy, in which your every fanciful whim will be gratified.

Nor can you succeed in marriage if you make a doormat of yourself and discard all your individuality.

LOVE TREMENDOUS

You must bring to marriage the same good sense and discipline and dignity and tolerance and humor which you bring to any other human relationship. Unbalanced emotions and untrained characters will wreck marriage, as they would wreck any other job.

Love's a tremendous force, Freda—and love, as we know it, is a comparatively new experiment in human life. A thousand years ago—even five hundred years ago—it didn't exist. Men and women were attracted to each other, "fell in love" and married—but the conditions which govern marriage now did not govern marriage then. We moderns have a very gallant and glorious dream of marriage, and that dream can be achieved—and has been achieved by thousands. But because it's a new form of partnership, and because we're not quite up to it yet, we find it very difficult. But that's no reason for being "offa" love, Freda.

Take your chance, little girl. Dare to love! It's the greatest adventure on earth.

FAY. KING

By FAY KING

The other day I met an old friend. She looked wonderful. We had a jolly chat on the corner.

No one to see us would dream she once got so blue life didn't seem worth living and she tried to "end it all."

And so it is with many. You see them walking cheerfully about their business, but they, too, have had bad breaks in life, been hopeless and desperate.

But they hung on and survived it.

When you feel so blue doll up and get out.

Sitting around sighing has sunk many a soul in mental quicksands.

Grit your teeth, hang on.

Anybody can see one day through. That's all life is—one day at a time.

Another day can make a great difference.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Loves Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Junior Explains to Madge Where He Heard the "Nawful Name"

Mirthful curiosity was my chief emotion as I put my ear down to Junior's lips at his request to hear the "nawful name" which he said he had applied to Roderick during their quarrel. But there was no mirth in me when my small boy's voice faltered out the epithet he had used.

But the highly profane epithet, slightly tinged with obscenity which Junior whispered into my ear, petrified me, for I had fancied my guardianship of him so efficient as to preclude his hearing such language.

"Junior!" I exclaimed, the matter of the quarrel forgotten in this new issue, "where did you learn such words as those?"

"Do I have to tell?" he asked, lifting his face from my shoulder and looking at me with anxious eyes. "I promised not to tell unless I had to. But if I have to, I can."

"I'm afraid you must Junior," I said.

"Well, then, it was Jerry Ticer.

I felt suddenly cold. The uncouth but lovable son of our nearest neighbor had always been idolized by both Marion and Junior and we had trusted the children implicitly with him.

"Do you mean that Jerry talks like that when you are with him?"

"Oh, no! No; No!" My small son's voice was hysterical with denial. "Jerry never talks bad, and he always scolds me if I say damn. He always says: 'Now you know, Junior, your ma wouldn't like that.'" His imitation of Jerry's drawl was ludicrously faithful. "I never heard him say this but just one time and he was trying to get 'Babe' and 'Min' harnessed up. He rolled the names of Jerry Ticer's spavined old nags unctuously under his tongue, for to him they are the steeds of Araby—and 'Babe' was acting up something terrible and Jerry was scolding her and she stepped on his foot and he hopped up and down and called her that name and a lot more. I never saw Jerry mad like that before. I was scared but I couldn't forget that name 'cause he called 'Babe' that more than once and it sounded so—so—mad-like a name—you know what I mean, Mums!

"An' then, Jerry stopped being mad, an' he was terrible scared. He said you'd never, never let him take care of me any more, if you knew about it. He was all funny looking white around his nose and mouth. I thought he was goin' to die or something. He said I'd never heard him say anything like that before, and that I'd never hear him say it again, and he made me promise I wouldn't remember it and never would say it. But I couldn't keep the promise not to remember it," Junior explained naively, "because the words were so queer and so mad like. But I never did say it till today, and now I've broken my promise to Jerry."

"But you won't break it again, I'm sure," I said soothingly. "But tell me, did you say a little while ago that Jerry asked you not to tell me about his saying the words?"

"Yes," Junior answered, winking rapidly, but past the emotional danger point. "He said it wouldn't do anybody any good to tell, if I never said the words again. But he said if I ever forgot and said the words and you asked me where I got 'em, then I was to tell you. And then he said it would be time for him to pull up stakes and run away, for you'd never let me see him again. That isn't true, is it Mother?"

"No, dear, we won't say anything to Jerry about this. It shall be your secret and mine and Roderick's—unless—did anybody else, Grandpa or anybody, hear you say the words?"

"I don't think so," Junior said slowly. "Grandpa was reading, and the radio was going loud, and—and I didn't say 'em very loud. But I just had to say something to him. I was so mad."

"And then what happened?" I asked casually.

"Then he said, 'Gee, Mammy's baby can cuss some, can't he?' and then he grabbed for the cars, and I grabbed for 'em back, and I guess when I tugged at them, one of the cars scratched him, for I heard him say 'ouch,' and then he hit me, and then I hit him, and then Grandpa caught us each by the collar and then you came in. You know the rest."

"Yes, Junior," I said, "I know the rest, but before I say anything more to you about it, I want to bring Roderick in here. I've talked to him and I don't think he is angry now any more than you are."

"No, I'm not mad," my small son returned, "but—"

There was a reserve in his voice which troubled me as I left him to go after Roderick.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

EX-cuse It, Please!

The world has gone EX-mad!

Only a few short years ago, it was sex-mad. It used to be sex-appeal, sexperiment, sex o'clock, sexophone, etc., until we nearly sexpired from sheer boredom.

Then came Anita Loos—and blondes! Blondes preferred, blondes common, and blondes peroxide! The whole world of humorists was run by blonde-power.

Now we are EX-ploding with an outbreak of EX-es. We are in the throes of a new ex-cess. We are all ex-cited over a new ex-pression. We are filled with ex-travagant ex-tasy and ex-hilaration at our own EX-wise-cracks!

"Ex-Wife"—Ex-Husband"—"Ex-Mistress"—"Ex-Colored Man"—and "Ex-Baby"! All these titles displayed on one table in a book-shop leave one slightly ex-hausted.

I do not claim to be any ex-ception. I am not ex-empt, I, too, have got the EX-es!

I feel the passionate urge to write another EX-book—something ex-citing and ex-otic. There have been so MANY EX-es in my life.

Ex-cooks, ex-maids, ex-flames, ex-dreams, ex-pectations, ex-penses, ex-travagances, ex-chums, ex-periences and ex-igencies!

I might even write the confessions of an ex-vamp. It would be no ex-ertion at all. Merely a little ex-ercise of the imagination and the ex-huming of a few dead illusions.

But think of the explanations if the truth got out!

What astonishes me is that the Ex-Kaiser has not written an Ex-All-Highest book. And that Marie has not written the diary of an Ex-Queen. Or that none of us who lost our money in the recent stock-crash has burst forth with a tome, called "Ex-LUNATIC!"

And what a grandstand play Peggy Joyce missed by not calling her recent book simply "Ex-Ex-Ex-Ex"! What a wow it would have been—coming from the Ex-iest wife in the public eye.

Surely among all our dieting millions SOME woman could put out an "Ex-Fat Lady" book that would set the country wild. Or has that been done?

I could go on ex-panding on this subject until Christmas.

But, it's too hot—and I am expiring. So here's where I exit.

Ex-CUSE it, please! Here comes the ex-pressman for my trunks!

But isn't this a simply ex-traordinary ex-ample of the ex-ecrable ex-tremes to which an ex-fad may be carried?

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Label All Medicine Bottles

We all hate to read accounts of persons, who are accidentally poisoned. But such a regretable occurence may happen in your home if you keep unlabeled bottles in your medicine cabinet.

DR. COPELAND

Under no circumstances should you permit a bottle or box to stand in your home without the proper label. If the contents are poisonous, have printed on it the word "POISON" in big letters.

Often when you want a drug you are in a hurry or are upset by the very accident or sudden illness which calls for the use of the drug. This makes it easy to forget the location of the particular bottle you want.

All drugs are more or less poisonous. Even though some particular drug may seem mild, to you, it may be harmful to a susceptible person. For this reason if no other, it is unwise to take any drug unless it is prescribed by the doctor.

Medicines to be of value must be fresh. If kept too long they get stale and germs multiply in the liquid. Ointments, particularly those made with an animal or vegetable oil, soon become rancid. Some drugs lose their medicinal value when exposed to light and air.

Many a housewife who is careful that her pantry shelves contain only fresh seasoning and flavoring, will have on her medicine shelf stale and rancid drugs. These, too, may be in unlabeled bottles or boxes.

I have seen terrible accidents happen from putting the wrong medicine in the eye. In the worst case I ever saw the victim was a doctor.

The average household needs very few drugs, especially drugs which can do any harm. Have one place where all the household remedies are kept. This should be a dark and dustless receptacle located in a cool place. Have every bottle and box plainly labeled, showing the ingredient, its strength and the date of its purchase.

Always, no matter what the hurry, read the label before applying the remedy. If you do this there will never be a mistake in your home.

Answers to Health Queries

M. J. Q.—What is the cause of herpes zoster or shingles?

A.—Some kind of body poison is responsible for the trouble as a rule, but the exact cause is uncertain. Overwork and worry are factors in most instances. You should have a physical examination and follow your doctor's advice as to treatment.

MRS. S. D. Q.—What should a woman of 38, 5 feet 1 inch tall, weigh?

2—What would be a suitable blood pressure for a woman of this age. Would the blood pressure have any bearing on severe pains in the back of the neck and head?

A.—You should weigh about 129 pounds.

2—About 120 or so. Yes, these symptoms may be indicative of abnormal blood pressure, although they may be caused by other disturbances as well. Have your blood pressure tested so that definite advice may be outlined.

* * *

M. G. Q.—What causes catarrh of the ear and what treatment is advised?

A.—The trouble is probably due to a catarrhal condition of the nose and throat which has affected the ear. This must be cleared up first of all.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Charming and Friendly Gesture

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I know of a young man who works in an office where girls also are employed. Recently one of the girls had a birthday and he sent her some flowers. There is no other connection between the two outside of the office acquaintance. After the flowers were sent he was sorry and afraid he had done something he had no right to do. Was there anything improper in this?

2. How would the girl take it?

A WOULD-BE ADVISOR.

1. Indeed, not. It was a charming and friendly gesture for the young man to make, and the form of his gift—flowers—was in excellent taste.

2. I am sure that the girl would be delighted, and most happy at his plan for her birthday happiness. "Saying it with flowers" was a dignified and gallant way for him to express his good wishes.

The Bridal Shower Guest List

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it correct to invite someone to a bridal shower who is not an acquaintance of the bride?

2. Does the fact that the bride is from out of town alter the case?

3. Is it proper for the groom's sister to give a shower?

1. Usually we take it for granted that those invited to a bridal shower are close friends of the bride-to-be, since it is only close friends whom we, naturally, would have the right to ask to bring a present. And showers certainly mean presents!

2. No, I think not.

3. There aren't any rules about this. It is just as all the people concerned feel about this rather delicate question. There is, of course, a tendency to think that showers should not be given by those too closely concerned with the family-relationship. And the mere fact that there is always this question means—well, that there always IS this question. No outsider can decide it, for it represents the personal reaction of those concerned.

Offering One's Social Card

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it customary, when introduced to a new boy friend, to give him your name card, or should you wait until he asks for it?

2. When two girls and a boy ride home in a rumble seat, should the boy sit in the middle, or permit the girls to get in first and he last?

BETTY.

1. There isn't any real reason why she should give him her card unless at the end of the meeting, he and she make an engagement, say, and she makes it easy for him to remember her address by giving him her card. But it isn't customary to give cards just because one has received an introduction.

2. The boy helps the girls in first, and then he gets in, sitting in the place at the end of the seat.

Household Hints

Dip curtains that need a little stiffening in a starch solution of one or two teaspoons starch to a quart of water.

When silk hose can no longer be used as wearing apparel, dye them bright hues, cut into one long diagonal strip one and one-half inches wide and braid them into small "scatter" rugs for the summer cottage bedrooms.

To "line a mold with jelly," pour a little jelly while cool but still in liquid form, into the mold to coat the entire inside surface. Then fill with one inch of jelly, add the fruit or vegetable to be molded, then more jelly. Let set until firm, add more fruit or vegetables, more jelly and let set until firm. Continue until the mold is filled.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, June 27

Although affairs may be lively and interesting, according to the dominant lunar transits, yet there are some precipitate activities which must be categorized as unwelcome, undesirable and possibly devastating. It is difficult to presage the nature of the possible visitation, which may be abrupt, radical and far-reaching in its results unless handled with wisdom and circumspection. If possible "make haste slowly" deferring change, removal and travel until a more propitious time.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a lively year, with surprising developments, threatening sudden change and removal, which it would be well not to embrace unless the ultimate objectives are well weighed and calmly decided upon. Hasty actions and decisions might prove far-reaching and disastrous. Deal cautiously with strangers. A child born on this day should be talented, energetic and resourceful, but may be disposed to be restless.

THE BIG HOUSE

By JACK LAIT

when he was in more sober mood, the boss would appear with what purported to be the check and tear it up before the customer's very eyes.

"You act like a regular guy and we'll trust you till next time," he would be told. "You wouldn't want your bank to see that signature.' But the check would be presented at the bank the first thing next morning, with another zero added to the end of the amount. Did the gyped one ever kick? Rarely. He had to accept his trimming, as it reflected on his own weaknesses. Anyway, if he did kick, it would do little good.

Morgan, who was still weak and tired, but who did not want to turn in until he had seen his "mouthpiece," took a stroll downstairs to the cafe proper after he had dressed and shaved. He peered in the door and saw plenty of activity there. A dignified old fellow was leaning back in his chair, his hair tousled, his shirt collar open, snoring loudly.

Dapper Danny walked over to Morgan and said:

"Want to see some fun! This old guy has been coming here for a week now. He's president of the Fifth State Bank. Got nothin' but dough. We're going to take him proper this time."

Waiters were busy carrying in empty champagne bottles and stacking them around the table. Six young women in evening gowns, the "hostesses" of the dive, grouped themselves around the table. Empty glasses were in abundance. The five men of the orchestra removed their coats and unbuttoned their shirt collars.

Then, at a word from Dapper Danny, the music started. The girls began to sing and two of them began to arouse the old fellow. He awakened with a start and blinked his bleary old eyes. The cabaret was deserted but for those around his table. Dapper Danny approached.

"Have a good time, Mr. Rouky?" he asked amiably.

"Good time!" stormed the old fellow. "What time is it?"

"Oh, it's nearly seven. You sure had a great night of it. You run us out of champagne."

"I—I, er— What did you say—?" The old fellow tried to get up.

"Just one more little drink, daddy," one of the lipsticked ladies urged.

"Drink hell, let me get out of here!"

"Well," smiled the amiable Dapper Danny, "I'm going to buy the house a drink. But after Mr. Rouky has settled his bill."

"Bill? How much is it?"

"Oh, not so much—you bought out the orchestra and the boys have played themselves blue in the face. Let's see you had 42 bottles of champagne at 30 smackers a bottle—we'll call it square at fifteen hundred bucks—how's that!"

"Fifteen hundred what—where's my chauffer—call Jim in here—"

Jim came in, but Jim had already been paid for his end of the lying, and he didn't want his block knocked off and he sadly shook his head.

"I tried sir, to get you out," he said. "But you told me to go to hell—you was having too good a time."

"Just sign a check for it and everything will be all right," gently persuaded Dapper Danny. The banker, whose business was checks, readily agreed. It was only seven. That check would be stopped before they got it to the bank. He signed it.

"One drink on the house," genially called Dapper Danny.

But that drink was heavily loaded—for Mr. Banker. He gulped it and then lapsed into a lethargic sleep. Peraldehyde—the old knockout drops. And meantime, Dapper Danny instructed a man to wait right outside the bank until the doors opened. He hardly expected Mr. Rouky to come to before well after 9 o'clock.

"Say — what easy picking there is in this game," enthused Dapper Danny. "These guys ain't got no comeback at all."

"Funny that lawyer ain't here yet," commented Morgan, growing restless.

"Get yourself straightened out, boy," said Dapper Danny. "We got some good prospects for you. We'll lift plenty. But you better be careful and don't get nailed."

Morgan nodded listlessly. He heard his name and turned to see the beaming little lawyer, Michael Dunn.

"How'd you work it, Morgan?" he asked, drawing up a chair.

"The first thing," began Morgan, "is this: Did you find where that girl lived?"

"Yes," answered Dunn, "but—"

"Where?" asked Morgan sternly.

THE BEAUTY BOX

By HELEN FOLLETT

Black Veneer on fingernails is pushing beauty fads a bit too far. Green and purple polishes are creepy enough; black gives one goose's flesh. The nail cave must retain its whiteness, and the half moon at the nail base must not be covered.

Astringents will help coarse pores to distract, but they should be aided and abetted by a diet that is fairly free of heavy meats, rich gravies and starchy vegetables. Mineral salts have a glorified effect upon the texture of the skin; you will get them by lapping up the water in which vegetables are boiled. Also in fresh fruits and green salads.

The descendant of the steel-riveted corset isn't in fact a corset at all, but a foundation garment. It is amazing and astonishing how a boneless garment can mould and change the silhouette. It takes lumps and bumps from one portion of the anatomy and places them elsewhere, acting in its own mysterious way. The well-dressed woman builds her attire from the skin outward. Undergarments are carefully fitted; there isn't an unnecessary pucker or fold. Money fingers have their undies made to order. Ain't that something?

Matching the po[illegible] the complexion is easy en[illegible] picking out synthetic blus[illegible]s is a more difficult performance. The cosmetic counter offers everything from cerise to purple-crimson. Corals, scarlet, raspberry, ruby, cherry, claret, peach, salmon, orange-red and then some. ENS' HURLERS HIT FOR 61 HOME RUNS

PITTSBURGH PITCHERS APPEAR to be the softest marks in the National League for the home-run hitters of the various clubs. At least that's the impression you get from a glance at the figures covering the operations of the four-base sluggers in the Heydler circuit for the season up to date. The Pirate hurlers may not be leading the loop in other features of slab work, but at throwing the old home-run ball they seem to have the field beaten by a decisive margin.

Babe Herman

Statistics show that the local moundsmen have done more to fatten the homer totals of Babe Herman and the rest of the long-distance clouters than any other staff in the league. The seven other clubs have made a total of 335 round-trip swats up to today, and of this number no fewer than 61 have been registered against the deliveries of Jewel Ens' chuckers. That means almost one-fifth of the entire collection, certainly quite a bit more than the average share of a single club.

GAMES IN WHICH Pittsburgh flingers were not hit for home runs have been the exception rather than the rule. The Pirates have played 58 games so far, and in 33 of those contests the enemy has made one or more four-base slams. In other words, the local slabbists have been nicked for homers in an average of about three out of every five games.

Individual records show similar evidence that the league's swatsmiths have found Pirate pitching easier to hit for the route than that presented by any other club. That applies particularly to Herman. Of the 17 homers credited to the Brooklyn slugger he has made six, or more than one-third, off Pittsburgh pitchers while making only 11 off the twirlers of six other clubs combined. Four of those six were made in two consecutive games.

GABBY HARTNETT is another who has made a big killing, having collected four of his 16 circuit smashes off Pirate knollmen. Local hurlers also were the victims of four of Chuck Klein's 19 drives, and four of Walter Berger's 22.

The average falls in the case of Hack Wilson, as he has made only three of his 22 homers against Pittsburgh, but it is sent soaring again by Curt Walker, who has made only three round-trippers this season and all of them against the Bucs.

Gabby Hartnett

FREDDIE LINDSTROM is not far behind Walker, as he has made three of his four home runs off Corsair chuckers. Johnny Frederick has made three out of eight at Pittsburgh's expense, Ethan Allen two out of five, and Clifton Heathcote two out of six. The only other player to make more than one homer against the locals was Melvin Ott, with two out of 14. Charley Root, Johnny Neun, Walter Gilbert, Jake Flowers and Jumbo Elliott have made only one homer each, and all of them did it against the Freebooters.*

ROGERS HORNSBY, Pinky Whitney, Lance Richbourg and Joe Stripp, Tom Zachary and Bill Walker have made only two each, and one of them came against Pittsburgh. Lester Bell, Lefty O'Doul, Pat Crawford and Bob O'Farrell, out of only three homers each, have made one against Pittsburgh.

Other players who have made one homer each against Pittsburgh are Chick Hafey, George Watkins, Woody English, Fred Leach, Bill Terry, Andy Reese, Travis Jackson, Hazen Cuyler, Virgil Davis, Del Bissonette and Don Hurst. A new homer-run record seems certain this year, and it can't be said that the Picaroon pitchers are not doing their share toward the making of it.

IN VIEW OF the recent ineffectiveness of the Pirate pitchers in general, the smart and skillful exhibition given by Remy Kremer in bowling over Brooklyn's league leaders yesterday was most refreshing. Kremer pitched his greatest game of the year and was snappily supported by his Pirate mates.

Frank Jerry

As the result of getting four days' rest between starts, Remy has looked like the Kremer of old in his last two games, in which he stopped such powerful hitting clubs as the Giants and Robins and allowed a total of only five runs. He now has nine victories to his credit against four defeats and has beaten every other club in the league except the Phillies.

TWO OF PITTSBURGH'S best athletes will compete in out-of-town events next Saturday. Frank Jerry, crack distance runner, will be a contestant in the Cadillac Athletic Club's marathon race from Detroit to Dearborn. He has been running in good form and may be depended upon to make a strong showing against a classy field of opponents. The other local boy who will try for honors away from home on Saturday is John Law, Pittsburgh Athletic Association swimmer. He will compete in the 100-yard event of the Pennsylvania state championships at Philadelphia.*

THE EXTENT TO which Jewel Ens is pinched for pitching material may be judged from the fact that with five games against the Phils scheduled for three days he has only five men available for slab duty. Kremer can hardly be used again before Monday, and that leaves only Brame, French, Meine, Chagnon and Spencer for the five tilts with the Quakers.

Unless new timber is added before Saturday, therefore, or every man finishes the game he starts, and the latter possibility is decidedly remote, it will be necessary for one or more of the flingers to double during the series. It is understood that lines are out for new hurlers, but there is no certainty as to how soon they can be landed.

INTERCOLLEGIATE ROWING REACHES its high spot in the final competition of the year today, the annual Poughkeepsie regatta, which will be featured by a four-mile struggle among nine varsity eight-oared crews. The Navy, Columbia, Cornell, Penn, Syracuse and

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Expectations of a record attendance for four single games were in the minds of the Robins as they left Pittsburgh for Chicago, where for four days the focus of interest in the National League will be directed.

The battle for first place is likely to attract more than 100,000 fans in the four days of play. Years ago the Pirates and Giants ran off four spectacular battles at Forbes Field with approximately 100,000 lovers of the sport going through the gates of the Oakland Orchard.

CUBS' BIG PARK

Wrigley Field will accommodate something like 50,000 fans with an overflow, and it is expected that the ropes will have to be strung for the battles of Saturday and Sunday. Chicago, in its National League aspect, has come to be the best baseball town in the land. It broke all existing records for a full season's attendance last year as the Bruins romped to a flag.

When Rogers Hornsby left the game with a broken ankle about one month ago, the majority of close followers of the game sounded the knell for the Cubs' flag chances. Hornsby was the pivotal player in the long campaign of 1929, and it was felt that the Bears could not "go" in a championship stride without him. But Marse Joe and his players have put up a fight that has awakened admiration everywhere. They are almost sure to be a flag factor right up to the finish.

PIRATES WIN LAST GAME

The Pirates made the Robins' farewell a bit sour yesterday as they hung a 5-to-1 setback on the league leaders in the final fight of the series. Remy Kremer pitched his most brilliant game of the season as he recorded his ninth victory. Frenchy held the hard-hitting Flatbush crew to seven hits.

Adam Comorosky led the attack of the Buccos with a home run, a double and a single. George Grantham and Dick Bartell both were back in the game, and the clever play of this pair around second base had a big bearing on the victory. Grantham, in particular, was impressive, Boots handling 11 chances without a slip.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY:—THE AIRPLANE THAT FLIES FASTER AT 10,000 FEET THAN AT SEA LEVEL—This airplane uses a Wasp supercharged engine. The super-charger delivers air to the engine at sea level atmospheric pressure, thus enabling it to "breathe" as normally in rarified atmosphere as at sea level. Thus at 10,000 feet, because the wind resistance is only three-fourths as great as on the ground, the plane makes greater speed since the engine is not affected by the altitude. Planes without super-chargers would travel slower at 10,000 feet than at sea level, as engine power drops off faster in altitude than air resistance to the plane.

LOCAL GOLFER HOLDS 1-UP MARGIN

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Samuel M. Parks, Jr., of the University of Pittsburgh, lone remaining local entrant in the National Intercollegiate championship in progress at the Oakmont Country Club was 1 up on George T. Dunlap, Jr., of Princeton, at the end of the first 18 holes of the 36-hole quarter-final round this afternoon.

As a result of his lead over the favored Princetonian, Parks was considered a dark horse to cop the gonfalon.

Lawrence W. Moller, of Notre Dame, was 2 up on Marshall W. Forrest, captain of the Yale golf team, and Phillips Finlay, of Harvards, and Sam Perry, of Alabama, Southern Intercollegiate champion, were all square as they went to lunch. Moller was favored to met Finlay in the upper-bracket match of the semi-finals tomorrow.

In the other lower-bracket contest, Winston Fuller, of Southern California, who also has been installed as a dark horse, appeared to have his match with Charles S. Eaton, Harvard, cinched, being no less than 6 up.

LOWER BRACKET STARS

The interesting feature of this morning's battling was the fact that the best golf was scored in the lower bracket, which was considered the weaker of the two. Both Parks and Fuller had medals score of 76, and odd as it may seem, each halved the ninth hole with 6.

Parks opponent, Dunlap, was only one stroke worse than he, with a 77, picking up an extra stroke for a 6 on the twelfth hole on the back nine. Parks and Dunlap were all even when they made their first turn, both being out in 39. Parks would have been 2 up on the New Jersey star had the Pittite not taken an extra putt for a 5 on the eighteenth green.

Meller playing fine golf going out, with a 37 to be 4 up on Forrest but he made a mess of things on the last nine, scoring a 44 to Forrest' 40 to have his leadcut two holes. Mellor had three 6's and Forrest two of the same before the round was finished.

FULLER PLAYS STEADILY

Fuller played steady golf after his six on the ninth hole, which totaled his card 40 out, and came home in a splendid 36, one over par for his 76. Eaton, on the other hand, was unable to pick up lost ground being out in 41, and 1 down, and home again in a like number of strokes for an 82.

Finlay and Perry each returned

BUCS REPORTED AFTER LANG

Although Pirate officials this afternoon refused to disclose the name of the pitcher expected in Pittsburgh today or tomorrow, it was learned on reliable authority that the athlete is flouthpaw Martin Lang, who was a part of the Pirate entourage in the spring training season.

Lang was sold to Baltimore, of the International League, and later he moved to the New Haven, club of the Eastern League.

In the spring training season, Martin, a Western League graduate, was regarded as one of the most promising of the young pitchers.

Lang is a reminder of Wilbur Cooper in physique and action except that he is about five pounds heavier than the former Pirate star.

It was felt that the pitcher sought by the Buccos was Charley Wood, the sensational left-hander of the Wichita club, but the reliable information given here has it that Lang is on the way to the team and will be here before the week is over.

HICKS, REED BAUR WIN

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The sixth day of competition in the forty-second annual Western Pennsylvania tennis championships finds a lengthy program of torrid contesting slated for the Stanton Heights rectangles this morning and afternoon. Yesterday's card carried through most of the third round men's singles tilts and virtually wound up the initial bracket in women's singles, but failed to accomplish much toward cleaning up the men's doubles and man-to-man consolations.

Paul Hicks, former Princeton varsity star and present ace of the champion Edgewood outfit, blazed the trail into the quarter-finals by out-maneuvering young Frank Broida, Harvard southpaw, 6-4, 6-1, who had previously registered upsets of Jimmy O'Connor, Bob Rhodes, and Al Bialas.

ARENSBERG VICTOR

Wally Arensberg, Harvard freshman luminary, featured the tilting once more by following up his first round success over the redoubtable Tack Hammer with quick victories at the expense of Vin Ghidden, Stanton Heights veteran, 6-2, 6-3, and Jack Lauler, P. A. A., 6-2, 6-2.

W. P. Haseltine, unheralded out-of-towner, who eliminated Russ Unger, Mt. Lebanon satellite, on Monday, again reeled off reversal of the dope, this time by nosing out Paul Barber, 1928 semi-finalist and Penn State contender, 6-0, 3-6, 7-5.

Seeded favorites advanced through stanza three without serious difficulty, Byron Baur, holder of the McCahill Cup, carried too many guns for Bob Caffee, Carnegie Tech captain, and grabbed off a nicely contested verdict, 6-3, 6-4, while Dr. John O'Loughlin 1928 premier, outhit Lowell Wingerd, Grand Rapids chopper, 6-1, 6-3. McCook Reed, crack Yale driver, cared for Bill Spindler, Stanton tactician, 6-2, 6-2.

Trans-Mississippi Favorites Beaten

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 26.—(AP.)—The Trans-Mississippi golf championship flight reached its quarter-final stage today with two favorites eliminated, Dr. L. D. Bromfield, Denver, 1930 medalist, and Natan Grimes, Denver, 1929 medalist.

Bud Maytag, of Des Moines, Ia., faced Jimmy Manion, St. Louis star, and Walter Crooks, of Denver, squared off with Frank English, of Kansas City in the upper bracket.

In the lower bracket, Bob McCrary, Des Moines Scot, faced Wally Chadwell, from the Lakewood Club, Omaha, and Chester Jones, University of Kansas sophomore, was pitted against Logan Van Zant, of Tulsa.

JONES' FETE ON AIR

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones's welcome by New York City on July 9, upon his return from golf victories in England, will be broadcast by WEAF and WJZ stations, the National Broadcasting system announced today. The broadcast is to be made between 11:56 a. m. and 1 p. m., eastern standard time.

DOCTOR LOSES LICENSE

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission today announced revocation of the physician's license granted by the commission to Dr. Joseph A. Coyle, of Braddock, Pa.

Eddie Elkins, boxer, of New York City, also had his license revoked. Terry Hayes, boxer, of Philadelphia, was suspended indefinitely.

"NO CONTEST" AFTERMATH

Dr. Coyle, of Braddock, lost his license as a commission physician of the "no contest" bout between Eddie Elkins and Tony Herrera at the Meyers Bowl last Friday night, so called instead of rightly being awarded as a technical knockout victory to Herrera when Elkins was unable to continue because of a boil on his right arm, after three rounds of fighting. The timekeeper for the bout has been removed because he followed the commission's instructions and did not strike the bell for the following round, and it is understood the inspection clerk in charge of the show will resign because of the action taken against Dr. Coyle, whom he holds blameless under the unusual conditions brought about by three postponements of the show.

Elkins' suspension is for concealing his disability before entering the ring.

Father Beats Son For Golf Laurels

ROCHESTER, Minn., June 26.—(AP.)—Dr. W. D. (Pop) Sheldon, 60-year-old Rochester golfer, defeated his son, Hunter Sheldon, 2 and 1, at the Rochester Country Club to annex the Southern Minnesota golf championship yesterday. The physician turned in a card of 76, the best of the tournament, to win from his son, who scored a 78.

Perlicks Defeated In New York Bouts

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—The Perlick twins, Kalamazoo, Mich., lost their fights at Ebbetts Field last night, Bruce Flowers, New Rochelle Negro, winning a 10-round decision from Herman in the feature bout and Ralph Lenny, of Union City, N. SETTLE TITLE

WEST NEWTON, June 26.—The West Newton American Legion baseball championship was won by the local Legion nine, which defeated Claridge here yesterday, 11 to 5.

Nick Altrock Says:

WASHINGTON, June 26.—This night baseball idea is spreading like a chestnut tree. I hear the Pacific Coast takes it up in July and St. Louis and Cincinnati are liable to be next. In a couple more years, a baseball player will have to be an owl. I don't mind staying up nights at the ball park myself, but I object to being sunburned by the Edison Light Company. Still, night baseball has its good points, too. It would let me roll home at three a. m. and when the missus asked me where I'd been, I could tell her we were playing an extra inning game.

Symbol Rose Wins In Three Heats

Coming from behind after trailing Silent Lou to the wire in the first heat, Symbol Rose won the second and concluding heats in the opening pacing event of the Schenley Matinee Club's weekly program at the Oval yesterday afternoon.

Straight heat victories featured the other two races on the card. In the second event, a trotting race, Bobby Trampfast won over Loyal C in 2:23¼ and 2:25½ and Star Bingen twice finished ahead of Miss Frances. The summary:

First event, pacing.
Symbol Rose, b. m. (McKay)..... 2 1 1
Silent Lou, b. m. (Lahl)..... 1 2 2
Time—2:25, 2:21¼, 2:25.
Second event, trotting.
Bobby Trampfast, b. g. (Wood)..... 1 1
Loyal C, b. g. (Miller)..... 2 2
Time—2:23¼, 2:25½.
Third event, pacing.
Star Bingen, b. g. (McKay)..... 1 1
Miss Francis, b. m. (Kilmeyer)..... 2 2
Time—2:20, 2:20.

Whichone to Race Gallant Fox Again

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Gallant Fox and Whichone—the natural of the 1930 turf season—will meet again Saturday in what promises to be nothing more than another opportunity for the Fox to reassert his claim to the three-year-old championship.

The occasion for the second meeting of the two outstanding three-year-olds of the year will be the Dwyer stakes at Aqueduct, run over one and one-half miles, the same distance at which William Woodward's star defeated the Harry Payne Whitney ace by four lengths in the Belmont stakes at Belmont Park two weeks ago.

ROSENBLOOM WINS LIGHT-HEAVY CROWN

JIM SLATTERY BEATEN IN BOXING DUEL

By HYPE IGOE
International News Service.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 26.—Maxie Rosenbloom held the world light-heavyweight title today, winning the crown here last night, when he outpointed Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, in 15 rounds of pretty boxing.

It was a beautiful duel of wits, feinting, blocking, jabbing and countering.

It was close—oh, so close! Patsy Haley voted to retain Slattery as the champion, while George Kelley and George Patrick, the judges, cast their votes for the New Yorker.

My own tab had them going into the final round with six rounds for each and two even. I had them fighting in the final period for the crown and I thought Jimmy had won when the round ended.

Slattery, who had won the title by defeating Lou Scozza twice has failed in battles for the world crown at the weight.

He lost when he met Tommy Loughran for it and last night he saw it slip through his fingers as Rosenbloom went hop-skipping out of the ring the happiest man in America.

SLATS FINISHES STRONG

A world crown has been a long, long time settling around Rosenbloom's skimpy locks. Slattery made a brave bid for the bauble in the closing rounds. He purposely had saved himself for a finish and my score had him taking the ninth, tenth, twelfth, fourteenth and fifteenth rounds.

Maxie did his best work in the second, fourth, fifth, sixth, eleventh and thirteenth rounds.

He got off flying and Jimmy finished like the wind. I'm afraid that Jimmy's determination to hold himself in reserve for a late rush cost him the title. He drew it too fine and Max walked in under the gilded kelly.

It was strictly a jabbing duel. Perhaps no two men fighting for a world title ever used lefts with more frequency. As it turned out Maxie had a wild one to spare. In the final round, in a mad mix-up, Rosenbloom hooked a left for Jimmy's ribs and missed, but the blow, going into space, caught old Patsy Haley, the referee, right in the pit of the stomach. The blow hung Patsy over the middle rope momentarily. The wind was knocked completely out of him, but the brave little arbiter, bending double, waved the men on. It was one of the strangest mishaps I ever saw in a title bout.

GATE DISAPPOINTING

Slattery boxed superbly. His blows seemed to lack much of their old steam, but he was accurate and he took the best wallops that Rosenbloom could shoot over and kept coming. In the rounds Jimmy lost he wasn't being punished, he simply was keeping away for that rush that came perhaps one round too late.

The attendance, which fell off somewhat from expectations, was placed at 14,000. The gate went to $55,000, instead of the looked-for $200,000.

The bout was the sixth meeting of the pair. Slattery holds four decisions over his conqueror tonight while Rosenbloom, before this encounter, had been able to shade Jimmy only once.

SCOTT, STRIB BOUT ON

MACON, Ga., June 26.—(AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling will sail for London and his fight with Phil Scott, July 5, Pa Stribling announced today after a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation with Jeff Dickson, promoter of the bout. He said the fight would be on July 28, as originally scheduled.

IRA, PARTNER LOSE

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., June 26.—(AP)—In an exhibition golf match here yesterday, Harry A. Blandford, Morgantown, and J. O. Schutt, Bluefield professional, defeated Ira Rodgers, Morgantown, 1930 state amateur champion, and H. J. Short, Jr., Bluefield. Schutt had the low net score on medal play with a 36-36 and Rodgers had a 40-36.

Anjeanette Hunter Loses at Buffalo

BUFFALO, June 26.—(AP)—Mrs. O. S. Hills, of Kansas City, trans-Mississippi and Western women's golf champion, defeated Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, four times local women's champion, 4 up and 3 to play. In the second round of match play in the annual women's invitation tournament of the Buffalo Country Club yesterday.

Glenna Collett, National champion, defeated Mrs. E. F. Lenihan, of Cleveland, 5 and 4. Mrs. A. S. Harrison, of Buffalo, defeated Anjeanette Hunter, of Pittsburgh, 8 and 6.

Enterprise Wins Yacht Test Series

NEWPORT, R. I., June 26.—(AP)—Enterprise, smallest of the fleet, but the greatest sail carrier, yesterday won her third straight victory by taking the concluding race of the Eastern Yacht Club series off here between the four America's cup defense candidates and the two cup boats of a decade ago.

With her victory went a cup valued at $1,000 which was donated by Charles P. Curtis, of Boston. She was sailed by Harold S. Vanderbilt.

Yankee, of Boston, the only non-New York contender, skippered by Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy, finished third yesterday, but she scored enough points in the series to give her second place.

WHITCOMBE WINS

BIARRITZ, France, June 26.—(AP)—Ernest Whitcombe, English professional, won the French open golf championship, played on the Chiquito course with a card of 301 over 72 holes. Two Americans participated. Alain Lockwood and H. Brower Dufresne, a card of 309 was the best among the amateurs.

W. G. A. EVENT CARDED TODAY

The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is staging a one-day tournament at the Longue Vue Club today.

The annual invitation tournament of the Allegheny Country Club will be held tomorrow and Saturday, with a number of the boys who played in the National Intercollegiate championship at Oakmont invited to compete.

A red and blue match is carded at the Aleoma Country Club and a two-ball club mixed foursome tourney is to be held at the Pittsburgh Field Club tomorrow.

Star Etawah Wins Grand Circuit Race

TOLEDO, June 26.—(AP)—Star Etawah, brown horse, by Day Star, was driven to victory in the feature event on the third night's Grand Circuit racing at the Fort Miami track by Sep Palin in straight heats.

Palin drove Star Etawah around the mile track in 2.02¾ in the second heat to reel off the fastest mile of the year for either pacers or trotters. Patchen Boy, the favorite, came in second with Carnal at the reins.

Hose Company Cards Motorboat Races

Outboard motor boat enthusiasts are expected to line the shores of the Allegheny River next Saturday night to witness races sponsored by the Pioneer Hose Company, of Brackenridge.

The start is to be made from River avenue and Morgan street at 7:30 p. m., with craft from Kittanning, Freeport, Natrona, Tarentum, Baden, New Kensington, Springdale, Blawnox and Brackenridge in line, those in charge said today.

JACOBS DOWNS SEWANEE STAR

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 26.—(AP)—The Far West weathered the storm of the fourth round of the national intercollegiate singles tennis championship yesterday, sending four players into the quarter-finals, while the East and South will have two men each.

Two seeded players, both from the East, were caught in the whirlwind of defeat. R. W. Ryan, of Yale, seeded No. 4, was eliminated by Sherman Lockwood, of the University of Oregon, 7-5, 6-8, 6-3.

Just prior to this upset Donald Strachan, of Princeton, seeded No. 5, was vanquished by Clifford Robbins, University of Oregon, 3-6, 6-0, 7-5.

David Jones, of Columbia University, was defeated by Donald Cram, University of Vanderbilt, 6-1, 6-7. Elbert Lewis, University of California, at Los Angeles took the measure of Dennis L. Mitchell, of Georgetown, 6-3, 6-4.

The fourth Far Western player jumped into the round of "eights" when Dolf Muehleisen, University of California, who triumphed over Beram Hammell, Swarthmore, 6-3, 6-2.

Eddie Jacobs, of Pittsburgh, third seeded player, joined Julius Schigson, of Lehigh, top seeded player, in the quarter-finals by conquering Ted Burwell, Sewanee, 6-2, 6-4.

Long's Sport Comment

Massachusetts Tech represent the East, Wisconsin the Middle West and Washington and California the Far West.

After the beatings they took from coast schools in football and track, the Eastern colleges are perhaps more eager than usual to turn back the far Westerners on the water, but it's going to be a tough job to keep Washington or California from finishing in front. The Navy and Columbia look like the East's best bets.

Maxie Rosenbloom

WHETHER THE WORLD light-heavyweight fistic championship changed hands or was retained when Maxie Rosenbloom won the decision over Jimmy Slattery in their 15-round bout in Buffalo last night all depends upon the way you look at it. Slattery had been proclaimed champion by the New York State Athletic Commission when he beat Lou Scozza last February, but the National Boxing Commission had continued to recognize Rosenbloom as the holder of the title. Last night's result served at least to clear up the muddle, and to establish Rosenbloom as the real leader of his class, it also furnished new evidence that Maxie is one of the most remarkable fighters of his time, for just how he can keep going and beating all the best men near his weight while paying little attention to the rules of training is one of the big puzzles of the glove game. It is no mean feat to defeat Slattery anywhere, and particularly in his home town of Buffalo, where he had beaten practically all opponents, including Rosenbloom himself, prior to last night.

BALTIMORE STARS WIN

BALTIMORE, June 26.—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Martinez and Frances Walker, of Washington were eliminated yesterday, 6-1, 7-5, by Anne Townsend, of Philadelphia, and Eleanor Cottman, of Baltimore, in the doubles play of the Maryland women's tennis championship played at the Baltimore Country Club. The finals will be played today.

NEW FOUL RULE

BUTTE, Mont., June 26.—(AP)—The Montana State Boxing Commission today ruled that fighters guilty of fouls will default their share of the purses and will be subject to suspension. Only when the referee, judges and the commission's inspector are unanimous that a man fouling another should not be held responsible, will a club be permitted to pay a boxer.

CENTRAL LOOP NINES CLASH

By TOM BIRKS.

Two outstanding games are carded in the Central League this evening. The Cosletts will hook up with the Y. M. H. A. nine at Magee Field, and the Lincoln Civics nine will get its severest test of the season when the Beckman Motors aggregation is met at Arlington Park. The Lutton team has been knocking off all the leaders this season and the East Enders will have to flash plenty of stuff to win this game.

One game will be played in the C. & I. League, Dravo meeting Mine Safety at Homewood Playgrounds.

The Homewood club, of the West Penn League, will be the attraction this evening at Woodman Field, meeting the W. O. W. team of the City League.

The East Liberty Crimson team, winner in the Eastern section of the Steel City League, is looking for a couple of good ball players. Pitcher Novey should call Manager Kahn at Atlantic 5100, Line 302, during the day, or Hazel 1472-J in the evening.

Last evening's sandlot program was a light one. The Homestead Grays landed their sixty-ninth triumph of the season, beating Pitcairn, 8 to 3. Smoky Joe Williams kept Pitcairn's nine hits scattered.

At a special meeting of the City League last evening, called by President Harry Yerx, Dormont was admitted to the circuit, to take the place of St. Johns, which will resign its franchise after the close of the first half of the season.

The Dormonters will begin their City League career with the start of the second half race July 7.

In the City League, the North Side Civics went 10 innings before winning over Pop Geer's Stowe nine, 6 to 4. Ingomar defeated the All-Stars, 8 to 3.

The Greensburg team of the Pennsylvania League downed the Duquesne Steel nine, 2 to 0, at Cycler Park, McKeesport.

Sport Vignettes

Have you met our Al Gough, the well-dressed reporter, who has a change of scenery for each assignment? . . . . The other day he appeared in the following changes of costume: street clothes, knickers, aviation togs, riding habit and evening wear . . . . Some night he is going to the dog races and he isn't even worried about what he will wear . . . . Phil Glassman, manager of Benny Bass, here for the latter's bout with Joey Goodman at the Meyers Bowl the other night, was surprised to see the knockdown timer pounding away with a mallet . . . . They don't do that in Philadelphia and he's going to campaign for the spread of the fad there . . . . In other words, he likes it and is for it . . . . What to do about this fouling evil? . . . . How about counting out ALL of the gents who claim fouls and allow only those that the referee himself sees and calls? . . . . That would ruin the claimers, anyway, and they are in the great majority . . . . It will take Pennsylvania a long time to recover from that odorous Carnera-Godfrey thing, which never should have been allowed . . . . That would have been a swell spot to give the fans' money back to them, instead of picking out an obscure match like that at the Meyers Bowl the other night when Eddie Elkins was willing to continue and give his best despite the handicap of a badly swollen and infected arm against Tony Herrera . . . . One trouble with the boxing board in this state is that it lacks consistency . . . . In Philadelphia, they go in for ballyhooey on a grand scale, even to having the commission weigh in the fighters amid a lot of pomp and ceremony and blah in the studio of a radio broadcasting station, which is circusing on an elaborate and undignified scale and should be stopped . . . . Here the promoters get scant consideration . . . . In Philadelphia, the public is "protected" by confiscating part of the purse for a foul fight, the money going to the State, and here the receipts are given back to the fans when the situation does not justify it, with the promoter holding the bag . . . . In Philadelphia, the commission encourages wrestling shows in a big way and here they are frowned upon and discouraged . . . . And, as mentioned above, in Philadelphia, they don't know what a knockdown timer is, while here the promoters have to stand the double cost of a timer and a knockdown timer . . . . Yet the same commission functions in both cities . . . . Why not get together and make the rules conform or give us separate commissions? . . . . It's no wonder the promoters, managers and boxers themselves don't know what it's all about with the regulations so badly out of gear in two sections under the same rule . . . . Guess who is back in town? None other than K. O. Circus, who has boxed away from home within the past year and wants to resume ring work here. He now weighs around 140 pounds.—HARRY KECK.

...JUST FOUR WAYS!

There are just four ways of achieving maximum riding comfort in an automobile. And there are a complete riding set of Roadmasters, the tires that seem to be lined with velvet, enforced with steel, and cushioned with eiderdown. The Roadmaster was developed by the foremost tire engineers of the country at the plant of the Falls Rubber Company. And are they safe? Boy! They are so tough and hardy that it is rumored that the Service Station Attendants Union is attempting to get out an injunction against the company because Roadmasters are cutting down their tire-repair revenue. Incidentally, you never heard of a Roadmaster blowing out, did you?

AMERICANS TRIUMPH IN WIMBLEDON NET PLAY

BELGIAN CHAMP BOWS TO MISS RYAN

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service.

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26.—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, American veteran of many international tournaments, advanced into the fourth round of the women's singles of the Wimbledon tennis championships today by defeating Mme. Jeanne Sigart, Belgian champion, 6-3, 6-4.

Berkley Bell and Gregory Mangin, alternates on the United States Davis Cup team, paired in the doubles and eliminated Count Von Salm Hoogstraaten, of Austria, and Burr, of England, 7-5, 6-4, 6-4, in a first-round match.

William T. Tilden, paired with Hans Timmer, the Dutch champion, advanced to the second round of the doubles by defeating Deterding and Reddall in straight sets, 6-4, 8-6, 6-2.

America received a setback with the elimination of Miss Mary Greef, of Kansas City, at the hands of Mlle. S. Payot, of France. The French girl showed a superior brand of tennis, winning in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

George Lott and Johnny Doeg, the United States doubles champions and favorites to go far in the tournament, were forced to the limit in their first-round match before eliminating the English team of V. A. Cazalet and J. C. Masterman, 8-6, 13-11, 7-5.

Miss Helen Jacobs, of California, made short work of her match with Miss H. Stanley, of Great Britain, winning, 6-3, 6-0.

Miss Ermyntrude Harvey, veteran British woman player, collapsed on the court during her long match with Mrs. C. G. McIlquham, also of England, while the latter was leading, 2-6, 8-6, 4-2.

Miss Betty Nuthall, 19-year-old British star, eliminated Mrs. C. H. Jameson, of England, 6-4, 6-3.

JONES SEES PLAY

Bobby Jones and Mrs. Jones were among the distinguished guests at Wimbledon today. They were escorted to the royal box for the start of the Sigart-Ryan match.

Racing through 12 straight games, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan defeated Mrs. V. Burr and Miss G. N. Thompson, of England, 6-0, 6-0, to become the favorites to win the English women's doubles championship.

LEADERS SPLIT WITH STOGIES

Doubleheaders were the order of the day yesterday in the Mid-Atlantic League, all teams engaging in twin bills.

At Wheeling, the Stogies split a dual engagement, the Stogies winning the first game, 4 to 2, and losing the second 12 to 2.

Fairmont won two games from Jeannette, taking the first game, 4 to 3 and the second, 8 to 1. At Scottdale, the Scotties and Charleroi divided, the Guys winning the first encounter, 15 to 4, and the Scots the second, 11 to 10.

Clarksburg defeated Cumberland twice, by scores of 4 to 0 and 9 to 1.

W. PA. TENNIS STARS WIN

ers to attain the bracket of 16 were Sam Harbison, vastly improved Princetonian, and Jack Beatty, leader of the Stanton Heights array. Harbison, with beautiful strokes in virtually all departments, caused surprise by the convincing manner in which he bumped Chick Cochrane, Edgewood, 6-1, 6-2, and Beatty boasted too strong a net attack to be stopped by the confusingly unorthodox style of Jimmy Creighton, ex-Duquesne captain, who succumbed at 6-3, 6-3.

Almost the entire first round of women's singles was accounted for early in the afternoon. Mrs. M. W. St. John returned to competition with a marathon win over Mrs. Jean Artzberger of Mount Lebanon, 6-4, 5-7, 8-6, while Miriam Sullivan, P. A. A. entrant, captured a hard-driving decision from Polly Schoyer, of Radcliffe College, 8-6, 6-4. Mrs. K. R. Slaimyer, Cleveland delegate, bagged a close one from Betty Wattles, another Winged Head entry, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1.

Yesterday's summary:

MEN'S SINGLES.

Second round—Charles Cochrane defeated Charles Boyd, 6-8, 6-1; Charles Woods defeated Billy Creighton, 6-1, 1-6, 7-5; C. F. Abrons defeated John B. Brown, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4; Walter Arensberg defeated V. K. Gilchrist, 6-2, 6-2; Austin Fulmarios won from Harold Baker by default.

Third round—Byron Bear defeated Robert Catlin, 6-3, 6-4; Sam Harbison defeated Charles Cochrane, 6-1, 6-2; William C. Ramsey won from John Hecker by default; W. F. Three boxing shows are listed in Western Pennsylvania tonight—at Hickey Park, Millvale, at Junction Park, New Brighton, and at Johnstown.

All offer promising billings, and all should draw well in their outdoor settings.

Andy Andrucci, of the East End, boxes Ray Collins, of Erie, in the 10-round main bout at Hickey Park, with Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, meeting Tug Phillips, of Erie and formerly of Fayette City, in another 10-rounder. Georgie Bretsch, of the North Side, boxes Johnny Skorin, of Woods Run, in an eight-round preliminary, and Al Becker, of Sheraden, makes his second professional start against Jerry Kucera, of Brentwood, in the six-round opener.

At Junction Park, Young Saylor, of Charleroi, takes the place of Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, against Mickey Solomen, of New Castle, in the main bout, with Solomen anxious to make up for a knockout defeat handed him by Saylor at the Moose Temple several months ago. Nick Polis meets Eddie Jacobs, Bobby Belford boxes Tiger Joe Clark and Al Iovino tangles with Bus Hardy in the preliminaries.

Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, meets Baby Face Art Feeser, of Lebanon, Pa., in the 10-round main bout of the Johnstown show, which is for the benefit of the Eightieth Division Veterans' Association. Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, boxes Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, in a supporting 10-rounder, and, in two six-round preliminaries, Mike Hortak, of Central City, boxes Leo Angeloff, of Johnstown, and Abe West, of Windber, engages Joe Mehalic, of Barnesboro.

Between Rounds

The Twenty-seventh Ward A. C.'s next amateur boxing show in its open-air arena on the North Side is carded for next Tuesday night. Matchmakers Eddie McEntee and Jack McNally are at work on the card.

The Meyers Brothers, of the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, still are cashing in ticket stubs for last Friday night's Tony Herrera-Eddie Elston show and request that all such exchangers contain a self-addressed stamped envelope in which the refund may be made.

Harry Harris, of Bellaire, O., who looks like Gene Tunney and is a promising light-heavyweight pugilist, has been signed to oppose Harry Williams, of the North Side, in the eight-round semi-final at the Meyers Bowl next Monday night, when Jackie Rodgers stacks up against a tough puncher in Johnny Dattis, Filipino, of Cleveland, in the 10-round main bout.

Frenchy Belanger, of Canada, and Phil Tobias, of Brooklyn, classy flyweights, have been matched to box the 10-round main bout at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night.

TENNY MEDALIST

BALTIMORE, June 26.—(AP.)—Martin Tenny, Jr., 18, of the Cumberland Country Club Western Maryland golfers, yesterday posted an aggregate score of 150 strokes to win the Medal in the 36-hole qualifying round of the Maryland amateur championship golf tournament over the Baltimore Country Club course at Five Farms.

Fight Results

At Buffalo—Maxie Rosenbloom defeated Jimmy Slattery, for light-heavyweight championship, 15 rounds; George Nichols won by a technical knockout over Gene McCue, 6 rounds.

At Cleveland—Gorilla Jones defeated Vincent Ferguson, 10 rounds; Tommy Freeman defeated Billy Algee, 10 rounds.

At New York—Bruin Flowers defeated Herman Perrick, 10 rounds; Ralph Leroy defeated Henry Perlick, 10 rounds.

LOCAL HOUNDS RACE TONIGHT

Enthusiasm is keyed to a high pitch over the race to be run at the Bridgeville Speedway tonight for locally-owned dogs. The event will be run as the Bridgeville Challenge No. 2, and ninth on the program.

Nine other events are scheduled, of which two are five-sixteenths, or distance affairs.

At New Kensington, Ahane Boy added another victory to his list by taking the ninth race, over the futurity distance, last night. He paid $13.80 to win. Keno Thought, paying $19.80 to win the sixth event, was the long shot of the evening.

A. A. to Discuss Split Season Plan

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—A meeting of American Association baseball club owners to consider the advisability of a split season was called for July 1, by President Thomas J. Hickey yesterday.

The meeting will be held at the Stevens Hotel, Chicago.

President Hickey said the proposal to divide the season had been suggested to him as having operated successfully in the Pacific Coast and Texas and the Southern leagues, each of which awards a pennant to the mid-season leader.

[Some Said It Was Luck]—but

Not a great many years ago an unknown boy from the celebrated open spaces of the West came to New York via airplane.

A couple of days later this same youth dropped out of the skies and gave the citizens of the witching city of Paris, France, the thrill of their young lives.

Many people on both sides of the Atlantic spoke about him in this wise: "Wasn't that boy lucky!" And newspapers everywhere conferred on him the doubtful title of "Lucky . . . . . ."

All that's necessary to say to that is "Applesauce." Better than any other person alive the boy knew how to fly an airplane.

TODAY Everybody says: "You'll have Good Luck with 'STANDARD"

There's something in back of the luck that people have with "Standard"—just as there were thousands of miles of flying and years of study behind that boy who landed in Paris on schedule!

To motorists "good luck" means briefly: a car that zips off from a standing start like a newly-clipped colt—a car that runs smoothly and tirelessly all day, no matter where you drive . . . and a car that doesn't give you one trouble after another with repair bills mounting sky-high . . . The reasons for good luck with "Standard" are found in 60 years of experience in refining the best motor fuels and motor oil—and in the rigid laboratory tests that make certain the high quality of "Standard" products.

People have "good luck" with "Standard." But it's planned good luck. You are certain to get it at all "Standard" stations with all "Standard" products.

COLLEGE CREWS READY FOR REGATTA

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 26.—(AP.)—The biggest regatta in the annals of American college rowing drew a record throng to the banks of the Hudson here today.

Knute Rockne turned up from South Bend, apparently in greatly improved health, and accompanied by Jack Chevigny, one of his right-hand men and former stars.

Rock unhesitatingly picked Washington to win the varsity tussle while at the same time admitting that his sport is football and that he does not pass as an expert when it comes to shoveling water.

EXPERTS PICK HUSKIES

But there were plenty, including assorted experts, who were willing to string along with the sage and philosopher of Notre Dame and pick the towering crew from the Far Northwest to crash through for the first time since 1926.

The position of second favorite was held by the Navy, while Columbia and California also were regarded highly.

Neither of the Pacific Coast crews was rated quite up to the Navy and Columbia eights, coached by the Glendons, father and son, when it comes to smoothness of rowing form, but many felt that Washington's greater power would be enough to win.

Such a well qualified observer as Rusty Callow, present Pennsylvania mentor and coach of the last Washington varsity to win here, said that the Seattle institution probably had turned out a good many crews that were prettier to watch but none with the marvelous physical equipment of the present varsity array.

UPSET UNLIKELY

A victory for any crew other than the "big four" who have monopolized the varsity championships here ever since the war figured to rank as a sensational upset, but all five of the other contenders — Cornell, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts Tech and Wisconsin—were determined to win if possible and not to finish last at any rate.

The boom for Washington gathered strength as a result of yesterday's preliminary events when the Huskies scored a victory in the first of the eight-oared struggles, an informal race for substitute oarsmen. Washington won by a quarter of a length from Syracuse after a hard tussle over the entire mile and one-half course. Pennsylvania was third, a combined Cornell and Wisconsin eight fourth and Columbia fifth and last. In a four-oared dual race the Navy subs trimmed California.

Rebellion Fails To Influence Landis

CHICAGO, June 26.—(AP.)—Kenesaw Mountain Landis may be faced with a rebellion within the ranks, but he keeps right on waving his big stick.

The latest decision of the baseball commissioner is to declare Edwin Mooers, suspended second baseman for the Baltimore Orioles, a free agent.

Mooers was suspended when he refused to report to Buffalo, of the International League, on a player deal. He complained to Landis, exhibiting a signed contract in which the Orioles agreed to make him a free agent if they did not send him to a club of higher classification. Despite much protesting by Baltimore, the commissioner held for Mooers.

Cummins, Munro Tie for Medal

TOLEDO, June 26.—(AP.)—Jack Cummins, of Cleveland, and Jack Munro, Akron, led qualifiers in the Ohio Amateur Golf tournament yesterday with 149 for 36 holes at the end of the second day's play.

Thirty-two players qualified, the highest score being 159. John Florio, Columbus, defending champion, was within bounds with a 156, but Joe Wells, East Liverpool, champion in 1922 and 1924, was out of the running with a 160.

Quarter Sessions Wins Osborne Plate

NEWCASTLE, England, June 26.—(AP.)—Marshall Field's Quarter Sessions won the John Osborne handicap plate today. R. P. Boterill's Sir Picton was second and H. Stobart's Compound Fracture third. Only four ran.

The betting was 7 to 1, 10 to 4, and 100 to 30.

Quarter Sessions won by a length and a half, while there was a head between second and third. The distance was a mile and a half.

Three Marks Fall In Turner Meet

BUFFALO, June 26.—(AP.)—Three national records were broken yesterday in the opening athletic events of the American Turnerbund. Ted Brunea, Buffalo, broke the standing broad jump record for men, senior division, when he cleared 9 feet, 1 inch. Edward Talos, Cleveland youngster, was responsible for a new boys' pentathlon record when he scored 53.4 points.

Miss Leona Depooter, of Northwest Davenport, Ia., leaped 4 feet, 8 inches, for a new women's record in the high jump and Miss Lalone Elliott, Newton, Kans., sprinted the 100-yard dash in 11 seconds flat.

Ministers Protest Sunday Auto Races

BALTIMORE, June 26.—(AP.)—A protest against Sunday automobiles races in Baltimore County and the commercialization of other Sunday sports in the county was made by a delegation of ministers and representatives of the Lord's Day Alliance at a hearing before the county commissioners of Baltimore County yesterday.

The delegation was headed by Dr. F. J. Prettyman, president of the Lord's Day Alliance, and Dr. W. W. Davis, secretary of the organization. Its members requested the commissioners to take steps to prohibit Sunday automobile races in their jurisdiction.

Finders Keepers, Judge Rules on Foul Balls

CHICAGO, June 26.—(INS.)—Many a weather eye will be kept peeled in the stands at Wrigley Field here today for foul balls when the Chicago Cubs meet the Brooklyn Robins.

The reason is that Judge Francis Allegretti has upheld the right of three 17-year-old youths, Arthur Porto, James Brindisi and William Kleinschmidt, to a ball Hack Wilson fouled into the grandstand at Cubs Park.

A miniature riot resulted when an usher tried to take the ball forcibly, and Judge Allegretti was called upon to umpire the squabble. He allowed the boys to keep the ball.

WHAT NEXT?

Verman Kimbrough, instructor in voice culture at Southern College, Lakeland, Fla., also has been made head football coach. The reports from that state are to the effect that Kimbrough will introduce some novelties next fall which will be colorful and interesting and should remove the game of football from the sphere of the uncouth into the cultured area of the aesthete.

Knute Rockne

From his spring practice indications are that he will start his tenor backfield in most games and that he has two tall baritone ends of great range. His guards and tackles will be deep basses of the heavy, fur-bearing type. The center, of course, will sing the lead.

The referees, in their games, all will have to carry pitch pipes instead of whistles.

His plan of campaign in a game will be to use the Melody in F, to maneuver for position early in the game, wasting a play in Obligato now and then while feeling out the opposition. When the team gets into mid-field the quarterback will call for "Tip-toe Through the Tulips" in Pizzicato or, as a change of pace to waltz time, "Nights of Gladness," with pronounced crescendo in the rising notes.

The coach intends to save as a scoring play that great yard-gainer, "O Sole Mio" ala Caruso.

Personally, I don't see how anything can stop them.

New Giant Player Had Quick Rise

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—(AP.)—Harry Rosenberg, Mission outfielder sold yesterday to the New York Giants, had the quickest rise to fame of any player in the Coast league in years. He has played professional ball less than three months. A batting slump by one of the veterans gave the 21-year-old his chance.

EDGEWOOD LADS QUALIFY FOR HEARST PLAY

Nick Lucina and Joe Malicki set the pace with a fine 82 each as caddies of the Edgewood Country Club qualified for the third annual William Randolph Hearst junior amateur golf tournament at Edgewood today. The Hearst tournament is to be played over the Schenley Park municipal links on Monday, July 7.

Joseph O'Brien and Tom Madden, tied at 86, shared runner-up honors, and will play with Lucina and Malicka as the team representing Edgewood in the play for the team prize in the tourney.

TIE FOR LAST PLACE

The scores of those who qualified for the tourney are as follows: Nick Lucina, 42-40—82; Joe Malicki, 42-40—82; Joseph O'Brien, 43-43—86; Tom Madden, 42-44—86; George Dombrowski, 46-42—88; Edward Malicki, 45-43—88; Thomas Rehm, 45-44—89; A. Wiliski, 43-47—90; M. Evanish, 46-44—90.

A. Wiliski and Evanish tied for the last qualifying berth, and will play off tomorrow.

Leaders among those who failed to qualify scored as follows: M. Leax, 48-44—92; Paul Yarigan, 45-47—92; C. Boone, 46-47—93; George Porada, 47-47—94; J. Koskie, 46-50—96.

The qualifying play was conducted by Paul Erath, caddie master at Edgewood.

HERRON LAUDS EVENT

John S. Herron, president of City Council, has endorsed most heartily the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's tournament, in a statement to John Jay Burke, honorary director of the affair. He said:

"The William Randolph Hearst junior golf tournament, inaugurated by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, I am sure is heartily commended by the people of Pittsburgh.

"It was my pleasure, as president of council, to receive your request to set aside the popular Schenley Park course for the exclusive use of these young golfers on July 7 next, and the fact that the resolution offered was unanimously passe is evidence of the whole-hearted support of council, Director of Public Works Lang and Superintendent of Parks Moore.

"Aside from the official endorsement of Mayor Kline, however, I wish to assure you of my personal interest in the affair, and to express the hope that you may have a most enjoyable and successful tournament.

"In the absence of the Mayor, I hope to have the pleasure of greeting the boys on July 7."

Get your entry blank in now—less than a week remains for you to get in the tournament.

Schneider to Drive In Bridgeville Race

The only difference between the blue ribbon auto derby at Indianapolis Memorial Day and the impending attraction at the Pittsburgh-Bridgeville Speedway July 4 will be that the race will be somewhat abbreviated, but the faces that will grace the roster will be the same familiar countenances that drove in the Hoosier event.

In yesterday's mail came the entry of Louie Schneider, a perennial Indianapolis starter, and equally as consistent in grabbing off his share of the purse. In 1928 Louie was the runner-up in the 500-mile event.

Billy Arnold, the 1930 winner at Indianapolis and Altoona, is out front by a comfortable margin, yet there still is a mathematical chance of his being overcome by Shorty Cantlon, another local entry, and who finished second to Arnold at Indianapolis and who won the A. A. A. race at Akron recently.

Other satellites who will compete are Jimmy Gleason, Wilbur Shaw, Babe Stapp and Dave Evans.

Nerve Exhaustion Undermines Health

I aim to restore the health and vigor to weak, sick, unbalanced nerves. To regenerate lost nerve energy, to build up strong, sound nerves, requires an understanding of the action and abuses of nerves. It needs a knowledge of the natural laws of nerve fatigue, of mental and physical relaxation, and nerve metabolism. And it is only through application of these laws that stubborn cases of Nerve Exhaustion can be overcome. These signs of nerve exhaustion are produced as a result of worries, intense concentration, loss of sleep and other causes. The mad pace at which we are traveling is wrecking the entire Nervous Organization of people.

Here's a Plan to Put End To Falling Prices

—By B. C. FORBES—

WHAT CAUSED commodity prices to start falling all over the world?

What brought the violent collapse in stock market quotations?

More important: What can bring recovery in both?

A specific answer is here offered.

It comes from the Royal Bank of Canada.

Says the bank:

"During the last two years, when speculation was making unprecedented demands upon the world's credit resources, this demand for credit came into direct competition with the requirement of business and industry in all countries. It is the influence of this tight credit upon world business conditions that is responsible for the present price debacle."

THE STIMULATING effect of abundant credit, and the crippling effect of restricted credit, are illustrated by South America's experience. In 1913, U. S. investments in South America were less than $200,000,000, the bank points out. By 1928 they exceeded $2,200,000,000. Old industries were expanded, new industries established, roads were built, railroads extended and harbor facilities improved. South America's total foreign trade increased from $2,466,000,000 in 1922 to $4,474,000,000 in 1928. Annual exports doubled.

Then came the monetary stringency of 1928. The bank continues:

"High rates available for loans or speculative purposes cut off the credit supply for development and ordinary trade. South America shared in the declines in values which followed. Buying power was drastically curtailed. The difference between the volume of the trade of South America at the beginning of 1929 and at the beginning of 1930 represents the difference between prosperity and depression for many manufacturers in the United States."

TURNING to remedies, the bank states:

"It is clear that the present world-wide depression was occasioned by credit stringency, and it seems a logical deduction that the recent easing of rates in the international money markets will produce the necessary correction in conditions.

"But the present low rates don't indicate as easy conditions as surface appearances seem to imply. It is only a few of the banks in the largest cities that are oversupplied with liquid funds.

"Between October and June the volume of credit extended by the Federal Reserve Banks fell from $1,621,000,000 to $927,000,000, and the circulation of Federal Reserve notes declined from $1,920,000,000 to $1,419,000,000. Contraction in the country's total circulation amounted to more than 11 per cent.

"There can be no doubt that if the volume of circulation were immediately restored to the level that existed in November, the decline in prices since that date would be quickly counteracted."

"The decline in export and import business has reduced the supply of acceptances to unusually low levels. The acceptance market does not afford any substantial outlet for an increased volume of credit."

Now comes the nub of the bank's proposed remedy for falling prices:

"The only other means by which the Reserve banks can affect the market would be through the purchase of government securities. The latest balance sheet shows that they hold $597,000,000 of such securities.

"If the Reserve banks should increase these holdings to $1,000,000,000, the member banks would find their credit balances with the Reserve system increased by substantially a like amount . . . . It should not be supposed that the total effect would be felt in the United States. Gold exports from the United States would follow unless other countries adopted similar policies, but the central banks of Great Britain and France have proceeded further with an easy money policy than has the Federal Reserve Bank, and the adoption by the latter of the measures suggested would permit European banks to take further measures along the same lines, which might be expected to prevent effectively any abnormal movement of gold. The present depression is world wide, but anything that will substantially reverse the trend in one country must tend to have a similar effect in all countries.

"To the objection that the proposal represents a policy of inflation, we suggest that it is justified under present conditions as a cure for the drastic deflation which has taken place during the past nine months."

THE FOREGOING is respectfully recommended to the attention of the Federal Reserve Board.

We could stand a little "inflation" above current levels, especially as such "inflation" would revive business and employment.

Double Holiday On Exchanges For 'Fourth'

NEW YORK, June 26. — The New York Stock Exchange, New York Curb Exchange and New York Cotton Exchange voted to close on the Saturday following the Fourth of July. All boards will close from Thursday, July 3, until Monday, July 7. Banks will remain open July 5.

CHICAGO, June 26. — The Chicago Board of Trade will be closed Saturday, July 5, following the usual holiday, July 4. This action differs from the usual course of the board whereby the grain, cotton and provision departments remained open on Saturdays following Friday holidays.

WINNIPEG, June 26. — The Winnipeg Grain Exchange will be closed on July 1, Dominion Day, but will remain open on July 4 and 5.

Michigan Steel Earnings For Five Months Cover Cash Dividends.

Earnings of Michigan Steel Corporation for the first five months of 1930, after depreciation and federal taxes, were sufficient to cover the regular cash dividends of the company for the entire year, together with the necessary charge against the earnings for the 1 per cent stock dividend which will be paid July 21, 1930, George R. Fink, president, stated. Michigan Steel's dividend rate is $2.50 per share per annum on the 220,000 shares issued and outstanding. Average operations of the company's plant at Ecorse, Mich., were maintained at 98 per cent of capacity for the first five months of the year.

Many in the financial community were quite decided in their opinion that the market is harboring a tremendous short interest. And moreover, it was contended that this short interest embraced an unusually large proportion of so-called "amateurs," that is traders who heretofore had had little experience, except on the long side of the market. Against this, however, there was little in the stock loan market to support the theory that a short interest of any exceptional proportions exists. True there probably has been quite a little selling for short account, but the action of the market seemingly indicates that considerable liquidation has made it possible for the bears to cover a good deal of their short position from time to time.

Considerable selling yesterday came into North American Company which announced plans for a big increase in the total authorized common stock. Though the head of the company explained that the increase was being asked to provide for growth of the organization in the future, report got round that it was the intention of the company to acquire various utility properties. These rumors brought forth quick denial by P. L. Dame, president of the company, who said they were without foundation and in direct contradiction to the statement he made in connection with the calling of a special shareholders' meeting.

It is broadly conceded that the market is approaching a crucial test of its position. At the closing Tuesday, as measured by the average stocks were lower than at any time since November 12, last. This performance naturally tended to confirm the theory that the market before developing any definite change of trend, would in probability make a "double bottom" by way of testing its position. At midday yesterday the average of 90 stocks as compiled by Standard Statistics, Inc., stood at 153.0, a new low for the year, and within less than 12 points of the November low of 140.2 for the same stocks. At that level the market was believed to have met the most powerful kind of support as well as highly discriminating buying for investment.

It was learned that another of the larger professional traders, who has reputedly been very active on the selling side of the market in the recent decline, is preparing to leave for a trip abroad by the end of the week. He has been credited with much of the selling which has forced Warner Brothers, among other popular issues, down rather precipitately in the last fortnight or so. It will be interesting to watch the market action, of that stock in particular, over the balance of the week, according to some people, inasmuch as these larger traders ordinarily close out their commitments before leaving on an extended vacation.

It was not so much the selling which developed in the railway shares that was discouraging to speculators of bullish potentialities yesterday, as it was the indicated absence of nearby demand for the seasoned-dividend payers in the group. Railway shares were perhaps the weakest group on the board yesterday. Yet Tuesday's sharp recessions were brought about by sales of only 189,000 shares, representing about 6 per cent of the day's aggregate turnover of 2,867,000 shares. Moreover the bears are not likely to be found heavy sellers of the carrier shares. Perhaps some of the selling in the rails represented liquidation which had for its purpose the raising of additional funds to take care of some less seasoned collateral.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 26.—Listed bonds idled today, as prices showed little inclination to move one way or the other. The liquidation which has carried bond prices down steadily this week appeared to have spent itself, and the downward course was partly checked. Buyers manifested interest in only a few prime rail and utility bonds and sales fell off sharply.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, only omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Advance — Local Market Steady

STOCK MARKET PRICES WORK UP STEADILY

Short Covering Helps to Put Shares on Higher Level—Steel Advances

NEW YORK, June 26.—(AP.)—The stock market again showed signs today of throwing off the reactionary tendencies that have prevailed, with occasional one-day interruptions, since the first of the month. Bears found the market rather thoroughly sold out, for the moment at least, and stocks worked substantially higher under the influence of short covering.

The overnight announcement of the American Tobacco two-for-one split-up and $4 extra dividend, was a bright spot in the gloom that has pervaded the financial community for weeks, and the reduction in the annual dividend rate of Anaconda from $7 to $3.50, announced soon after midday, was not as bad as had been commonly forecast of late. Some weeks ago, Wall street was looking for a reduction to $4 but during the last few days Wall street has been too pessimistic to look for anything better than $3.

SEES TURNING POINT

As more railroads report May net operating income, the showing does not improve. With 35 reports now at hand, the aggregate decline is nearly 30 per cent from last year, but is nevertheless not so severe as that of April. E. N. Brown, chairman of the executive committee of Rock Island, said he felt the bottom had been reached in the sag in movement of freight.

Call money continued to cheapen, touching 1½ per cent for the first time in 13 years, after renewals at 2. The steady drop in interest rates has been expected to result in an inflow of investment money into dividend paying stocks and bonds, but thus far has not been a conspicuous factor in either market.

Commission houses, however, report steady but unhurried investment buying of stocks at current levels.

LEAPS FORWARD

The market leaped forward under the leadership of the American Tobacco shares at the opening, then sold off moderately, only to show greater strength later. The Anaconda dividend action brought heavy short covering into the stock, which rose more than 4 points and spread to other red metal shares. American Tobacco common sold up 12, and the B stock, 8 points. Eastman Kodak and Case also made wide gains.

Shares gaining 3 points or more included such issues as American Can, Westinghouse Electric, American Telephone, New York Central, Union Pacific, and Consolidated Gas. U. S. Steel sold up about 2. A few shares touched new lows, however, including Norfolk and Western.

FOREIGN TRADE OFF IN MAY

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP.)—Analysis of foreign trade figures for the month of May indicates that the falling off in exports and imports has much more seriously affected raw materials and foodstuffs than it has affected the products of factories.

Figures of the month's trade by class as compared with those of last year follow:

Exports—Manufactured goods, $178,381,000, against $202,717,000; partly manufactured goods, $49,949,000, against $59,820,000; foods ready for consumption, $30,363,000, against $35,922,000; raw foods, $12,448,000, against $21,212,000; raw materials for use in manufacturing, $40,781,000, against $57,405,000.

Imports — Manufactured goods, $68,431,000, against $83,684,000; partly manufactured goods, $53,155,000, against $85,875,000; foods ready for consumption, $41,571,000, against $42,290,000; raw foods, $34,744,000, against $46,561,000; raw materials for use in manufacturing, $86,743,000, against $141,739,000.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 26.—Cotton opened steady at an advance of 11 to 14 points today on the relatively small short interest, prospects for continued hot weather in the South. The advance met enough realizing to cause some irregularity but offerings were light and a comparatively moderate demand was sufficient to send prices up to 13.75c for July and 12.93c for the new October contract, or about 15 to 20 points net higher on the general list.

Offerings increased slightly at these figures and the market showed reactions of a few points at the end of the first half hour. Additional July notices estimated that about 14,400 bales were issued here this morning and led to some further switching from July to later months, but there was very little change in the differences between positions. Liverpool cables said there had been continental and Bombay buying as well as covering in that market and reported contracts compared with parity.

Reactions from the early advance carried the market off to 13.39c for July and 12.82c for new October, or within 6 to 9 points of yesterday's closing quotations. There was not a great deal of price for sale later in the morning July was easily around 12.46c, or 13 points net higher, while later months showed net advances of about 13 to 20 points.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 26.—Prices backed and filled in a dull curb market today. Stocks showed better resistance to further efforts by the professional bears, who appeared to be discouraged by their failure to break appreciably through yesterday's closing levels. Buying support was rather sluggish, however, and the market drifted along with generally small changes.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

WORLD'S TRADE UNSETTLED BY GOLD RISE

British Economists Lean Toward Managed Currency Instead of Old Standard

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, June 25.—Comment about the existing world trade situation too frequently deals with symptoms, rather than with fundamental causes.

A central aspect of the whole situation is the distressing decline in the prices of farm products and of all raw materials. Another way of saying this is to point out that the true value of purchasing power of gold has risen, adding incidentally to the reparations burdens of Germany and to the load which must be carried by all debtors. American and European economists have expressed fears that world trade would suffer from an inadequately expanding gold supply which would continue to deflate prices and upset trade balance.

Hartley Withers, outstanding English financial writer and former editor of the Economist, London, takes a more cheerful view of the gold situation, and raises the question:

"Can trade live without gold?"

"Warnings have lately been heard, of the probability of a gold panic in two or three years. It is time we made up our minds whether the business world and the central banks which supply it with credit mean to use gold as a useful servant or allow it to exercise a dominant and tyrannous influence as a master whose word is law."

WOULD END GOLD TYRANNY

Incidentally, Sir Josiah Stamp and the other British experts in the formulation of the Young reparations plan, wanted the new Bank for International Settlements as an agency for freeing the business world from the tyranny of gold and hope that the bank will find ways to offset existing deflationary tendencies.

In giving the new creed of economists regarding gold, Mr. Withers adds, in the Nation & Business:

"We want gold as a basis for the notes and credits issued by central banks, on the basis of which, in their turn, the commercial banks grant credit to their customers and so create the check currency which is the money of domestic commerce. But gold is a convenience, not a master; and if it really threatened to be scarce, which it is far from doing at present, the banking authorities of the world, especially if they worked in harmony, could easily put it in its right place.

"They have only to show that it is their duty to supply the business community with adequate credit and that they regard the supply of credit as a matter to be regulated rather by the course of commodity prices than by the extent of gold stocks.

"As long as commodity prices are not rising too fast, the supply of credit, whatever its ratio to the gold stocks may be, is clearly not too large for the needs of legitimate business."

FAVOR 'MANAGED CURRENCY'

Thus do influential British economists and financiers lean over toward J. M. Keynes' position in favor of a 'managed currency' instead of reliance on the old fashioned gold standard. There is some sympathy for this new position in influential central banking quarters in the United States, but France still favors the old fashioned hoarding of the precious metal.

H. Schacht, former head of the German Reichsbank, had a fine appreciation of the inner philosophy of present day finance, and some European observers consider his retirement from the scene, caused indirectly by Sir Philip Snowden's dramatics at the Hague last summer, an international calamity. Though Snowden's maneuver was seemingly directed against France the burden for increasing Britian's share of the reparations was passed on to Germany, and led to the series of events which culminated in Schacht's resignation.

The recent cut in the rediscount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to the lowest level in its history is an indication that our bankers are alive to the consequences of the deflationary forces at work.

Manipulation of interest rates cannot immediately arrest the fall in commodity prices, but should in time check the decline and establish stabilization. A new equilibrium in commodity prices would do much to restore confidence in the business situation. Of course, in 1921, the upturn in business preceded a turnabout in commodity prices, instead of following it.

Grand Union Store Sales Increase

NEW YORK, June 26.—Grand Union Company store sales for 24 weeks ended June 14 totaled $16,662,406, against sales of $14,455,641 for the same period in 1929, an increase of 15.2 per cent.

The improvement in sales has occurred in a period in which there has been no increase in number of units in operation.

Pennsylvania Net Shows Decrease

The Pennsylvania Railroad month of May net operating income was $9,393,964, against $13,158,749 in May, 1929.

For five months net was $38,186,388, against $52,783,590 in 1929.

Holding of American Wheat Continues

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE FEDERAL FARM BOARD still expects to liquidate its holdings of wheat at a satisfactory price. This was indicated by Chairman Legge in a recent statement. He said that the stabilization corporation is making no effort to dispose of the 1929 crop of wheat.

While future developments may alter the situation, the attempts at the stabilization of wheat prices have not had particularly encouraging results so far. Current wheat prices are at the low level since the war and are off about 50 cents from a year ago.

The board has about $50,000,000 tied up in its investment in last year's wheat. In the largest attempt to control the price of a commodity in business history, the co-operatives and the Farm Board in this country and the wheat pool in Canada have let their principal markets go to other producing countries and are still carrying enormous quantities of wheat. The first round of the world battle for the control of the wheat market has definitely gone to the European consuming countries.

Carrying Charge High

WHILE THE POLICY of holding wheat may eventually show itself to have been justified by changed market conditions, the enormous costs of carrying the huge stocks are making the experiment an expensive proposition.

It costs about one cent a bushel to store wheat for a month, plus the interest on the money tied up in it. This makes it necessary to secure a very favorable market in selling in order to compensate for the expense of holding wheat for a period of years.

Supplies Large

IT MAY BE NECESSARY for those in control of wheat on this continent to hold their surplus stocks for a long period. The supplies of old wheat are large. Prospects for the coming crops are favorable. The stocks of wheat in North America are practically as great as the large carryovers a year ago.

About July 1 the new crop in this country will be harvested. A month later the Canadian crop year will end. Although foreign stocks of wheat are low, the importers are not disposed to load up as long as they know that there is plenty of wheat available and no influences are appearing on the horizon which are likely to advance the market.

Building Elevators

A YEAR AGO the large harvests of wheat with an abnormally small movement for export resulted in acute shortage of storage space at many points. Efforts are being made to avert a repetition of such a condition this year. It is generally believed that elevator space will be adequate.

The additions to storage facilities will greatly aid the further attempts at grain stabilization since the small co-operatives, backed by government funds, will be able to keep excess grain off the market without the danger of being forced to dispose of their holdings due to lack of elevators.

Up to June 14 a 200 per cent increase in contracts for building concrete grain storage facilities was shown at Minneapolis over the corresponding period of last year. Construction work has also been large at other important grain storage points.

VALLEY STEEL UPTURN SEEN

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 26.—The opinion grows among Youngstown Iron and Steel executives that business is now near bottom and an upturn is predicted toward the latter part of July, gathering strength in August. Companies have notified employes to conclude vacations by the middle of August, anticipating a return to more normal conditions by that time.

Newton Steel Company has taken out a fabricators license for manufacture of flat rolled rustless steel under the Krupp-Nirosta patents and expects eventually that such production will represent 25 per cent of its output. Sharon Steel Hoop at Sharon is also licensed under the same patents.

Newton is now operating at 40 per cent, its lowest rate in several years, but expects operations to trend upwards as automobile companies get into production on new models.

SAMUEL GOLDSTEIN, Attorney-at-Law, 1206 Grand Street, Pittsburgh, Penna. In the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, State of Pennsylvania, No. 1, March Term, 1930. Petition for Decree to Sell Real Estate. To the Honorable, the Judges of said Court: The petition of Max Goldstein and Rachel Goldstein, his wife, respectfully represents: That they are husband and wife and have been such for more than two years last past. That they are the owners of a certain lot of ground situate in the Borough of Wilkinsburg, Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, bounded and described as follows, to wit: [illegible] That your petitioners desire to sell the said lot of ground and have received a bona fide offer therefor in the sum of Four Thousand Dollars ($4,000.00). That your petitioners are desirous of selling the said lot of ground for the purpose of paying the debts of your petitioner, Max Goldstein, and for the purpose of investing the balance of the proceeds of sale in another property. That your petitioners are willing to pay the costs of this proceeding. Wherefore your petitioners pray your Honorable Court to grant a decree authorizing them to sell the said lot of ground and to make, execute and deliver a deed therefor to the purchaser thereof. And they will ever pray, etc. Samuel Goldstein, Attorney for Petitioners. Gregory Zatkovich, Attorney-at-Law, 6 Nicholas Bldg. Pittsburgh, Pa. In the Orphans' Court of Allegheny County, State of Pennsylvania, No. [illegible] A.D. 1930. Estate of Peter Rumsey, late of Pittsburgh, deceased. DAILY TRUE STORY

"LOVE'S BLESSINGS"

Marcia Locksley was—well, she was Marcia Locksley. Wasn't that quite enough?"

She was in "the book." Her ancestors had been in the book since there had been a book listing the social salt of the country, and they had been prominent for generations before that time.

There were wealthier families to be sure. Yet the Locksley fortunes were plenty and more. But there were none who ranked higher socially.

Marcia had been "out" four seasons.

She was very beautiful in a raven-haired pale skinned way, and very sure of herself.

There were any number of titled foreigners who aspired to Marcia's hand. Some also aspired to her wealth. Others had wealth and still hoped to win the beautiful socially famous daughter of the Locksleys.

Marcia might have been Duchess of This or That or even a princess, by marriage but it was evident that she was not interested in gentlemen of title.

Since Marcia had been quite young it was taken for granted—at least in the Locksley and the Bainbridge families—that all in good time, if both of them lived, Marcia would marry Philip Bainbridge.

The Bainbridges were also in "the book." They too had been there for generations. There were soldiers and statesmen and financiers in the Bainbridge family and there was a very great fortune.

"No alliance could be more ideal—more naturally ideal," Marcia's aunt had said many times, "than that of Marcia and Phil."

To her little group of intimate girl friends Marcia would say, "Of course ultimately we shall marry Phil and I. While it is all sort of cut and dried still I can't think of anything more desirable."

Phil Meets Actress

Meanwhile Marcia went her apparently happy and somewhat dignified way. When it was time to be seen on the Riviera, Marcia was there. For a bit at the right season she was at St. Moritz. There was the London season—Marcia had been "presented." Whether it was for a while on the sands at Palm Beach or on the rugged coast at Bar Harbor, Marcia would be seen there if it were the proper season.

Everything had to be so proper, of course. There were things that one does and things that one does not do.

Marcia could not be imagined doing what one does not do at any season or place.

Now and then she would be with Phil Bainbridge at one resort or the other, although there were long seasons when Marcia was away, when she was resting, or yachting away from Philip.

Philip's old grandfather used to get annoyed at him. At his age he thought considerably of grandchildren.

"High time you quit shooting beasts in Africa or rapids in Canada, Philip," the old man would say. "High time you two got married and settled down."

"I expect so, sir," Philip would answer.

And he did believe that they were right—it was all planned and expected of him. He and Marcia would marry and he saw no reason to want things otherwise—only there was no hurry. He liked to travel and shoot and fish with his friends and make long yacht trips in the South Seas.

He had his own abundant fortune and when the grandfather got through with his, that would go to Philip.

Phil and Marcia had been photographed together on shipboard, at Palm Beach, at St. Moritz, and on the avenue on Easter Sunday.

Some day, society editors figured, there would be a dignified, formal announcement of the engagement of Marcia Locksley and Philip Bainbridge and later the wedding.

Philip knew people in all quarters of the world. Some seemed to believe that he was just a good-natured, wealthy and somewhat stupid society man. Others knew better—especially his intimate friends.

Philip knew a great deal more than people believed, and he was constantly learning more.

Just about the time he had decided he should marry and settle down he became acquainted with Thyra Lawrence. She was an actress. She came from a respectable but not wealthy or socially prominent family, and she was quite proud of her success on the stage.

Realizes His Love

Phil and Marcia had been chatting just about this time.

Phil had said, "I suppose we'll be getting married this time next year, Marcia."

"No reason why not—it's expected of us. Who are we to disappoint them?" Marcia had replied.

And then Philip had become acquainted with Thyra Lawrence.

Thyra's hair was almost bronze—a gorgeous crown. Her complexion was that of a healthy child and her eyes were deep blue, with fire and feeling. She was no more like Marcia Locksley than anything at all.

Philip thought she was wonderful the first time he met her. He had backed a production for a college friend of his and had dropped in at a rehearsal. Phil was always helping out a few of his deserving college friends.

Phil went to a lot of rehearsals.

Marcia had gone abroad again.

Suddenly Phil discovered that he was in love with Thyra Lawrence.

It came as a jolt to him.

It was out of the question—his old grandfather would pop off with apoplexy if ever he married an actress. Marcia's friends would be aghast—Marcia would be terribly hurt and doubtless disgusted.

Still, Phil was in love with Thyra. Every time he saw her he realized that he was more and more in love with her.

As for Thyra, she didn't know very much about Philip except that he was said to be well off and of a nice family. But she did know that he was the sort of man she wanted.

"Thyra," Phil said to her one night, "you are the most wonderful girl I ever met. I mean aside from the fact that you are a natural and perfect actress."

"Dear boy—what's the answer to that one?" Thyra asked.

Philip wanted to take her in his arms and tell her that the answer was love—that he wanted to marry her—that he would take no refusal.

But he didn't quite dare.

There were the members of the two families—they expected him to marry Marcia. There was Marcia—she expected it. Perhaps whole rows of ancestors would turn in their graves if Philip Bainbridge married an actress.

Phil sighed.

Plan Announcement

"It doesn't require an answer, dear girl. I was just stating a fact. You are beautiful and wonderful. I have to leave you."

Thyra held the hand that covered hers.

"Do you have to go, Phil?" she asked.

"Imperative. Thyra—be back before many months — see you then."

There was something in her eyes that made Phil kiss her.

He went away telling himself that before he dared come back to her he would have to be fortified by the formal announcement of his engagement to Marcia Locksley.

And so Phil, who hadn't intended to go away, went along with Vic Kingsley on his yacht. They went to many places. They kept away from the beaten path.

Now and then, when a few days in London, Paris, Nice, or even Rangoon and Cairo, Philip heard about Marcia. It seemed that Marcia was hopping about quite a bit—or was she?

Phil had dropped Marcia a note. It would reach her through her bankers. He suggested meeting her in London during the season and he had added:

"It's about time for an engagement announcement."

A letter from Marcia, mailed from Port Said, reached him at Gibraltar. It quite suited her to send the announcement from London, she wrote.

But by the time Phil got this letter he was a changed young man, and his thoughts were almost constantly of Thyra Lawrence. He left his friend, Vic Kingsley, and took a fast liner home.

And then Marcia came back.

She dropped in, with her aunt, to call on old Grandfather Bainbridge.

"After all, my dear Phil, we're Americans. It will be better to announce our engagement from this side of the big pond," she said.

Phil bowed gravely — his thoughts were of Thyra.

Marries Thyra

Thyra opened in a new production, "The Actress." Phil took Marcia to see it.

"She is the most wonderful creature," Phil told her, "and the most wonderful actress imaginable!"

Thyra's leading role was that of a woman with a secret past, who has her moments of doubt, then laughs aside all memories of former passions and follies and makes the marriage that lands her on solid financial and social ground.

"Can't agree, dear boy," Marcia said. "She isn't acting—it's real with her. Her sort have those hectic pasts, you know."

Phil looked steadily at Marcia Locksley.

"You are wrong," he said, coldly. "Thyra is a great actress. I know of only one who is equal to her."

"Who, Philip?"

"Yourself, Marcia," Phil said, quietly. "Thyra is a sweet, good woman and yet she acts the bad woman to perfection. As for you—you are not a good woman, but you act the part of a good woman to perfection."

Marcia Locksley stared at Phil for a moment. Then she laughed a hard, bitter little laugh.

"I refer to Fannie Allison's husband and you, on his yacht alone for weeks every summer for the past four seasons, Marcia."

"All right, Phil. You are right then. We are both good actresses, only I am the bad actor and she's your pure lady fair—that it?"

"I'm going to marry Thyra, if she will have me," Phil admitted.

He put Marcia in his car and sent her home. He went back stage and saw Thyra at the end of the play.

He told her the story of the two great actresses—except that he never once mentioned Marcia's name.

Despite certain beliefs to the contrary, the old world rolled right along without a convulsion, even if Phil Bainbridge did marry that little red-headed actress, Thyra Lawrence!

That crime is on the increase is evidenced by the fact that student patrolmen in New York's police college have adopted the following official song:

VERSE

Here you see us marching in,
Trained and fit to do anything.
Our exhibition soon you'll see
We'll show how good our school has been,
How well they've taught us our stuff,
And hope it meets with your approval.

CHORUS

To the rules, to the laws,
To the duties we have before us,
To the youth, to the fire,
To the life that is moving and calling us,
To the gods, to the fates,
To the rulers of men and their destinies,
To the lips, to the eyes,
To the girls who will love us some day.
We thank the Mayor for our boss,
We hope we'll get no other,
Let's give him a hand once again,
If he should leave, it be our loss.
Then fill the air with hearty praise,
Shout till the Garden rings,
Sing a song to Alma Mater,
The college of our rookie days.

I gave the matter considerable study, and figured out a plan whereby our citizens, by purchasing no toothpaste at all, can save enough to buy two pairs of bedroom slippers! I am therefore organizing a syndicate to carry on a national campaign of advertising on the proposition. Briefly, I will go into the toothpaste business without having to manufacture or sell a single tube of toothpaste! This cuts the overhead way down and should result in enormous profits."

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT

Further Terminal Delay Would Be Inexcusable

If only as a gesture, only as a pledge that we "mean business," City Council should take immediate steps to acquire the river-rail terminals recommended by the Department of Public Works in its recent report.

Council is to meet tomorrow to consider the matter. There is a movement to propose postponement, a plan to lay the whole subject before the voters next November in the form of a bond election. The Sun-Telegraph agrees with President James Rae, of the Chamber of Commerce, that further delay would be a serious mistake.

There are a number of sound arguments in favor of going ahead at once. One that deserves earnest consideration is the desirability of doing everything possible at this time to furnish work to unemployed men by starting construction projects. But perhaps the most important reason for immediate action is the necessity of demonstrating, as Mr. Rae says, that Pittsburgh is really interested in the utilization of the rivers and has not been merely indulging in idle talk.

We profess to be very much concerned over the railroads' unfair freight rates. We say they are strangling our industries. For more than half a century we have been calling for a permanently navigable stage of water in the rivers, and telling ourselves how we would save money, shipping by water.

The government completed the nine-foot stage to Cairo and caught us napping. Some of the great steel and coal corporations had suitable docks, but there were no terminals for merchants and small shippers handling only a carload or less of freight at a time.

Now that municipal terminal plans, worked out in great detail, have been completed, and the War Department's consent obtained for construction, it will create a very unpleasant impression and arouse suspicion of our good faith if we find some excuse for further postponement, especially since there is no necessity for another delay.

A quarter of a million dollars is immediately available for the work, and there are believed to be other sources of funds that can be drawn upon at this time. It is pointed out by the Department of Public Works, for example, that the cost of making the North Side terminal accessible, estimated at $265,000, can properly be charged to street improvement bonds.

The Hays site can be leased, with option to buy, for an annual rental of $32,500, and while the first step of the department's construction program there calls for expenditure of $340,000, it reports there are already railroad tracks, a derrick and other equipment on the property which can be put in shape for about $10,000 and would make it possible to utilize the Hays terminal in handling limited amounts of heavy freight.

If the city can do nothing else at this time, let us at least make a modest beginning by developing the Hays site to the extent suggested, and put ourselves in position to tell the world our municipal rail-river terminal is a "going concern."

Citizen Soldiers

We Owe Them Much.

The announcement that units of the National Guard of Pennsylvania, with headquarters in this part of the state, are preparing for their annual encampment is a reminder of our indebtedness to these citizen soldiers.

They are giving up two weeks of their time for intensive training in military tactics. This is, of course, in addition to the many evening hours they spend in drill each week at their armories.

Young men regularly employed in civilian occupations, they devote what in the case of others would be their leisure time, their vacation period, to this service to the commonwealth.

Thanks to the National Guard, we do not have to maintain a large standing army. We owe much to our militia.

The Decadent French

Here Is an Example.

You often hear that the French are a decadent race, bound to die out in a few hundred years, not tough enough to survive.

Last week a Frenchman in South America gave an example of "decadence" that is interesting.

He is Henri Guillamat, mail aviator. He set out in his plane from Santiago, Chile, for Mendoza, Argentina. It is winter there now. Snow forced him down on a high peak, and his plane turned over and was demolished.

Guillamat, badly bruised, spent the night in a blizzard, walking around the wreck to keep from freezing. He spent the next day the same way. On the following day he started down the mountain. He slipped on the ice and tumbled 400 feet down the side of a precipice. His provisions were lost in the fall. He was so badly injured that every step he took was one of acute suffering. Starving and afraid to sleep, he marched for 48 hours more until at last he stumbled into a sheep herder's hut and was rescued.

Eventually he reached Mendoza, and is now ready to fly again, after his week's experiences.

Decadent? We'll say.

Artificial Cows

And Cowboys.

The British Research Association for the woolen and worsted industries predicts a revolution in sheep and cattle raising, thanks to science.

By cutting off a piece of skin from a live sheep and placing it in a chemical solution, it has been discovered that the skin can be nourished indefinitely and produce wool year after year.

The association also finds that artificial cattle—or at least artificial cowhide—can be grown by the same method.

Which is very interesting, and makes you wonder if there is any chance for the return of the drug store cowboy. He was once a familiar figure in every city, but of late he has been missing.

Maybe it is his turn now to stage a comeback.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Original Estimate

The Rockefellers are going to spend $250,000,000 on a new bungalow in New York City.

If we had interviewed either one of the Rockefellers about this little place he might have consented to answer in rotation.

"Bugs" Baer

"Mr. Rockefeller, why are you spending $250,000,000 on a building in New York City?"

"Well, my boy, I have always wanted a place with two baths."

"Is it true that you are going to install a broadcasting plant in the office?"

"Sure, we will have a national hook-up with our filling stations. If you want oil you ask for Amos and when you want gas you ask for Andy."

"Are you going to be the mastoid of cerymonies?"

"Absolutely. I have always wanted to scold people without giving them the privilege of answering back."

"They tell us that the building is going to be so high that the elevators are going to be manned by a Zeppelin crew."

"That's wrong. We're going to use balloons for elevators. When you want to go higher you throw out a sandbag. There will be four motion pictures in the building and we have already contracted for the 1931 graduating classes of West Point and Annapolis. Gen. Dawes is coming to take charge of the ushers."

"Is Roxy going to put on the shows?"

"Yes. We have too much money. And Roxy will take care of that."

"They tell us that your structure will be so high you are going to use the Woolworth Building for a fireplug."

"Well, compared to us we will make the Chrysler Building resemble a subway kiosk. We are going to keep on building until the blue prints change to another color."

"What's the idea of the whole jigger, Mr. Rockefeller? Is it for purposes of science and research?"

"No. We are spending $250,000,000 just to find out how much more the architect will ask for. Anybody who has ever built a home knows that the original estimate is about as reliable as an indorsement on the back of an autumn leaf. So we decided to smother our architect in $250,000,000 just to enjoy hearing his muffled cries for more mortar.

"That's the whole thing in a peanut bag. We don't need another building. In fact, we got three in China we are not using. We also have six garages in Florida that will make nice hotels for the next boom. Now you get the motif. We hate architects."

ANTOINE LAVOISIER

By Archibald Henderson

Lavoisier, who has been not inaptly termed the father of modern chemistry, reaped richly where others had sowed. During a visit to the continent of Priestley and his patron, the Marquis of Lansdowne, Priestley explained to Lavoisier how he had obtained "dephlogisticated air" by heating red oxide of mercury in 1774. For almost two centuries preceding, scientists labored under the delusion known as the "phlogiston theory." This was the belief that combustible bodies consisted of an invisible substance called "phlogiston" and an ash or "calx."

Priestley was an erratic experimenter who was under the domination of this fantastic theory. Lavoisier, animated with the true spirit of modern science, set to work to determine the nature of the gas isolated by Priestley. He proceeded to repeat Priestley's experiments in the reverse directions, causing the so-called "dephlogisticated air" to unite with mercury under quantitative conditions.

In one of his experiments, as recorded by Dampier-Whetham in his "History of Science," Lavoisier heated to just below its boiling point four ounces of mercury in contact with 50 cubic inches of air. Red calx of mercury was formed and increased till the twelfth day. The weight of the calx was 45 grains, and the volume of the residual air was 42 to 43 cubic inches, five-sixths of the original volume, so that seven to eight cubic inches had been used up. The residual air would not support combustion, and small animals died in it in a few minutes.

The 45 grains of red calx were then heated strongly in a small retort. Forty-one and a half grains of metallic mercury and a gas were formed. The latter was collected over water, measured, and found to fill seven to eight cubic inches and to weigh three and a half to four grains. But 41½ plus 3½ make up 45 grains, so that all the substance was accounted for. The total mass had remained constant. The gas maintained both flame and life more vigorously than ordinary air.

Lavoisier's own words on this subject deserve quotation: Reflection on the conditions of this experiment shows that the mercury on calcining absorbs the salubrious and respirable portion of the atmosphere, and that the portion of the air which remains behind is a noxious kind of gas incapable of supporting combustion and respiration. Hence atmospheric air is composed of two elastic fluids of different and so to speak opposite nature.

Lavoisier thus gave the death blow to the phlogiston theory. He showed that it was quite superfluous. Lavoisier, by the unanswerable argument of the balance, showed that although matter may alter its state in a series of chemical actions, it does not change in amount. The quantity of matter is unaltered.

Lavoisier gave to the part of the air, with which a substance during burning combines chemically, the name oxygen (which means the acid-forming element). The water-forming element, or gas which was one of the constituents of water, he named hydrogen. To the gas, which constitutes four-fifths of air, he gave the name nitrogen, which means "material of nitre."

Lavoisier's "Elementary Treatise on Chemistry," published in 1789, introduced a complete change in the nomenclature of science, and revolutionized the entire subject of chemistry. It is one of the most ironic circumstances of history that Lavoisier was guillotined!

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

Cavalrymen are supposed to be bowlegged, and some of them are, you know.

Well, there was a young man that lived near a cavalry post, and he always admired the officers that rode past his house, so when he had a fight with his dad he decided to go and join the cavalry.

He was met by a sentry or something that was standing guard near a building. The sentry was awful bow-legged.

The boy says, "I want to join the cavalry."

The sentry looked at him kinda with contempt, but he didn't waste any talk on him. He just turned and started towards the recruiting office.

"Walk this way!" he says.

The boy walked after him a few steps, watching his bow legs and trying to imitate him.

"It ain't no use," says the youngster, "I give up. I can't walk that way if I never get into the cavalry!"

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Don't be resigned!

Don't sit down in the midst of your misery—and say—"everything is for the best because it is God's will."

Everything that happens ISN'T for the best. Most of our troubles are the direct result of our own stupidity and cussedness and they can be licked if we want to lick them. Nor has there ever been the slightest proof that God will be annoyed if we do.

We have already licked many of them. Once people accepted smallpox, diphtheria, yellow fever, dungeons, slavery, illiteracy and other unspeakable conditions as crosses sent from God. Millions agonized and died, resigning themselves without a struggle to the Divine Will. But certain others DOUBTED, REBELLED and GOT BUSY—created serums, fought wars, made laws. And now we no longer pass the buck to God if a family dies from typhoid through drinking tainted milk. We know that God did not will that tragedy, but that we wished it on ourselves through our own neglect.

The slave pens and fever swamps of 1830 have disappeared. But there are still slave pens and fever swamps in your own life. Don't endure them! Don't be patient with them LET YOURSELF REBEL!

For Rebellion is already with you. It was born when you were born—it is in all creatures when they are born. It is the reason why they are born. That urge for fuller, freer life is not something you have created. It is something God created. It is the voice of God, crying out in you—reaching out in you for something better than you have or are.

Before even men walked or birds flew or beasts prowled, there was Rebellion in the world. It moved like a Presence over the face of the deep, through the steam and chaos of creation. When life was only a lump of jelly, that jelly rebelled. It reached toward fuller, freer forms. It grew tails and fins and leaves and roots and legs and wings and, finally, a brain. And so came trees and flowers and Man—the fruit of that Rebellion. And now Man, in his turn, rebels and reaches toward still greater life.

The lump of jelly did not think. It did not even feel. It only responded to a desire that the Creator put in it. Man does think, but the urge in him and the urge in that formless jelly are the same urge—part of the same great purpose and plan.

There IS a "will of God"—but it is not a Will toward sickness and sin and poverty and death. It is a Will toward health and happiness and more abundant life. And the rebellion in you is the voice of that Will, driving you on.

Do not disregard that voice. Do not stifle it with your laziness or cowardice. It is the greatest and most sacred thing in you. Rebel! Find your place in the sun!

Write your problems to Elsie Robinson and she will be glad to give a personal reply. Address communications to Miss Robinson in care of this newspaper.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

High Tide

The voice of ocean roars, the crashing tide
Beats with sudden fury on the strand,
And with a power that will not be denied
It sweeps in triumph on the crouching land.
The strongest swimmer breasts the waves in vain,
Less than a leaf tossed on the tempest's breath,
Less than a feather on the hurricane;
Green heights, green depths about him shriek of death.

Yet, to the swimmer who has ventured out
And felt no terror, even in defeat,
Always there lingers in the high tide's shout
A sense of struggle which is strangely sweet;
It is a call to battle that he hears,
A challenge ever ringing in his ears.

Text for Today

For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever shall lose his life for my sake and the gospel's, the same shall save it. For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?—Mark viii:35, 36.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

We can also say with a reasonable confidence that special genes control such diverse characters as hair color and hair shape, the tendency to produce twins, and the pitch of the voice.

Moreover, it has been shown that such a trivial peculiarity as the presence of a white lock in the region of the head can be due to a dominant gene, and so it seems is the "Hapsburg" lip—the fleshy lower jaw which Haecker has traced back in portraits of the Hapsburg royal line from the present day to the fifteenth century.

H. G. Wells

The kinkiness of Negroes' hair seems to be a simple dominant to the straight or wavy hair of other races.

The shape of the nose is controlled by at least four pairs of genes; convex bridge is dominant to the snub. The property which causes the blood of some people to clot other bloods, making them useless for blood-transfusion is also inherited in a Mendelian way.

Certain forms of dwarfism are due to a single recessive gene, and so are some congenital forms of short-sightedness and club-foot.

In some cases, at least, left-handedness is inherited as a single recessive character, though the picture is complicated by the tendency to force right-handedness on children by training. The "almond eye" of many Asiatic peoples is also a recessive.

But besides such human characters which obviously obey Mendel's law or segregation, there are many others which, though less clear-cut, we can affirm to be inherited, without yet being able to assign them to the action of definite genes.

This, however, is merely due to the fact that the biologist cannot conduct properly planned breeding experiments with his own species. Wherever experiments can be carried out, differences which are inherited turn out to be due to differences in one or several gene-units, and man in his heredity undoubtedly works like the rest of life.

For determining whether such less sharply-marked human characters are inherited we often have to fall back upon the statistical method known as correlation; we cannot go into the details here but must refer our readers to books like Carr-Saunders' Eugenics or Karl Pearson's Grammar of Science. But the results of this analysis are very definite.

All kinds of differences between human beings may owe their origin to innate differences of constitution: height, proportions, temperament, disease-resistance, intellectual ability.

Environment also has its moulding effect, but within a single social stratum on the average the differences between one human being and another are due much more to heredity than environment, much more to genes than to home and school and the accidents of life.

Sec. 6. Color Genes in America.

Here perhaps as an example of the way in which the Geneticist deals with more intricate pedigrees than those we have hitherto considered we may note some interesting studies worked out by C. B. Davenport upon the mixture of the white and black strains in the United States.

He starts his investigations from the mating of "pure" whites with "pure" blacks. His inquiries show that the first hybrid generation, the true mulatto, is very uniform and intermediate between the parents.

The next generation, however, if mulattos intermarry, is surprisingly varied. Single families of course will give purely chance results, but taken in the large the following consequences have been established.

In this second generation there are no such gradings of cream and coffee as the blood-mixture theory would require. On the contrary, the offspring are conspicuously diverse and all sorts of graduations between extreme black and extreme white occur, with halfway mulattos in a majority.

If the resulting population continues to interbreed the same confusion persists; there will be everything from coal black to white.

Now at first sight this does not look as clear as the case of the Four-o'clock; nevertheless the same principles can be traced in it.

ON THE ATLANTIC

By O. O. McIntyre

ON THE ATLANTIC, June 26.—An Atlantic voyage attracts a collection of types as distinct as a first night at the Metropolitan, the opening of Belmont or a Ziegfeld premiere. There are few places so auspicious for strutting as a ship's salon, smoker or promenade deck.

There is invariably the art dealer whose coat lapel is threaded with the red of French honors. Also the glacial lady with heavily kohled eyes and bright nails who becomes "the mystery woman." She smokes cigarets through a long holder and has a French maid named Fifi.

She is variously reported as the crepe de chine companion of an international banker or an American wife incognito galloping to Paris for a week-end divorce. Too, the blond dancing twins on their way to fill an engagement at the Kit Kat or some other London night club.

In the bar will always be found a tweedy and monocled fellow who only lifts his face from what must be an absorbing book long enough to say "Cheerio Reggie" or "Howdjudu Trevor" to some passing acquaintance. He sips tea all day long and you can have my stock in him—at Panic prices.

The salon may be depended upon to furnish at least one lorgnette lifting and dumpy dowager of whom some blundering yap will inquire: "First trip?" only to receive her withering: "Forty-second!" accompanied by a high nosed sniff. She has a dried up little husband who trots after her like a poodle.

And there is the trigger-minded worlding who is always saying the things you wish you might have said. He knows everybody on the boat and is calling the Captain "Cap" the second day out. He is the sort you don't care to talk to but you somehow want him around.

On every ship one will find this assortment, along with the venerable white haired couple who sit holding hands and thrilling to the first trip abroad; the porcine gentleman whose expansive white shirt front refuses to stay put and the inevitable straw blond who is the ship's vamp.

An ocean voyage stresses the nuisance of the telephone in our high keyed civilization. Telephoning to ships has not reached the stage of bother as yet and the relief is a high spot. When I acquire coupon clipping callouses I intend to have a dead telephone placed under glass in my up-the-Hudson castle and bound out of bed every morning to dance around and thumb my nose at it.

The only two books visible in the captain's quarters were "History of the United States" and "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Incidentally, I am told the lady-whose-name-is-not - mentioned - here recently sent the society reporter of a New York paper an autographed copy of a book she authored reading: "To Maury—WHO I Adore!"

Perhaps the most discussed couple aboard ship is a high jumping flapper with a wild friz of orange hair and a sleek black-haired gigolo type. She wears sandals, but no stockings, and they walk around deck sipping brandy from wide and delicately flanged glasses. They seem perpetually blotto. The rumor is they are newly weds from Chicago but I am one of those "O, Yeah?" boys who always suspect the worst—and I wonder why they call it the worst?

My choice for ship reading is the bloodthirsty. Last night I had a big time as we rolled along. There were Scotland Yard men, a one-eyed Chinese, the villianous "Rat of Los Angeles" and Kitty the Gimp fighting for the Duchess' jewels in the dank causeways of Limehouse. I awakened dreaming Harry Thaw was under the bed with a jeweled dirk.

In a short while we sight the Scilly islands—pronounced "Silly." I have always had a hunch some of my forebears came from there.

The ship's bells have just tolled 4 a. m. The aquamarine blue of the sea is tinged with the lovely pink of another glorious dawn. And forgive a softie for recalling that beautiful and classical line: "And jocund day stands tiptoe on the misty mountain tops!" The sea makes you mushy like that.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You have probably had the experience of asking the employe of another to grant you a favor against the rules of his superior.

This happens often in the case of reporters.

You request that a certain story be kept out of the paper.

The rules of the newspaper they represent require facts while they are new.

The reporter who does not write facts as he knows them, or who omits a story without giving his superior the details of it, is bound to lose his job if it is found out.

A reporter or any other man owes allegiance first to the one who regularly employes him for his services.

An employer has a right to expect a loyal and strict adherence to the rules of his establishment and he should feel confident that at all times his interests will be considered first.

It is unfair to ask a man to go contrary to the rules of his firm.

If a thing is desired the request should never be made of an employe.

It is embarrassing to the employe, especially when he or she knows that there is no chance in the world of attention being paid to a request at variance with the policy of the organization.
